U. S. Agents Delay German Liner Hurrying to Avoid Seizure

New York, Aug. 28 [Special].—The German liner Bremen, which docked 1,669 Americans late today, was held in port by United States authorities tonight against the desire of her officers to leave at once for a dash back to Germany.

Stephen Gibbons.

The Bremen docked, after a mystery shrouded trip and prepared to join all other Nazi ships in a flight to home ports to escape seizure by British cruisers in case war is declared. After docking late today the liner made speedy preparations to begin its homeward voyage two hours or so before midnight.

But when the ship's officers applied to customs officials for clearance papers, usually a matter of formal routine for liners, they were amazed to learn that, on orders of United States treasury department officials, the sailing must be delayed for an inspection of the ship and its papers to determine whether all regulations have been complied with. The inspection will be made by Harry M. Curning, collector of the port.

Might Be Subject to Seizure.

Customs officials said that as a result of the inspection order the Bremen might not be able to leave until midmorning tomorrow, if then. This delay of several hours may become a vital matter in view of the fact that declaration of war during her homeward voyage to Hamburg might make the liner subject to instant seizure.

In explanation of the government's action, Stephen Gibbons, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs, said in Washington that it was impossible to apply the necessary inspection to a vessel of the Bremen's size in a few hours. Normally such applications for clearance documents are made twenty-four hours or more in advance.

It was believed here that the treasury department was not inclined to hurry in this particular case, and officials said that it was the policy of the department "in such circumstances" to be extremely careful.

Ships Officers Surprised.

It was the first time in the memory of shipping men that the sailing of a vessel of the Bremen's size and importance had been delayed by such an order. The most surprised of all were officers of the ship and of the North German Lloyd line, its owners.

The Bremen was the last of the important Nazi ships to be recalled from the port of New York. The German liner New York headed for home empty early today and a sister ship, the St. Louis, sailed without passengers or cargo last night.

The Bremen came into the New York port about twelve hours behind schedule and offered no explanation for the delay. It was known, however, that her movements had been erratic and for a period of two days she had refused all radio messages.

French Liner Arrives.

A similarly mysterious trip was made by the French liner Normandie which arrived here before the Bremen today with 1,417 passengers aboard. It had made a speedy trans-Atlantic trip under war conditions, with lights being dimmed at night and refusing all radio messages. Acknowledgement of radio messages would disclose the position of a ship.

The Normandie was the first large vessel to reach this port since the war situation in Europe became acute enough to send American travelers home. Hundreds of its passengers believed during the trip that war had been declared. On Thursday the Normandie overtook the Bremen and exchanged the usual greetings at sea.

Meantime extraordinary measures were being taken to bring home the

HOW THE POLES HANDLED THEIR OWN "DANZIG" PROBLEM

In 1920, when Poland was engaged in a life and death struggle with the invading soviet armies, the Czech troops seized the Teschen region, with its rich coal and iron deposits, its great foundries and munition works, its 320 square miles of territory with 260,000 inhabitants, 65 per cent Polish. This vital region was claimed by both Czechs and Poles.

The Poles never forgave this "treachery," and when the Munich conference granted Hitler immediate occupation of Sudeten regions the Poles, with 500,000 troops, took this auspicious moment to demand instant possession of Teschen.

A disillusioned Czecho-Slovakian government surrendered one of its most vital industrial regions to the Poles, who were greeted gladly by most of the inhabitants. For nine days the Polish troops marched into Teschen and the important rail junction of Bohumin, anticipating the advancing Germans by some days. And nobody particularly objected because the district was formerly Polish and the population predominantly Polish.

JOE THE CROW GETS IN BAD WITH BOSS AND THEN WITH NEIGHBOR

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 28 (AP).—Joe the Crow, a pet of of Billy Benns, developed the habit of pecking the stoppers off the milk bottles and drinking the cream, so Benns instructed the milkman to leave the bottle under a can. Now Mrs. O. S. Kratzer, two blocks down the street, complains Joe is coming to her house and drinking her cream.

HOLLAND TELLS YANKS TO LEAVE; FACING OUSTER

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 28 (AP).—Advertisments in newspapers today gave urgent notice to all American citizens to leave the Netherlands as soon as possible.

Netherlands authorities said Americans who entered Holland from other countries must leave in a few days or face deportation to the countries from which they came. In a broadcast appeal to the nation tonight, Queen Wilhelmina called for unity and affirmed the country's will to maintain neutrality. Lieut. Gen. I. H. Reynders, chief of the general staff, was appointed commander-in-chief of Holland's army and navy. General mobilization, bringing the army to 400,000 men, was ordered during the day.

CANDY DEALERS TO CONVENE IN LOLLYPOP LAND

Trees of licorice and marshmallow and giant fifteen pound lollypops were set up yesterday in the exhibition hall of the Hotel Sherman to provide atmosphere for the candy manufacturers and distributors from Illinois and surrounding states who will open their second candy club show today.

More than 15,000 candy dealers are expected to attend the four day convention. In addition to discussion of merchandising problems and policies, the dealers will be faced with the problem of selecting the Sweetest girl in the district and the Sugar Daddy of the show.

G-Men Trap Public Enemy No. 4 in Flat

Joseph Paul Cretzer, who is wanted for eight bank robberies on the west coast and is listed by the federal agents as Public Enemy No. 4, was arrested by federal agents yesterday in an apartment at 3662 Pine Grove avenue. Cretzer's wife was seized with him. The two also have been sought for the shooting of a Michigan City policeman last June.

Cretzer was No. 5 on the list of public enemies until the arrest several days ago in New York City of Louis Lepke, alias Buchalter, a labor racketeer.

Record Starts in 1927.

Cretzer, who is 29 years old, and an ex-convict, has a record dating back to 1927 when he was sentenced to serve thirty days in a Denver jail for burglary. He has been arrested more than twenty times in western cities. His wife, whose picture has been identified as that of the woman who shot the Michigan City policeman, also is wanted for harboring a criminal. She uses the name Edna May [Teddy] Cretzer.

Last June Policeman Frank Cowgill and James Shelton stopped a couple near Michigan City to question them. The man drew a revolver, disarmed the policeman, and then handed his weapon to his companion, a small red headed woman. She guarded them while he drove the police patrol car out of sight. Policeman Cowgill attempted to escape and was shot in the leg by the woman.

Both Flee in Auto.

The woman was stunned by a blow from Policeman Shelton's blackjack, but her companion returned at this moment and both fled on foot.

The couple was seized in their apartment by agents under Daniel M. Ladd, chief of the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation. Cretzer had a pistol but did not attempt to resist arrest. They will be arraigned before a federal commissioner in the next few days for removal to Los Angeles.

Cretzer's wife is a sister of Arnold Thomas Kyle, who accompanied him on several bank robberies. Kyle and his wife were arrested in Minneapolis last May. He is awaiting trial.

According to federal agents the total amount of loot taken in the robberies was close to $40,000. One bank, the American Trust and Savings Association of Los Angeles, was held up three times. Some of the robberies were executed by Cretzer alone, federal agents said.

Cables Busy, So London Gets Paris News Via U. S.

New York, Aug. 28 [Special].—For the first time in the memory of this generation the British public today received news from France via the United States. The Paris correspondents of the News-Chronicle and the Daily Express of London, when unable to telephone or telegraph their stories from Paris because of congestion on the circuits crossing the channel, filed news dispatches with Press Wireless in Paris for wireless transmission to New York. In turn the dispatches were cabled to London.

80 NAZI BOMBERS FLY OVER SLOVAKIA; WHOLE LAND ON WAR FOOTING

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Aug. 28 (AP).—Eighty heavy bombers bearing the insignia of the Nazi reich were counted as they passed over Bratislava this afternoon. The squadrons were flying northward. Poland is to the north of Slovakia.

German military preparations in Slovakia were completed tonight for any eventuality. Mechanized divisions of Adolf Hitler's army occupied every strategic point along the 250 mile Slovak-Polish frontier, while three supply lines were established from former Austria to the forces in the north. German officers directed the operations of the Slovak telephone and railway systems from central headquarters in Bratislava.

The little capital city was decked with Nazi and Slovak flags. Its railroad station was guarded by German soldiers with fixed bayonets. The Slovak national government maintained authority over nonmilitary zones, but German troop movements were so widespread that many Slovaks were at a loss to know where German rule ended and Slovak rule began.

BRITAIN SAYS IT WILL FIGHT FOR POLES BUT GIVES NAZIS CHANCE TO BARGAIN

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—War threats still held the stage in Europe today, accompanied by a growing tendency to discount outward signs and theatrical effects as part of the diplomatic war of nerves.

Until the hawsers between Berlin and London are cut—and they are not cut yet—hope for a peaceful settlement over Poland has not been abandoned.

Judged from externals, the tension today was greater than ever. Actually, however, it appears that each side is trying to bully the other with his bellicose intentions in order to force some sort of a deal to avert war.

Quick Showdown Indicated.

Anglo-German differences appear to be due for a showdown within 24 hours. Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, who flew back to Berlin with the British response to Adolf Hitler's suggestions of last Friday, met the Fuehrer a few hours later.

Subsequently he telephoned to the foreign office in London, presumably to report Hitler's reaction to the British statement and the results of his talk with the Fuehrer.

Officials were silent about the telephone communication, and it was unlikely anything would be disclosed pending Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement to the house of commons, which has been summoned for tomorrow.

Stand Frankly Stated.

Events will turn on the nature of the British reply to Berlin. If Hitler decides another communication to London is required, more negotiations may be under way. If the British reply is a stone wall to Hitler, it may well be that Europe will plunge into war before midweek.

The communication which Henderson carried to the Fuehrer was approved at noon today during a fifty minute meeting of the British cabinet. British sources said the message explains with complete frankness the British standpoint on the Polish situation.

They said the note shows British readiness to facilitate a negotiated settlement between Germany and Poland.

End of Threats Sought.

It was reported the message contained a flat warning that any German threat to the independence of Poland would find England and France fighting on the side of the Poles.

The British message, it was said, also insists that there must be a preceding period of relief from the threat of hostilities. Afterward, England will be willing to participate in wider discussions of general pacification and world problems.

The fact, however, that the British sent counter proposals at all after Hitler bluntly told French Premier Edouard Daladier he wanted both Danzig and the corridor indicates to some that the British are still willing to concede much.

Hitler's demands for the corridor would appear to involve the cession of large areas of Polish territory to Germany.

Look for American Help.

The British appeared to be more optimistic about their position. They announced that the Anglo-Turkish pact, embracing pledges which were exchanged some time ago, would be signed in London tomorrow. They also seemed to think that the Japanese had decided to adopt a more friendly attitude toward England and that Spain's neutrality was assured.

Finally, they believed they were assured of war supplies from the United States in case of hostilities, because it was reported that the American congress most certainly now would heed President Roosevelt's demands for modification of the neutrality law.

Some of the stage effects in the war of nerves were inconsistent. While it was announced that the liner Queen Mary would sail Wednesday as scheduled, admiralty authorities told all British ships to keep out of the Mediterranean or to scurry for

GERMAN RATION ORDERS LIMIT WOMEN'S GOWNS

BERLIN, Aug. 28 (AP).—Nazi Germany's capital saw today the greatest run on its food stores in decades. Housewives hurried to grocer, butcher, dairyman, and other provisioners to get their names down for the new rationing process.

In addition, they bought whatever the dealers would give them of stocks not yet on the ration list. These included eggs, potatoes, flour, and canned goods of all sorts.

Curb on Women's Clothes.

Women learned that they must almost literally have not a thing to wear before they can buy anything new. The ration system forbids a woman to buy anything new if she has two dresses, three sets of underwear, two nightshirts or pajamas, two petticoats, six pairs of stockings, and six handkerchiefs.

Men have to get along with two suits and three shirts.

Two pairs of shoes are the limit for any one. Men may possess two pairs of winter gloves, but a woman only one.

Germans began to eat less of some favorite foods because of the government's rationing, which was called a "pre-war measure of conservation."

Gasoline to Be Doled.

Notice was given by the government that after Friday gasoline, too, will be rationed strictly. That is—rationed for those who are still allowed to retain their cars.

Under terms of the gasoline decree, the owner of an automobile must prove he needs his car and negotiate for the amount of gasoline he may purchase daily.

There already had been a ban on the sale of gasoline from 6 p. m. on Saturday to 8 a. m. on Monday.

Recall World War Days.

There is plenty of bread, potatoes, vegetables, rye and wheat flour. But there is less meat, sausage, marmalade, coffee, milk, and sugar as a result of the rationing.

Recalling its experience in the world war when, many contend, the country was starved into submission by the British blockade, Germany decided to ration itself now.

The government prescribed diet, as published yesterday, limits meat consumption a person for one week to 700 grams, approximately 24.7 ounces.

Here's What They Get.

The per capita rations of some other foods follow: Sugar, 9.9 ounces a week; marmalade, 3.9 ounces; breakfast foods, 5.3; coffee, 2.2; tea, .7 ounce a month; milk, 0.2 liters, a little less than half a pint, a day, with an additional .5 liters for children less than 6 years old if application is made. Expectant and nursing mothers also may get an additional ration of about three-fourths of a pint.

Consumption of dairy products, oils, and fats has been set at 60 grams, about 2.1 ounces, a day for each person, but a heavy laborer may get an additional 1.7 ounces. He also may have 17.3 ounces of meat more than others get each week.

Soaps and soap products also are rationed. For a period of four weeks each person will be given 125 grams, about 4.4 ounces of block soap or approximately 7 ounces of soft soap and 8.8 ounces of powdered soap.

100 Apaches Go on War Path Over Movie Contract

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 28 (AP).—When an Apache Indian becomes a movie actor, he believes in living up to that exalted position. C. B. Jamison, a studio technical director, reported that when he drew up a contract with 100 Apaches who will stage a battle scene, the tribesmen demanded: Milk, fresh vegetables and fruit, as well as meat; shelters to protect their bare skins from the sun; mattresses and bed springs; fat horses for bareback riding.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Aug. 28.—An official announcement tonight said 150 Polish infantrymen who crossed the Polish frontier into Slovakia at Cadca (Csacza) near the Jablunka pass, have been taken prisoners by German soldiers. The Polish officer in command, who attempted to escape, was shot. The frontier at this point is not clearly defined and it is probable the men did not know they were on foreign soil.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Aug. 28.—Father Josef Tiso, premier of Slovakia, tonight issued a proclamation that German soldiers would occupy Slovakia. He called upon the people to "receive these German troops peacefully and work shoulder to shoulder with them in protecting the Slovakian fatherland from Polish invasion."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 29 [Tuesday].—Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson, the emissary of the British empire, and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler were closeted together for an hour and a half behind the heavy bronze doors of the reich chancellery last night.

Henderson brought Great Britain's reply to Hitler's message of last Friday in which the Fuehrer stated his demands for Danzig, the Polish corridor [Pomorze] and other readjustments of frontiers and Polish treatment of minorities. Henderson also made a lengthy oral explanation of the written reply.

(London dispatches said the note, which was approved by the cabinet after three sessions, rejected Hitler's demands on Poland, but offered to help him negotiate with Warsaw.)

Word slipped out while Henderson and Hitler were conferring that the "door is not closed on further negotiations and there is a chance to avert war."

Will Publish Messages.

The Germans did not disclose the contents of the British note or the nature of the Henderson-Hitler discussion. The British embassy said any comment would have to come from the foreign office in London.

However, Nazi sources said that after a preliminary study of the British note, Hitler had found it "not wholly negative" and would send a written reply to Britain. The British note and the reply were to be published.

The belief was held here that the British note, while emphasizing Britain's determination to stand by its pledge to support Poland, even at the risk of war, nevertheless suggested negotiations with Warsaw under British assistance and under conditions which are held to permit the Germans to negotiate.

Paves Way for Danzig Grab.

Nazi sources assert that in urging such negotiations Britain also abandons the defense of the status quo.

The Nazis claim to be so satisfied with the British note that some officials asserted: "Now we can go ahead with our plans which call for a proclamation of the union of the Free City of Danzig and the reich tonight. If the Poles do nothing about it, then we know we can go ahead."

Military experts report that Germany's war machine will be in absolute readiness by Wednesday noon.

Three Fronts Defined.

The official news agency reported from Danzig early today that "strong" Polish troop concentrations along the Danzig-Polish border "continued in a striking manner during the last few hours." Three additional fronts were said to have been established by the Poles close against Germany proper and against East Prussia in addition to one deep in the corridor.

One of these was reported between Konitz and Nakel, where Germany fronts on the corridor; another against Marienwerder, Riesenburg, and Deutsch-Eylau, East Prussia, and the third against Upper Silesia.

[The Nazi information that Hitler had decided to "think things over" was taken in Paris to indicate that the British note might have paved the way for long negotiations. French circles said that only a "lightning stroke" by Hitler against Poland would keep the crisis from dragging out perhaps for weeks.

The British note, Paris sources indicated, was designed to maneuver Hitler into a technical and legal argument over his position as outlined to President Daladier and Prime Minister Chamberlain in personal messages. A French diplomat said the British note was so technical that a lengthy and detailed German reply would be necessary.]

Atrocity Stories Dwindle.

Sources close to the Nazi government believed that the Poles were beginning to weaken and said that "no new cases of persecution of the German population in Poland have become known today."

The lack of further reports was regarded as convenient for the Germans, because it makes it easier to tone down the hue and cry against Poland, should it be felt that this is advisable.

Reliable sources hoped that in the next forty-eight hours Germany could convince England that the many harrowing reports of Polish atrocities which have filled the Nazi press and radio were true.

Hope to Damage Prestige.

Nazis reckoned that if they could succeed in this, Poland's prestige would suffer so much that Chamberlain would be able to induce his countrymen to drop their sympathy for Poland.

[Poland issued an official statement last night repudiating the atrocity charges. The statement said in part: "The German press has been accusing Poland of brutal treatment of the German minority. That is not only untrue but definitly and entirely imaginary. These invented facts and information have appeared in the statements of the highest authorities of the German reich. The reich government apparently wanted to use them as a new instrument in their diplomatic game."]

Refer to Wilson's Points.

In private conversations officials of Wilhelmstrasse [the Nazi government center declared that Germany insisted on complete revision of her eastern borders.

Besides Danzig, Germany claims the district around the River Netze and the west Prussian towns of Bromberg [Bydgoszcz] and Kolmar [Chodziez]. Opinions about Posen [Poznan] were divided. Some say the Germans will agree to a plebiscite there.

Much talk can be heard about a plebiscite and President Wilson's fourteen points.

Nazis said that if there are to be any negotiations they must be on the basis of the Lansing letter of 1918 which Germany accepted as the basis for peace terms to end the world war. The Lansing letter included the proposal of President Wilson's fourteen points, the thirteenth of which called for an independent Polish state having free access to the sea.

[The thirteenth point called for "an independent Polish state . . . which should include the territories inhabited by indisputably Polish populations, which should be assured a free and secure access to the sea and whose political and economic integrity should be guaranteed by international covenant." Details of the points raised by the Lansing letter will be found on page 6.]

Germans argue that the free city of Danzig is entirely German. They argue further that in Pomorze, Poznan [Posen], and Upper Silesia the Poles got territory whose populations were more than 50 per cent Germans.

Germans assert that Poland was not to have been given access to the sea at the expense of territories which had predominant German populations. The German suggestion for free access to the sea is to internationalize the Vistula river which flows to the sea through Danzig.

Copy of map sent out by Nazi propaganda agents in Danzig to the United States pointing out how a "Boston corridor" might separate most of New England from the rest of the United States.

A Marseilles imaginary corridor which Hitler offered as an example in his letter to Premier Daladier of France.

Thousands of Chicago and New York residents yesterday were receiving post cards from Danzig presenting German reasons why the Polish corridor should be given to Germany.

On one side is a map of Poland which shows the provinces of Pomorze and Poznan with the word "corridor" written across them. On the opposite side is a map of New England showing an imaginary corridor running from Maine to New York and including all of Vermont and large slices of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The inclusion of Poznan, generally regarded as outside the Polish corridor, makes the two maps approximately the same size.

Authorities on propaganda pointed out that the same idea was included in Hitler's reply to Premier Daladier of France, in which he postulated a situation in which Marseilles took the place of Danzig and asked how Daladier would like it if a corridor separated that seaport from the rest of France. An interesting point was that the cards were mailed many days before Hitler's letter, and even arrived in New York aboard the German liner New York a full day before Hitler's letter was sent to Daladier.

POLAND GIVES UP SEEKING PEACE BY DIPLOMACY

WARSAW, Aug. 28.—Diplomatic activity has come to a standstill as far as Poland is concerned, it was stated at the foreign office today. The official attitude is that Poland has let its stand be known and that further discussions are not necessary.

It was stated semi-officially that Adolf Hitler's latest demands, which include not only Danzig and the corridor but all the lands that were within the eastern border of Germany in 1914, are preposterous.

One government spokesman told THE TRIBUNE that "Hitler is asking Poland to commit suicide. If we refuse, he threatens to murder us."

Bets were being laid in Warsaw coffee houses at odds of 10 to 1 that war is inevitable and at even money that it will break within 24 hours.

Warship's Guns on Gdynia.

To Poles, the most disturbing news of the day was that the old German warship, the Schleswig-Holstein, now a training ship, had left Danzig harbor and is now lying in front of Gdynia, the Polish fort, with her guns trained on the city. Semi-official circles here describe this as an act of war.

It was said, however, that the ship's move is an idle threat because it, in its turn, is under the guns of the Polish land battery on the Hela peninsula. It might be able to fire one broadside into the city, the Poles say, and they would then destroy it.

News of the German mobilization decreed for East Prussia was taken calmly. It was felt this was a detail in the ominous situation. It was also reported that Germans are evacuating all civilians from the border areas and this was regarded as another sign that war is inevitable.

Gas masks were issued by the foreign office to 200 newspaper and radio correspondents. Few Poles have received them, although having put in orders a month ago.

Warsaw Exceedingly Calm.

On this day of extreme tension, probably the worst since Sept. 28 last year, THE TRIBUNE correspondent was struck by the extraordinary calm of Warsaw's population. People looked intently at the headlines of newspapers—"Grave events probably will happen within the next few hours"—but they seemed undisturbed. I have not seen one woman in tears. Most of the people act as if war were infinitely remote. A contributory cause is the absence of the military. All troop movements through Warsaw appears to have been completed.

It is announced that two Polish consulates in Germany near the Silesian border, one at Moravska-Ostrava [Maerisch-Ostrau], in Moravia, and the other at Ktiwschen, have been blocked by Germans, with communications cut off.

Guerrilla War on Border.

Frontier incidents are being reported hourly. They indicate that along the whole length of Poland's border with Germany, 1,178 miles, guerrilla warfare is going on, with German patrols crossing the border and with incessant sniping and even some cases of machine gun fire and grenade throwing.

All trains from the border districts, especially from the corridor and Upper Silesia, are packed with people fleeing into the center of Poland, some even riding on the roofs of coaches.

Taxis in Gdynia, Poland's port near Danzig, are doing a rushing business, charging about $50 for a trip from Gdynia to Warsaw.

Premier Wields a Spade.

Every green spot in Warsaw has been covered with heaps of soil from new trenches. Even the front garden of Prime Minister Felician Slawoj-Skladkowski has been torn up, and the premier himself wielded a spade.

The Latvian and Lithuanian consulates have been besieged by persons clamoring for visas to leave Poland.

GERMAN LINER HELD UP AT N. Y. BY U. S. AGENTS

The United States liner Manhattan, due at Cobh, Ireland, today on its way to Europe, was ordered to omit its scheduled stop at Hamburg, Germany. It was directed to turn around immediately at Havre, France, which would bring it back here on Thursday, Sept. 7, a week ahead of schedule. It carried 500 extra cots and additional life rafts and belts to increase by 500 her regular capacity of 1,000.

The liner President Roosevelt, scheduled to leave Cobh today for New York after having canceled a scheduled stop at Hamburg, is bringing 535 passengers, an undetermined number above normal. It was also ordered to take on 150 cots.

Washington Due Thursday.

The American Banker had 42 of her 110 passengers on cots when she sailed Friday. Several other ships in the New York-London service will be augmented similarly.

The Washington is due Thursday with an extraordinarily heavy passenger list of 980. Among those on board are the President's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, his son John, the latter's wife, and Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate.

The Holland-America Line announced that the Royal Mail liner Johan Van Oldenbarnevelt had been chartered to make a special voyage from Europe with 1,100 Americans. The ship, making her first trans-Atlantic trip, will leave Amsterdam on Wednesday and will call at Boulogne and Southampton.

The Washington offices of the coast guard announced that the cutter George W. Campbell would make a regularly scheduled stop tomorrow at Bergen, Norway, and might be used to bring home Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and his family. Morgenthau has been vacationing in the Scandinavian countries.

Clippers Are Besieged.

The unusually heavy demand for trans-Atlantic transportation also extended to the airways. Pan-American Airways announced that the demand for reservations on the Clippers had increased by some 700 per cent. Air mail and express shipments also were up.

The airways took precautions to safeguard their ships from possible attack. Two large American flags, four by five feet in size, were painted on the bow of the trans-Atlantic Yankee Clipper. Pan American said other Clipper ships would carry similar markings.

The Canadian government announced today it had assumed control of shipping and had instituted a naval control service. The action, affecting merchant vessels of Canadian registry, became effective Saturday night. Retired naval officers will operate the service which will govern the sailing and routine of all merchant ships.

Much of the world-wide upset in shipping is due to the fear of German ships that in the event of war the British navy will seize them.

The basis for such fear lies in a rule of international law which subjects the private property of citizens of a warring nation to seizure by an enemy nation's warships on the high seas. In contrast to that provision, private property on land is not subject to seizure except on the ground of military necessity.

The sea power of a dominant naval nation is enhanced further by an international rule that it may search neutral ships and seize private property of neutrals which it suspects is consigned to an enemy nation for war use.

These rules of international law have been opposed traditionally by the United States and traditionally upheld by the British empire.

PARIS BLACKED OUT; WARTIME CENSOR SET UP

England's Stand Greeted with Satisfaction.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Judged by exterior symptoms, including a censorship and a blackout of Paris, the European crisis reached its highest pitch of dramatic intensity today. Despite these symptoms, however, an inexplicable ray of optimism filtered through some diplomatic quarters.

One well informed person with access to official sources expressed himself in this vein:

All is not yet lost. Peace may yet be saved on the condition that France and England continue to stand firm and pay no attention to Adolf Hitler's efforts to unnerve them.

Bourse Relatively Firm.

Even if the tension in Europe increases, peace may yet be saved. In fact, it seems certain the tension will increase considerably before the break comes—if it ever does.

The idea was expressed less categorically by the financial editor of Le Temps in explaining the relative firmness of the Paris bourse today.

On the diplomatic side there was much less activity than in the last few days—or at least less is known about it. Msgr. Valerio Valeri, papal nuncio, again called at the Quai d'Orsay. Considerable interest was aroused by visits of Gen. Maxime Weygand to Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and President Albert Lebrun.

There is some especulation as to whether the "savior of Warsaw," as Gen. Weygand is called, may be sent on a military mission to Poland in case war breaks out.

Pleased by British Stand.

Otherwise everything is in suspense pending the German reaction to the British message. The text of this message was received here this afternoon and circles close to the foreign office expressed satisfaction with its firmness.

The censorship set up by decree this morning is being applied rigidly to all private telegrams, cables, and telephone calls abroad. For the moment, however, it does not weigh heavily on newspaper correspondents.

Foreign correspondents have been advised to bring their copy for a friendly looking over by a committee composed of army officers and functionaries of the ministry of foreign affairs.

French Press Also Curbed.

By advising correspondents what the real military censors at the cable companies would be likely to blue pencil, mutilation of copy without the correspondents knowledge will be avoided. The censorship also applies to the French press.

In preparation for tonight's blackout the Paris municipal council issued a warning that all advertising and display signs would have to be put out.

Citizens were warned that in case of an air alarm house lights must immediately be made imperceptible from the outside. Most Paris housewives have provided themselves with cloth or paper with which to veil house lights.

Cars to Be Stopped.

During the duration of the air raid alarms all motor vehicles except official cars supplied with yellow lamps will be required to draw up at curbs and remain motionless until the end of the alarm. Their occupants are instructed to seek refuge in bomb-proof shelters.

Police officials were instructed to show redoubled zeal in examining identification papers of both French citizens and foreigners. Persons whose papers are not in proper shape or who are merely not carrying them are liable to severe penalties.

The American embassy and the American Express company continued to work overtime handling hundreds of stranded Americans, including many who until today ignored the war clouds. There still are a few of them sitting on the famous café terraces such as the Flore and the Deux Magots on the left bank, confident that warnings to leave should not be taken too seriously, but they have become more scarce in the last twenty-four hours.

Money Orders Cease.

It is impossible to send or receive money orders by cable, and this had made more desperate the plight of many Americans who as a result of the war scare exhausted their funds in getting to Paris to obtain passage home.

Preparations for evacuating hospital and asylum patients have been completed. The evacuation of government archives and museums is completed and that of the Paris zoos is under way.

ROME EXPECTS ACTION BY DUCE TO PREVENT WAR

Press Hints at Appeal by Some Power.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 28.—Despite the rising tide of pessimism reported from other European capitals tonight, the feeling existed in Rome that Premier Benito Mussolini will be able to do something to avert war.

Italian newspapers that frequently speak with authority threw out hints that Il Duce had received appeals to step in before it was too late. What governments, if any made the appeals, were not named.

La Tribuna in Rome said the world is looking with faith to Mussolini, and Virginio Gayda, Mussolini's mouthpiece, wrote in Giornale d'Italia that while Il Duce wants peace he can not bring about this miracle alone. The Corriere della Sera of Milan said, "If war does not take place it will be in great part due to Il Duce."

King Leaves Border.

King Victor Emmanuel left his fishing camp at Val Dieri [Valley of Yesterday] in Piedmont, ten miles from the French frontier, for the San Rossore royal villa near Pisa. It was said here that he left the camp near the border because the fishing excursion was at an end.

Pope Pius XII. discussed the international situation at the vatican with Francis Osborne, British minister to the Holy See, and with Charles Roux, French ambassador to the Holy See. The Vatican also was reported in contact with the Polish government through the Polish ambassador to the Holy See.

Premier Mussolini today signed a decree prohibiting all civil aircraft, except regularly scheduled commercial planes and training planes of the Italian Flying club, from flying.

People Show Little Fear.

The man in the street was exhibiting few signs of fear that war is just around the corner. No order has been given to evacuate Rome and no sandbags protect vulnerable points. A few blue street lights glow feebly, but bright street lights have not been extinguished. Cafés are crowded and brilliantly illuminated.

Italy is quietly preparing, however, for any eventuality. Almost two million men are under arms.

FRENCH CENSORSHIP CLAMPED ON CABLES; BAR CODE MESSAGES

Postal Telegraph and Western Union headquarters in Chicago were notified yesterday that all cables to France are now subject to censorship and liable to delay. Postal was informed that code messages would be refused, but Western Union said code was still permissible.

Postal's announcement said the Commercial Cable company had been notified by the French government that effective immediately all messages to or from France must be written in plain language, but that any language recognized by the international convention may be used.

"Code and cipher are prohibited," the government advised. "All messages are subject to delay. Government messages may go forward in code or cipher as usual. Banks may use test word [indicating message is genuine]. All messages are subject to sender's risk. This eliminates all private code trafic to France until further notice."

HUSBAND KILLED IN LAST WAR; SON NOW FACES POLES

Widow Struggles to Quell Tears and Memories.

BERLIN, Aug. 28 (AP).—Tears filled her eyes and trickled down upon the steel fragment in her hand.

Moved by the tenseness of the world situation, this German world war widow was showing some of the mementoes of the last war—mementoes which she had found in the garden of her home in western Germany, near the French frontier.

There were rusty shell splinters which had fallen to the ground; a battered part of an English war plane which had been shot down.

She is a proud woman, proud of the fighting ability of the German soldier, and convinced they don't come any better.

The war took her husband. And now, she knows, if war comes again the chances are fifty-fifty it will take her "war baby." He is somewhere on the Polish front.

"If I only knew where," she says.

Change Comes Over People.

The change which has taken place in her within the last twenty-four hours is remarkable—and she is typical of millions of German men and women today.

It is a change all the more remarkable because the Nazi inspired press and the government controled radio are working overtime to show that the "calm of the German people is unbreakable."

It required Germany's extensive mobilization to shake her full faith in another bloodless victory, in which the Poles, as the Czechs before them, would bow before the might of the German nation.

Now she, like the others, watches sightlipped. Around the corner automobiles and motorcycles are being commandeered. In the school yard hundreds of horses are being examined and assigned to the front.

A policeman explains: "We need the horses because those lazy Poles haven't got the roads we have. There's nothing but mud and sand over there."

Struggles to Obtain Food.

She nods understandingly because, she says, "in the twenty years since the world war I've never really known what peace means."

She rushes past signs reading "To the nearest air raid shelter" to the grocery, to the milk and dairy products store, to the butcher, and to the market.

In her hand she crushes the new rationing slip and tries to figure out how she can best take care of her family. She doesn't come back with much from the store.

"Imagine! A thimbleful of milk," she exclaims.

Steps like these have awakened the German people—almost overnight—to the danger of another war. It has made them nervous and irritable.

Hope for Conference.

Friends call on friends, to comfort each other, to talk over chances of war or peace.

"We went through one world war and haven't recovered yet," one says. "And now we face another. God, I hope every one can get together again as they did last year and settle it over the conference table."

"Well, at least we won't have to fight the world," interposes another. "How can the English and French help the Poles? I think reason will prevail in London and Paris and that if force must be used it will be localized against the Poles."

Some one turns on the radio to catch the last minute news. But only martial music blares forth.

TWO GUNMEN ROB DENTIST.

SPAIN WILL STAY NEUTRAL; SHUNS POLITICAL SNARES

Memories of Civil War Spur Determination.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 28.—Spain's hope is to remain neutral in case of war. While German ships are scurrying into Spanish ports under forced draft to be beyond reach of the British if war breaks out, the outstanding point of the Spanish attitude on the European crisis is a determination not to fight without serious direct cause.

This is becoming steadily more evident and should cancel one of the question marks in Europe's puzzle. The general belief is that only an actual attack on territory here or in the colonies could make Spain plunge into a European war.

The Spaniards have seen a war too recently and too clearly to enter another lightheartedly. The sudden about face of their German allies has shaken their faith in German aims.

Shuns European Politics.

The view of Madrid's man in the street is that Spain fought the civil war for vital ideals and does not intend to enter a war simply as part of the political rivalry in Europe.

The Spaniards accepted German aid in the civil war as an altruistic crusade against bolshevism and now find that Germany is allied with bolshevism. This is hard to take.

An inspired editorial in the Falange [Fascist] newspaper Arriba declared today that war for fundamental ideals is one thing and that war for politics is another and Spaniards do not want it.

That does not fit the foreign ideas of the Spanish views, but it sums up the stand on the present crisis.

German Ships in Ports.

Tangible evidence of the acuteness of the crisis is close at hand for the Spanish in German ships which already have put into Vigo and other ports to be safe if shooting starts. There are eleven in Vigo, three in Pontevedra, and others are heading for various ports.

German Lufthansa planes have suspended service but, contrary to earlier reports, the Italian airline still is functioning normally.

On their side the Spanish are taking pains to see that no foolish mistake involves them in trouble with their neighbors. A decree bans all hunting within twelve miles of the French frontier, and only troops on duty may carry firearms.

A neutral attitude has been emphasized recently in conversations with all classes of Spaniards. The Madrid newspaper ABC, which is to Spain what the London Times is to England, declared that Spain will not move against anyone if no moves are made against her.

The Spanish countryside is normal and there are no signs of troop movements at the frontier.

CROAT LEADER HAILED BY BELGRADE THRONG; UNITED FRONT ASSURED

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 28.—National reconciliation was the keynote of popular manifestations when Dr. Vladimir Matchek, the Croat leader, and members of the Croat cabinet arrived here today from Zagreb. Cheers went up for both Premier Dragisha Cvetkovitch and Matchek.

In Belgrade and in other cities the general feeling is that the Serbo-Croat accord will mean that Jugo-Slavia will defend her independence to the end.

The Serbo-Croat accord is held to represent the solution of a problem that spells the difference between strength and vulnerability for this country, which with its nearly 16,000,000 inhabitants is the strategic key to the Balkans.

PARIS WILL PRAY TO PATRON SAINT, ITS SAVIOR IN 451

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Prayers to St. Genevieve, the patron saint of Paris, credited with having saved the capital from an invasion of the Huns in the 5th century, will be offered daily before her tomb in the hope of averting war, church authorities said tonight.

St. Genevieve's tomb is in the Church of St. Stephen on Mount St. Genevieve, where she succored hundreds of Parisians fleeing from the hosts of Attila in 451.

She predicted Attila's attack would come to nothing and persuaded the citizens to return to Paris. The prediction came true.

Army Contingent to Sail Saturday for Panama Base

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 (AP).—The army announced today that 225 enlisted men and eight officers of the 63rd coast artillery, anti-aircraft section, would sail Sept. 2 from Fort McArthur, Cal., for Panama, the first contingent to be ordered there since congress provided for strengthening of the Canal Zone defenses. War department plans call for an ultimate increase of 7,360 enlisted men, bringing the total to about 24,000.

IT'S FASHION, BUT HAGUE PACT BANS UNDECLARED WAR

Germany Among Signers of Forgotten Code.

Formal declarations of war have gone out of fashion since the world war, despite the agreement on this question drawn at The Hague conferences of 1899 and 1907, which fourteen nations, including Germany, ratified. The undeclared war such as Japan is waging in China, such as Mussolini carried on against Ethiopia and Hitler against Austria and Czecho-Slovakia, has taken the place of the old conventions. Japan ratified this agreement, but Italy did not.

The conventions of war as laid down at The Hague state that "hostilities should not be commenced without previous notice" and that "a state of war should be notified to neutral powers without delay."

From 1700 to 1870 there were less than ten cases in which an actual declaration of war was given prior to hostilities. Then began the period of international law, or written agreements and conventions. This has been followed, apparently, by a reversion to the older way.

The course followed in the war of 1914 was as follows:

[1] The moving of active forces to the frontiers. [2] Mobilization. [3] Declarations of war, the diplomatic request for passports being simultaneous with the declaration, and not prior to it.

America Gave Ultimatum.

The Spanish-American and the Anglo-Boer wars were preceded by ultimatums. An ultimatum setting out conditions, compliance with which is required within a specified time, is a conditional declaration of war which becomes absolute in case of noncompliance.

Japan issued a declaration of war two days after hostilities had begun against Russia. In the Turco-Italian war the Italians gave the Turkish government 24 hours notice. The Turco-Balkan war was preceded by ultimatums and a declaration. A series of ultimatums and declarations ushered in the last European war, beginning July 23, 1914, with the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum to Servia and ending Aug. 23 with the Japanese declaration against Germany.

12 Hour Notice to Belgium.

The Germans issued an ultimatum to Belgium, giving them 12 hours to reply. On Aug 3 the German ambassador applied for his passports, delivered a declaration of war and left Paris. On Aug. 4 the British issued an ultimatum to Germany.

The Hague convention on the subject states:

"The contracting parties agree that hostilities shall not commence between them without previous and unequivocal notice, which shall be in the form either of a declaration of war, or of an ultimatum with a conditional declaration of war."

PRESIDENT CALLS OFF TRIP HOME TO WATCH CRISIS

Waits for Occasion to Intervene Again.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—Watchfully waiting for further occasion to take a hand in the European war crisis, President Roosevelt today called off his contemplated return to his Hyde Park estate tonight. He told the White House secretariat he did not know now when he would be able to go.

Mr. Roosevelt in the last week has addressed four peace appeals to the heads of states involved in the European crisis. He invoked the influence of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy to avert war. He addressed to Chancellor Hitler of Germany and President Moscicki of Poland proposals for a pacific settlement of their territorial dispute.

Hitler's Silence No Surprise.

King Victor Emmanuel acknowledged the receipt of Mr. Roosevelt's message, but the only one to favor Mr. Roosevelt with a reply was the Polish president, who accepted the American proposals. Mr. Roosevelt thereupon transmitted the Polish reply to Hitler accompanied by a renewed plea to the Fuehrer to keep the peace.

The failure of Hitler to reply to the President's two appeals has caused no surprise in official circles, but the silence of the king of Italy is a matter of considerable comment.

That Hitler would ignore the President was generally expected. He as well as Mussolini ignored Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to them last spring to take the anti-war pledge for ten years. The dictators took the position that peace appeals came with bad grace from Mr. Roosevelt because of his unneutral attitude as manifested by his denunciations of them and by his efforts to repeal the American arms embargo in order to help Britain and France and injure Germany and Italy in the event of war.

Mussolini Acts First.

Compensation for the rebuff for Mr. Roosevelt abroad is the political value he places upon his peace moves for home consumption. The President has not hesitated to capitalize his peace pleas politically. He has now struck three blows for peace, as he puts it. The first one was the appeals he addressed to Hitler and Mussolini before Munich last September.

Mussolini was widely credited with having dissuaded Hitler from shedding blood in Czecho-Slovakia and Mr. Roosevelt claimed the credit for animating Mussolini. Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles was rushed to the microphone to demonstrate that Mussolini received the Roosevelt plea before he telephoned Hitler. To be sure the next day it transpired that the Roosevelt message did not reach Mussolini till afterward, but that information never overtook Welles' broadcast.

Even in this crisis the administration is attempting to make political capital out of the President's peace moves. Col. Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, is making daily speeches in the east advertising the Roosevelt claims and policies connected with the "three blows for peace."

"The attitude and policies of the United States," says Col. Johnson in these speeches, "are a definite factor in European affairs. What we do affects what happens over there, whether we like it or not. The President's move last October had a distinct bearing on the avoidable of war. His telegrams last April to Hitler and Mussolini, though they were not answered, did have a material influence in keeping the peace last spring, as we now know. His move to change the neutrality act was a move in favor of peace."

Wants Neutrality Act Changed.

The change the President sought in the existing neutrality act, which he signed, was the repeal of the mandatory embargo on the export of arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerents. Col. Johnson says the embargo is a discrimination in favor of Germany which cannot get American arms so long as England controls the seas. The President wanted the embargo repealed so that Britain and France could get American arms. Congress refused to repeal it because to do so would constitute a taking of sides in the European quarrel and would be likely to involve us in war eventually. Col. Johnson says our arms embargo favoring the dictators encouraged Germany to "gamble on a general war."

The administration today began bidding for Latin-American applause of the President's peace pleas out of which may come a collective appeal of the republics of the new world to the old world to keep the peace.

Aurelio Mosquero Narvaez, president of Ecuador, cabled adherence of the President's peace proposals, adding that "whether that noble invitation is accepted or not, your excellency will have deserved the applause of all men who are observing with fear the approach of a catastrophe for civilization." Secretary of State Cordell Hull said this message had not been solicited by Washington but indicated that other voluntary expressions by American republics would be welcome.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS' PRAYERS FOR PEACE URGED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt urged a world conference of Catholic students tonight to "pray for peace and have faith that despite all discouragements councils of wisdom ultimately will prevail among nations."

Welcoming the eighteenth annual Pax Romana congress here by letter, the President said it was heartening "in troublesome times like the present" to know that the congress would be held. He wished Pax Romana and the pan-American student conference meeting in conjunction with the congress success "in their efforts to promote peace, with all its attendant blessings."

Earlier Pope Pius XII. sent "a great and particular apostolic blessing" to the congress, which has as its motto, "The peace of Christ in the reign of Christ." A delegation of 130 Europeans, including Poles, Germans, French, and Italians, with students from South America, Canada, Asia, and the United States, are attending the congress of Pax Romana.

The President presented the medal at a simple ceremony in the executive office which was attended by Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations; Capt. RE: BEATING THE BAND

By CALEB

LITTLE dialogs sometimes convey big morals. Take the one I overheard at a recent park concert. Proximity made me an unintentional eavesdropper; but the lesson of the incident seemed important enough to pass on, with fictitious names.

The band in front of us had just finished a stirring number. Perry, I take it, was a new salesman, and Graves his superior. Odd, though, I thought, that they should be enjoying an afternoon's music—

GRAVES: "There's a fine body of men, Perry! All teamed up to give a perfect performance—proved by the way they put over that Sousa march! Which one of that crowd of seventy or more men would you say is least likely to be mentioned as an artist, yet has the most responsible job; does most to 'get it across'?"

PERRY: "Let me see, Mr. Graves. (After a pause.) I'd say, either the conductor or the first cornetist."

GRAVES: "Thumbs down on both! The conductor isn't in the band; he directs it. And the first cornetist, like all the rest of the boys, takes his tempo from the drummer, who takes his tempo from the conductor. I want you to see, illustrated here, the point I tried to make in our talk this forenoon. You said you were going to tackle your new job 'to beat the band'—remember? And I told you that if you meant that, and worked the idea out, you could beat the band: set the pace for all the rest of our staff to follow.

"Direction, of course, comes from the top. Out here, the conductor; up at our place, myself. That drummer watches his chief every minute; his beat sets the pace for the music—all three are synchronized perfectly. Let the drummer fall a time-fraction off, and the whole performance goes to pieces. Disastrous pieces, too! . . . But he's smart enough to know that, so his tempo stays right on the dot. He literally beats the band.

"In every business you'll find individuals like that drummer. The chap who watches the tempo set by his chief; catches it; passes it along to his department, and pretty soon has every one else performing with that same beat! Sometimes the principle is called 'understudying'—but the results count more than the name. See what I mean?"

Perry must have appreciated that comparison; I know his eavesdropper did. For one does, as Graves emphasized, see the idea hourly and daily producing perfect performances in the concerts of business. Key men and women who quietly and watchfully understudy the Chief, carry out his "tempo," and thereby play an invaluable role in every firm's success. Many a fine rendering of the symphony of service is accounted for by their presence here at Field's.

BRITAIN AWAITS HITLER ANSWER; SPEEDS DEFENSE

Choice of War or Peace Sent to Germany.

ports if they were in it. This latter move, however, was probably intended to strike fear in Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Large scale cancelations of some air services to the continent were announced, while others announced business as usual.

Note of Incredulity Arises.

Public opinion throughout Europe seemed to be dismayed but also inclined to incredulity at the display of blustering threats and pious protestations of innocence which marks the technique of the governments on each side.

In London some sections around Fleet street are blacked out while other sections blaze with lights. German newspaper men have been conspicuously called home, but not other German nationals.

In this confused situation the first 100 regulations under Prime Minister Chamberlain's emergency powers act were issued today. They deal with billets, transport, wireless, carrier pigeons, secret codes, and police powers. No one, under one regulation, may talk or associate with any person believed to be in touch with alien enemies.

The British press tonight reported that if the peace moves show signs of progress President Roosevelt may appoint a special ambassador to Berlin to replace Hugh R. Wilson, who was recalled last November.

Report Hoover Considered.

The British and French sent their envoys back months ago but Mr. Roosevelt never did. Now, it is reported here, he may ask former President Herbert Hoover to go to Germany and may send him over in a hurry in the Yankee Clipper.

Tomorrow's meeting of parliament is expected to be short. Further meetings depend on the course of events.

Chamberlain and Halifax conferred with Ambassador Henderson after the cabinet meeting ended. Arthur Greenwood, acting Labor leader in parliament, called three times at No. 10 Downing street, once while Henderson still was there. He was followed on the third visit by Sir Archibald Sinclair, the Liberal leader.

About the same time, War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha saw King George VI. Chamberlain also went to Buckingham palace to advise the king of latest developments.

The National Council of Labor met tonight and after hearing a report from Greenwood decided to support the government's stand on Poland.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Approximately 650,000 London school children took part today in a dress rehearsal of defense evacuations measures. They trudged to school with gas masks slung over their shoulders and with knapsacks containing a change of clothing and forty-eight hours' rations.

Each child's knapsack bore his name and the number assigned to him for the evacuation program. Many of them were accompanied by their mothers. The children viewed the rehearsal as a joke, but there was no gayety among the mothers. The plan, if war occurs, is to remove the children to havens in the countryside.

After the drill the pupils returned to their studies. They will continue to bring their gas masks, extra clothing, and rations to school with them for several days.

BOMBING SCARE STIRS STAMPEDE IN DOWNING ST.

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Women screamed "bombs" and scores were knocked to the pavement in a stampede in Downing street today shortly before the British cabinet met.

A suitcase was hurled into the air, releasing several dozen round black objects among the crowd watching the cabinet ministers arrive at No. 10 Downing street.

Instead of bombs, however, it was a shower of black rubber balls with chalked slogans, "peace now," and "Britain must not go to war."

Mounted police rode into the throng and arrested a hatless eccentric who had thrown the suitcase. "There is nothing in it," he muttered as he was taken away. Shouts of "Lynch him!" came from the crowd.

RUSSIA DELAYS RATIFICATION OF NAZI PACT

MOSCOW, Aug. 28 (AP).—A joint session of Russia's parliament ended tonight without having acted on the nonaggression pact signed with Germany. Procedure toward formal indorsement was started, however, in the lower house where the pact was included in an agenda adopted for the meeting.

Vyacheslav Molotov, premier and foreign minister, and Joseph Stalin, the Russian dictator, were given an ovation by parliament. Molotov offered no explanation of Russia's sudden shift from its policy of collective security to one of isolation.

The session devoted itself to reading a proposed new act on agricultural taxation.

GERMANS ASSERT LANSING NOTE IS BASIS OF CLAIMS

Proposed Peace According to Wilson's Points.

Recent dispatches from Berlin have reported that the German government looks to the Lansing note of Nov. 5, 1918, as the legal basis for its version of a German-Polish settlement.

The Germans characterize this note as a "preliminary peace treaty" in the world war that they accepted and that was binding on the allied and associated powers. Germany holds, it is said, that she is not obliged to go beyond the terms of this "treaty" in the case of Poland and that her terms conform to it.

Robert Lansing, secretary of state under President Woodrow Wilson, informed the German government in the note, transmitted through the minister of Switzerland, that the allied governments "declare their willingness to make peace with the government of Germany on the terms of peace laid down in the President's address to congress of January, 1918, and the principles of settlement enunciated in his subsequent addresses."

Make Two Reservations.

This note contained a memorandum which included President Wilson's terms. Also there were observations on the terms which had been prepared by the allied government at Mr. Wilson's request.

The memorandum emphasized the acceptance of the terms was subject to two qualifications:

1. The allied governments must "reserve to themselves complete freedom" on the subject of the freedom of the seas "when they enter the peace conference."

2. By the President's declaration "that invaded territories must be restored as well as evacuated" the allied governments "understand that compensation will be made by Germany for all damage done to the civilian population of the allies and their property by the aggression of Germany by land, by sea, and from the air."

The Thirteenth Point.

The terms of peace referred to in the note were President Wilson's famous Fourteen Points, set forth in his address to congress on Jan. 8, 1918. The address followed closely a speech delivered by the then British prime minister, David Lloyd George, before the Trade Union Conference on Man Power three days before. Differences between the two documents were said by observers at the time to be in form rather than in substance.

The thirteenth point of the program was as follows:

"An independent Polish state should be erected which should include the territories inhabited by indisputably Polish populations, which should be assured a free and secure access to the sea, and whose political and economic integrity should be guaranteed by international covenant."

And the Tenth Point.

The tenth point of the program that the German government declares it accepts as being as binding as a treaty read:

"The peoples of Austria-Hungary whose place among the nations we wish to see safeguarded and assured, should be accorded the freest opportunity of autonomous development."

Austria was annexed by Germany and incorporated by the German reich into what was named "Greater Germany" on March 11, 1938.

The background of the Lansing note reached back to President Wilson's peace efforts early in 1918. The President had engaged in correspondence with the German authorities in which the Germans indicated they would be willing to consider terms.

Mr. Lansing, in a note on Oct. 28, 1918, confirmed to the German government that the President had transmitted that correspondence to the allied governments with the suggestion that they have their military advisers formulate terms of an armistice.

The Lansing note informed the German government that Marshal Ferdinand Foch had been authorized to communicate terms of an armistice.

Contest Tax Suit

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 [Special].—Harry L. [Bing] Crosby and his wife, Wilma, the former Dixie Lee, today contested before the board of tax appeals the government's claim of $178,000 in income taxes for 1935, 1936, and 1937. The Crosbys contended the internal revenue commissioner had erroneously included their personal taxable income from the gross income of Bing Crosby, Limited, Inc., and the Crosby Productions, Inc., both Hollywood corporations. They also claimed right to deduction of $10,000 for "losses incurred in operating a racing stable for profit" during 1935.

BRITISH NAVAL TACTICS AIM TO CORK UP BALTIC

Skagerak and Kiel Canal Are Key Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Recent reports of British fleet activities in the Skagerak, the arm of the North sea between Norway and Denmark, have drawn attention to the strategic value of England's controling that body of water in the event of a war.

Such control by the powerful British navy, combined with a blockade of the North sea at the western end of the Kiel canal, might force the inferior German navy to remain in its harbors. Or, if the Germans ventured forth into the Baltic sea, the British warships would be favored to destroy them in battle.

Might Keep Baltic Open.

These naval maneuvers would keep the Baltic sea open and enable Britain and France to transport supplies to Poland through that waterway if such aid could not be furnished through southern routes.

The Skagerak — crooked strait of Skagen, a village on the northern tip of Denmark—is about 140 miles long and 75 miles broad. It is shallow and beset with sandbanks on the Danish shore. Its deepest part—443 fathoms—is found toward the steep Norwegian coast.

The Skagerak connects with the Kattegat — "cat's throat" — another arm of the North sea to the south. The Kattegat runs 150 miles north and south and is much more shallow than the Skagerak. Below the Kattegat are the Great and Little Belt, narrower straits which communicate with the Baltic sea.

The Kiel canal, the only other possible egress of the German fleet from the Baltic to the North sea, is 52.3 nautical miles long [a nautical mile is 6,080.2 feet]. It was built by the German imperial government in 1895 and had a width of 220 feet and a depth of 26 feet.

Canal Heavily Fortified.

Shortly before the world war its width was increased to 328 feet and the depth to 36 feet on orders of Kaiser Wilhelm II. This enabled the German Baltic fleet, which was much larger than the Nazi navy today, to reënforce the German North sea fleet swiftly and safely. The canal is heavily fortified and early this year Fuehrer Hitler ordered it enlarged again.

The treaty of Versailles in 1919 provided that canal and pilotage dues to the German government from the waterway's operation were to be limited to a rate sufficient to cover the cost of administration, maintenance, and improvements. All mercantile and war vessels of nations at peace with Germany were permitted use of the canal.

The North sea area was the scene of the great naval engagements of the world war. The first of these was at Heligoland, a tiny island which is regarded as a North sea Gibraltar. The island belongs to Germany and is 28 miles west of the mainland. It commands the German harbors of Bremen, Hamburg, and Cuxhaven, and the mouths of the Weser, Jade, Elbe, and Eider rivers.

Three German Cruisers Sunk.

There, on Aug. 28, 1914, German and British naval forces met. Three German cruisers and one German destroyer were sunk and 1,242 German officers and men were killed, wounded, or taken prisoner. The British casualty list was less than 100 and British vessels were only damaged.

Heligoland's fortifications were razed under the Versailles treaty. Three years ago, however, Hitler began refortifying the island, which covers little more than a fifth of a square mile, and it is again a naval stronghold.

The most important sea battle of the world war was at Jutland—the only engagement between the British and German main fleets. Jutland, fought on May 31, 1916, is regarded as the greatest naval battle in history. Admiral John Ruthworth Jellicoe commanded the British grand fleet and the German high seas fleet was under Admiral Reinhard Scheer.

Jellicoe's Tactics Criticized.

Jellicoe conducted the battle in a conservative manner and has been criticized for not pursuing and destroying the German fleet as it retreated. His position, however, was that maintenance of sea supremacy was more vital to Britain than defeat of the German fleet and he wished to emerge from the battle with his forces still strong.

The British losses in men and ships at Jutland were greater than those of their foes, but the British considered they had won the battle for Scheer returned to his base and never came out until he surrendered his fleet at the close of the war.

NEW JAP CHIEF TO SEEK AMITY WITH AMERICA

Conciliatory Cabinet Is Expected.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 29 [Tuesday].—One of the first things Premier Designate General Nobuyuki Abe will seek after forming a new cabinet will be the improvement of relations with the United States, it was learned today.

Gen. Nobuyuki Abe.

The cabinet is expected to be completed today with Gen. Abe taking over the post of foreign minister as well as that of prime minister. The new cabinet is expected to take a middle course in foreign policy and to show a conciliatory attitude in settling troubles with the United States, England, Russia, and possibly even Germany.

All Favor American Amity.

The most likely candidate for finance minister is Juichi Tsushima, an expert in American and British finance. Among those named as likely to take over the foreign post eventually were Mamoru Shigemitsu, ambassador to Great Britain; Shigenori Togo, former ambassador to Germany, and Saburo Kurusu, ambassador to Belgium. All advocate friendship with the United States.

Despite his lack of political experience, Gen. Abe's appointment is hailed in most quarters. Hope is voiced that his conciliatory turn of mind will bring harmony in the military and civilian camps and remove internal and external frictions.

Details Kept Secret.

It was not clear what changes Gen. Abe plans in domestic and foreign policies, but it is believed he will place great emphasis on strengthening the domestic wartime system and on formulating a long-term reconstruction program in China.

Gen. Abe is understood to be seeking to hold the cabinet to about ten members and to limit the inner cabinet—originated by Former Premier Fumimaro Konoye—to five members.

Konoye is reported to have declined the post of minister without portfolio which he held under Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, who resigned when the signing of the German-Russian nonaggression pact virtually killed the anti-communist pact of which Japan was a signatory with Germany, Italy, Hungary, and other small nations.

REPORT TUNIS ITALIANS SIGN TO AID FRANCE

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TUNIS, Tunisia, Aug. 28.—Tunisia's frontier defenses are being strengthened by the military. Anti-aircraft guns were posted about Tunis yesterday and soldiers left here to strengthen the Mareth line in the desert.

Italian quarters are beflagged with the French colors, newspapers report, and Italians are enrolling at the military bureau as volunteers for French army service.

The Franco-Italian Friendship committee and the Italian Popular union adopted a resolution that Italians residing in France will support France. War on the side of Germany, the resolution states, "would spell death to millions of Italians and ruin to our country."

TURNER SPEEDS 297 MILES HOUR IN TEST FLIGHT

Cleveland, O., Aug. 28 [Special].—Col. Roscoe Turner averaged 297.767 miles an hour today on two laps of the ten mile closed course at Cleveland airport today to qualify for the Thompson Trophy race next Monday. The speed is the fastest ever made around such a short course. In the same airplane used today, Turner won the Thompson race at last year's National air races with a record average speed of 283.419 miles an hour for 300 miles.

Turner's ship is the Turner-Laird monoplane that was built in Chicago in 1937. The motor is a 14 cylinder air-cooled Twin Wasp, developing 1,200 horse power, and using a constant speed propeller. It is estimated that Turner's speed on the straightaway stretches reached 340 miles an hour.

Eight pilots were at Los Angeles today awaiting the starting gun in the trans-continental Bendix Trophy race, to start from Burbank airport on Sept. 1. Jacqueline Cochran, winner last year, is the only woman entrant. She has a new type of Seversky racer. Other entrants are Frank Fuller of San Francisco, winner in 1937; Max Constant and Paul Mantz of Burbank; Robert Perlick of Glendale, and Arthur Bussy, Jack Wright, and John Abbott of New York City.

LABOR VIOLENCE IN REVERE STRIKE FORCES INQUIRY

State's Attorney Orders Action at Once.

A thorough investigation was ordered by State's Attorney Courtney yesterday into charges of labor violence and terrorism in connection with the strike in the Chicago plant of the Revere Copper and Brass company at 2200 North Natchez avenue.

Leslie Curtis.

Executives of the company and several nonstriking employés revealed Sunday that stench bombs have been hurled into their homes, bricks thrown through windows, and paint splattered on their houses. Last week labor sluggers attacked and injured five men hired through the Landis Award Employers' association by a Revere customer to move a truckload of merchandise from the plant.

Assigned to Start Inquiry.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant to Courtney, said that Leslie Curtis, a veteran prosecutor of the state's attorney's office, will start the investigation at once.

"We want to discover whether labor hoodlums are being imported from other cities in this strike," Courtney said. "We will question officials of the Revere company, leaders of the union, and those executives and workers who have reported instances of terrorism. We aim to get to the bottom of this case immediately."

The Revere company's 550 workers have been idle since June 22 when a strike was called by the United Automobile Workers of America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. The union demanded among other things an 8 per cent increase in wages. Despite efforts of a federal labor mediator, negotiations between the company and the union still are deadlocked.

Charge Police Laxity.

Three strikers were arrested after the attack on the truck. They will be tried on Sept. 12 on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Paul Stoddard, personnel director of the Landis Award Employers' association, who was in charge of the truck, accused Austin police of laxity in placing charges against the men. Stoddard said that he asked to sign complaints against them charging assault with intent to kill, a felony charge. Instead, he said, they were booked on the lighter charge.

E. A. Arnesen, Revere sales manager, was one of those reporting terrorism. He said a stench bomb was thrown into his home at 1518 Forest avenue, River Forest, last Tuesday. On the same day a similar attack was reported by Frank Klausch, a nonstriker who lives at 4815 Iowa street.

Bricks have been hurled through the windows of his home at 1023 North Marion street, Oak Park, according to Frank Derby, office manager. Electric light bulbs filled with paint have been thrown at their homes, other workers said.

Ex-Convict, 59, Is Held After Arrest in Tavern

James Morgan, who was trapped in a tavern at 1655 Sedgwick street after it had been closed for the night, was held at the Hudson avenue police station last night. Police said Morgan admitted he had kicked in a window and entered to loot the place. Bureau of identification experts said that Morgan, who is 59 years old, is an ex-convict. He gave no address.

Hayes placed Robert Nealis, 17 years old, 4807 North Fairfield avenue, under supervision of the court, for receiving stolen property. The others, Howard Ayers, 17, of 1712 Montrose avenue; Warren Biersdorf, 18, of 2758 Giddings street; and George Doering, 17, of 4847 North Washtenaw avenue, were given a continuance until tomorrow. Four other members of the gang are awaiting a hearing in the Juvenile court.

Bellville J. P. Orders Slot Machines Smashed; Does It

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 28 [Special].—Justice of the Peace A. J. Stoeckel of Belleville today signed an order for destruction of three slot machines seized by police in a raid on the Sleepy Hollow tavern. Then the justice himself, with a hammer and crowbar, smashed the machines. During the last month the slot machines have popped up in taverns throughout St. Clair county. None is in taverns in East St. Louis, however.

Joseph Muscia, 25 years old, identified as one of five bandits who held up an office in St. Louis on Aug. 18, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday for removal to that city. He pleaded not guilty and a hearing was set for Sept. 5. Muscia was arrested here Friday by federal agents.

MINISTER ADMITS HE HIRED SLAYING OF HIS DAUGHTER

Killer Also Confesses in Lover's Lane Death.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 28 (AP).—County Prosecutor Samuel P. Orlando announced today that a former sweetheart signed a statement confessing he killed Wanda Dworecki, 18 years old, at the behest of the girl's father, a Camden clergyman, who has made an oral confession.

Both the sweetheart, Peter Shewchuk, 21 years old, and the father, the Rev. Walter Dworecki, 42, will be charged with murder, Orlando said.

The girl's body, beaten and strangled, was found Aug. 8 in a clump of weeds beside a lovers' lane on the outskirts of Camden—a corsage of roses pinned to her coat.

Insurance Motive Bared.

Prosecutor Orlando said the father hoped to obtain the insurance on his daughter, which would amount to between $5,000 and $6,000 with double indemnity.

Miss Dworecki's death came just four months after a previous attempt on her life. She was abducted in April by two men, beaten, choked, and left unconscious on a country road twenty-five miles from her home.

Shewchuk, a one time boarder at the girl's home, surrendered to police Saturday in Chester, Pa., his home town. Later, the clergyman was taken into custody.

Confessions Follow Quizzing.

After hours of questioning, Prosecutor Orlando announced late today:

"Statements have been made by both admitting the scheme which resulted in the killing. The murder was committed by Peter at the solicitation of the father.

"Shewchuk was to receive the sum of $100, but the father never paid."

ORDER ONE MAN JURY INQUIRY ON DIOCESAN FUNDS

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 28 [Special].—Circuit Judge Frank A. Bell today ordered a one man grand jury to investigate the financial affairs of the Episcopal diocese of northern Michigan. Judge Bell acted on the petition of County Prosecutor John D. Voelker of Ishpeming, Mich., which was presented to Judge Bell following a conference last week with Attorney Thomas Read of Michigan.

This is the first formal notice taken by the state of Michigan of alleged shortages of approximately $100,000 in two diocesan funds which became known last spring when Bishop Hayward Sellers Ablewhite resigned as head of the diocese. In Bishop Ablewhite's recent statement it was asserted that the larger of the two funds was embezzled by the diocese's former treasurer-chancellor, A. E. Miller, who died last January.

The inquiry, which will begin Sept. 11, was ordered on Prosecutor Voelker's petition, which asserted that there is probable cause to suspect violations of the law. A civil suit for accounting was recently filed by members of St. James church, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

SHERIF SWEARS IN 18 WOMEN TO CARE FOR JURIES

Hires 23 Good Democrats; Pay Roll Up $49,680.

Eighteen new women deputy sheriffs, whose principal duty will be to take care of juries on which women are serving were sworn in yesterday by Sherif Thomas J. O'Brien. Five others, who could not be present, will receive their instructions later. Previously the sherif had five women deputies.

The addition of these twenty-three new deputies increased the county payroll by $49,680 a year. All of the new appointees are active members of the regular Democratic party organization. Several are precinct captains, and most of them have previously been on other county payrolls.

Sponsored by Politicians.

They were not required to make formal applications for the jobs, nor was any oral or written examination given. They are not under civil service. Each was recommended by a political sponsor, in keeping with the usual political appointive system.

Sherif O'Brien made a short pep talk, introducing his new assistants in their duties, and advising them how to handle the public. They were then sent to a bonding company to obtain sureties. They will receive their badges on Friday and report for duty on Sept. 5.

As deputy sheriffs, the newcomers will receive $180 a month. The money was appropriated by the county board after the legislature passed the new law providing for women jurors.

Chosen for Muscles.

William Milota, assistant sherif, said that Sherif O'Brien tried to select only muscular women of not less than 5 feet, 10 inches in height. In addition to caring for women on juries, the women deputies may be called on to handle women prisoners and serve summons.

Following are the names of new deputy sherifs:

Mrs. Louise Kiley, 2927 Lexington street; Mrs. Mary Sodroski, 1401 North Ashland avenue; Mrs. Irene O'Brien, 65 West Schiller street; Mrs. Carolyn Parrett, 4819 Hutchinson street; Mrs. Lellah M. Long, 3148 Eastwood avenue; Mrs. Helen Sharek, 1237 Noble street; Mrs. Mary Schramp, 8851 South Bishop street; Mrs. Elizabeth Maher, 2842 North Orchard street; Mrs. Lucille Dibbern, 1743 North Kimball avenue.

Mrs. Theresa Lewandowski, 11750 South Michigan avenue; Mrs. Bessie Hundley, 1553 North Clark street; Miss Frances Levy, 3609 West 18th street; Mrs. Mary Meyers Muscato, 8333 South Ashland avenue; Mrs. Anastasia Novak, 3224 North Central Park avenue; Miss Sonia Wojniak, 3622 South Marshfield avenue; Miss Mae Carr, 851 North May street; Miss Elizabeth Vavrinek, 1918 North Clark street; Mrs. Anna Vik, 2414 South 60th court, Cicero; Mrs. Helen Pieczynski, 8600 South Exchange avenue; Miss Goldie Slamar, 1827 South May street; Miss Ann Gray, 3722 Eastwood avenue; Mrs. Marie G. Fahey, 8306 South Evans avenue, and Mrs. Celia Freeman.

HELD ON RAPE CHARGE.

Clement Lebedis, 41 years old, a former convict, was held to the grand jury in $10,000 bond on a charge of rape yesterday by Judge Eugene L. McGarry in felony court. His alleged victim was a girl, 11 years old

TRAVELER WITH WELL LINED COAT RETURNS HOME

Oscar A. Hall, 74 years old, began the last lap of a trip back from Sweden last night—with $2,400 sewed in the lining of his coat. He was accompanied from the Oak Park police station by his daughter, Mrs. Robert Weigel, who came here from their home in St. Paul to get him.

Hall was found by police Sunday sitting on the curb in front of 200 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park. He had his shoes off. He said he had walked to the suburb from the loop and was tired.

Two taxicab drivers, Hall said, had stolen his bags when he arrived in Chicago after a business trip to Sweden. He didn't explain why he had walked to Oak Park. Police found the $2,400 in bills sewed in his coat. He said he had taken the money from his account in a Stockholm bank.

LOSES HIS PAPER BAG TRYING TO ROB LOAN FIRM

A loan company cashier yesterday outwitted the "paper bag bandit," who has robbed all sorts of places recently. Robert Bartlett of Homewood, cashier of the company at 6240 Cottage Grove avenue, was in his bullet proof cage when the bandit appeared with his paper bag and his .45 caliber pistol. He shoved the bag through the window and ordered Bartlett to "fill it up."

Bartlett dropped down beneath the counter and began to yell for help. The robber fled, without even trying to recover the bag.

False Alarm Joker Fined; Mental Test Is Ordered

Judge Charles S. Dougherty of the Municipal court yesterday fined Mark McIntere, 32 years old, 704 West 67th street, $5 for turning in two false alarms for fire engines, one for the police, and two for a hearse at the home of a friend. McIntere was to be examined by the psychopathic hospital.

COURTNEY POLICE WAIT CALL TODAY IN SKIDMORE QUIZ

Police on the staff of State's Attorney Courtney, including Capt. Dan Gilbert, head of the prosecutor's forces, are expected to appear today and tomorrow before the federal grand jury investigating the income of William R. Skidmore, Chicago gambler. In the meantime, William Johnson, Skidmore's reputed partner, was still being sought yesterday.

The grand jury hopes to complete its investigation of Skidmore's affairs this week, according to District Attorney William J. Campbell, and E. Riley Campbell, his assistant.

One of the witnesses yesterday was Jack Guzik, who headed Capone's vice interests and once served a term for pandering. Guzik is generally reputed one of the Skidmore-Johnson gambling syndicate and is the operator of a loop gambling house.

Courtney himself will appear some time during the week and present to the grand jury the results of his 800 handbook raids last summer.

AUDITOR BARRETT NAMED IN BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

Woman Seeks Damages of $250,000.

Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, yesterday was named defendant in a $250,000 breach of promise suit filed in the Superior court by Miss Camille Martinetti, 31 years old, of 1400 Lake Shore drive. Miss Martinetti was employed for seven years in the auditor's office as a bank examiner. Barrett lives at 3000 Lake Shore drive.

Breach of promise suits were outlawed by the state legislature in July of 1937. Miss Martinetti's attorney, Nicholas A. Pope, said, however, that he filed the suit under the provision that damages may be sought if the alleged marriage promise was broken before the law was passed and within five years of the filing of the suit.

Tells of Marriage Proposal.

According to her bill, Miss Martinetti met Barrett in the winter of 1928. On May 15, 1934, while she was an employé, the bill stated, Barrett proposed marriage and was accepted. He broke his promise, Miss Martinetti's petition said, on March 31, 1935, when she learned he had been married for several years.

Their intimate friendship continued, she said, even after she discovered he was married, because he promised to get a divorce and marry her.

On last May 15, Miss Martinetti said, she was summarily dismissed from the auditor's pay roll. Barrett, she said, refused an explanation when she tried to reach him by telephone, telegraph, and letters.

Charges Denied by Barrett.

Mr. Barrett, in a prepared statement, characterized Miss Martinetti's charges as "wholly unfounded." Their "utter absurdity" will be proved, he said, when the case comes to trial. He said he had only a casual acquaintanceship with Miss Martinetti. She was dismissed for inefficiency, he added.

"I refused to be victimized," his statement read, "when it was proposed to me by attorneys for the plaintif that 'a settlement' could be arranged. My answer was that I had nothing to fear from such action."

ZION KILLS MOVE AGAINST JUDGE FOUGHT BY C. I. O.

The Zion council last night tabled the Zion Democratic Voters' league demand for a referendum to abolish the Zion City court. The commissioners and Mayor Richard T. Hire voted unanimously against further consideration of the demand after the league had sent a letter asking why the referendum had not been ordered. It was asked Aug. 7.

Theodore Forby is judge of the court. He is the jurist who sentenced thirty-nine men to jail for their part in the C. I. O. sitdown strike at the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation plant in North Chicago in 1937. He charged when the referendum was asked that the C. I. O. and the Democratic machine were trying to remove him from office.

250 C. I. O. Workers Strike in Armour's Indiana Plant

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28 (AP).—K. V. Smith, manager Armour and company's Indianapolis plant, tonight said approximately 250 employés went on strike today. Smith said all strikers were members of the packing house workers organizing committee [C. I. O.] but he declined to discuss the cause of the strike. He said negotiations toward a settlement were started immediately and will be continued tomorrow. The strike started in the killing department, Smith said, and spread to other divisions. Operations are being continued by employés who remained on the job, Smith asserted.

NUDES NOT LEWD, CITY CONCLUDES, BUT ARE SHOOED!

Now about those books containing all the photographs of female nudes.

Very scientific, said the attorney for two loop photographic supply stores. Showed the different effects obtained with different types of cameras, and all that.

How about it? asked Police Commissioner Allman. Are such nudes lewd? Should they be shooed?

So yesterday Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes issued an opinion. He wouldn't call the nudes lewd. He wasn't sure they could even be called indecent, in view of current public opinion on bathing suits and such. His six page ruling, sent to Commissioner Allman, boiled down to this:

"Photographs of nudes may not be exhibited where they may be seen from the street."

Everybody, including the models, agreed it would be no trouble at all to step inside the shop.

BAR COMMITTEE OPENS M'GARRY 'FIX' QUIZ TODAY

Assistant State's Attorneys Emmet Moynihan and Joseph O'Connor today will tell the judiciary committee of the Chicago Bar association about the alleged "fixing" of a burglary case by Judge Eugene L. McGarry in Felony court.

A second complaint against Judge McGarry, concerning his dismissal of a larceny charge on Friday, will be considered Thursday by the board of managers of the association.

Bar officials said their inquiry, to be conducted in secret, will require several weeks. They would not say who has been asked to testify. The announcement about Moynihan and O'Connor was made by State's Attorney Courtney's office.

The association could recommend the judge's impeachment by the legislature or disbarment by the Illinois Supreme court, which would make him ineligible to continue on the bench. A less severe punishment would be publication of a report of censure.

A Teller of Good Fortune Meets Bad Luck in Court

HITLER TO DALADIER.

Herr Hitler's letter to Premier Daladier shows how a fair argument can suffer when made by the wrong person. The character of the Nazi leader and of his government obscures the validity of the reasoning with which another Germany might appeal to the good judgment of the world.

A Germany differently governed might be expected to deal justly with Polish commercial needs after it had regained possession of German territory. It is too bad for the world that when there was another Germany no offer was made to remove causes of war which now seem so little solvable. Many people must look back with regret to the lost opportunities. If they had been embraced they might have led to peaceable adjustments which would have left Herr Hitler an unknown man in harmless obscurity.

The brutality, bad faith, and menacing methods of the Nazi government make the position of its opponents seem better than it really is and make the German cause unappealing, even when it otherwise would seem reasonable.

"How would you act as a Frenchman," Hitler wrote to Daladier, "if through some unhappy issue of a brave struggle one of your provinces were severed by a corridor occupied by a foreign power and if a big city, let us say Marseilles, were hindered from belonging to France, and if Frenchmen living in this area were persecuted, beaten, and maltreated, yes, murdered, in a bestial manner?"

The latter part of that question may be dismissed as largely trumped up war talk but the first part of it is not so easy to answer. If a better man than Hitler asked it it would be still harder to answer. If a people better governed and therefore better behaved than the Germans put that question to the world, a candid answer would be that justice was on their side.

THE RED BOMBSHELL.

Compensations for the loss of Russia are appearing in both France and Great Britain. Although the Hitler-Stalin agreement may make Germany more formidable than ever, the long view of the affair may be quite satisfactory to the opponents of the Nazis.

An exhausting and destructive war, bringing all of Europe to the point of collapse, might have had as its aftermath a triumphant sweep of communism through the ruins of government. That danger would not have been decreased by the participation of Russian armies in the struggle against Hitler and Mussolini. The anti-axis propaganda would have been required to deal with Russia as a liberal democracy as opposed to the Nazi-Fascist tyrannies.

The Red cause would have been boosted as a part of the war medicine and communists in other countries would have been comrades of the bourgeoisie whose annihilation is written into true communist platforms as the first essential plank. Great Britain and France might have been able to defeat Germany and Italy and to destroy Nazism and Fascism only to find that they had cleared the way for another form of tyranny and oppression and of worse terror.

The causes of the breakdown of the Russian-British and French negotiations as they have been explained do not seem plausible, but they are given with authority. Voroshilov, the Russian war commissar, explained to the Russian press that the agreement was prevented by the refusal of Poland to permit soviet troops to enter Polish territory. Another explanation was that the British and French did not want to bind themselves to accept as an automatic cause of war the invasion of any one of the Baltic countries by a German force. One of these countries might even have made a deal with the Germans letting them in to fend off the danger of a Russian movement.

Stalin preferred the German agreement and having made his decision he characteristically carried it into effect treacherously. As Mr. Chamberlain said, Stalin threw a bomb shell, but the boss of the Kremlin may not have calculated the full effect of the explosion. The shell landed in the communists' ranks throughout the world. The party had been strong in France. Its influence in the socialist government of Blum was dominant and its saboteurs had been able nearly to wreck French war industries. Communist disturbances have been a cause of serious French weaknesses, and France, even if it had come successfully out of a war might have been one of the countries most in peril of Red dictation later. Stalin's treachery in joining with the man he had said was the world's greatest enemy has disgusted the former French sympathizers and the communist party in France is now a discredited and abominated thing.

The out and out communists are not so numerous in Great Britain. Even the Labor party, which was prepared to be sympathetic with the older bolshevists, had no use for Stalin, but it could have been won to greater friendliness by the soviets if Stalin and his crew had at any time been eliminated. Now the myth of Russia is thoroughly exploded in England. American communists and their sympathizers are trying to put the best face on an evil thing but they are making themselves ridiculous. Russia as the leader of world democracy now is about as funny as it is horrible. American left wingers are looking about for any kind of a sauce which will make their own words easier to eat.

The Russian revolution may not have consciously and intentionally written its own finish, but whatever was left of the Russian myth has blown up. It couldn't survive the handclasping of Herr Hitler and Stalin.

OKLAHOMA FIGHTS.

Gov. Leon Phillips of Oklahoma has threatened to call out his state's National Guard to prevent the federal government from building the Denison dam on the Red river, the Texas-Oklahoma boundary. The governor says that Oklahoma must be awarded a share of the revenues from the sale of power before he will consent to its being constructed. He demands an act of congress as a guarantee that Oklahoma's resources will not be taken without compensation.

His position is a reasonable one. The project calls for the flooding of 250 square miles of bottom land, including the town of Woodville and an important state road. Three counties and a dozen school districts in Oklahoma will suffer a heavy loss of tax revenue. All of this destruction is required for a power project upon which the war department's engineers reported adversely as recently as 1935. They said then in their report to President Roosevelt that there was no market for the power to be produced and, of course, there is no market for it today nor will there be one in the foreseeable future.

Still the federal government takes the position that the Denison site is a great natural resource, and as it takes this view of the matter it ought to accept the consequences of it. It is generally agreed that a land owner cannot be despoiled of the potential wealth which his land contains. That is true if the resource is fertile soil or mineral deposits like oil or coal. It is also true if the site happens to be in the center of a great city where it can command a high rental. It ought to be equally true when the land is useful for the production of power. The farmer who owns land which is to be inundated to produce power has at least as much right to share in the proceeds of the power sales as another farmer would have to share in the oil which might lie below his pasture. And the state which could tax the oil produced has precisely the same right to take its share of the income from the sale of power. As 80 per cent of the land to be flooded by the Denison dam lies in Oklahoma, the governor of that state is only doing his duty by his constituents in insisting that their rights be respected.

Gov. Phillips has the support, certainly, of taxpayers all over the country. This power project, like almost all of the government's hydro-electric schemes, is a fraud. If the purpose is to provide cheap power in the vicinity of the dam, the same result could be accomplished at far less expense and without any destruction of property by building a steam plant. As it is, the government is proposing to spend 54 million dollars on a dam nearly three miles long and as high as a fifteen story building, though the power to be produced there will go to waste. This huge outlay is contemplated at a time when the federal treasury is spending something like 3½ billion dollars a year in excess of its income, and when the government bond market is weakening under the threat of war. It is a crazy, profligate scheme, and almost any means which is found for halting it will be a good means.

WARNS OF LOVE OF POWER.

William Henry Harrison, once President of the United States, died almost 100 years ago. He served as President for just one month. Except as a warrior, the impression he made upon his country was not permanently important, but he was in his day highly regarded as a patriot and a man of great achievement—a general in the war of 1812 against England; a senator; an administrator of the Northwest Territory.

In his inaugural address on March 4, 1840, President Harrison dwelt on the perils to a democracy inherent in lust for power and made a declaration to which our attention has been directed by a reader. That declaration, against even a second term for President—not to speak of a third term— says:

"Republics can commit no graver error than to adopt or continue any feature in government which may create or increase the love of power in the bosoms of those to whom is committed the management of their affairs. Nothing can be more corrupting. . . . When this corruptive passion once takes possession of the human mind, like the love of gold, it becomes insatiable. . . .

"If this is true it is the part of wisdom for a republic to limit the service of that officer, at least, to whom she has intrusted the management of her foreign relations, the execution of her laws, and the command of her armies and navies, to a period so short as to prevent his forgetting that he is the accountable agent, not the principal; the servant, not the master.

"Until an amendment to the constitution can be effected, public opinion may secure the desired object. I give my aid to it by renewing the pledge heretofore given that under no circumstances will I consent to serve a second term."

Old Gen. Harrison, of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" fame and hero of the log cabin and hard cider campaign of 1840, lived even earlier than the horse and buggy days. His was the era of the ox cart, the flintlock, and the tomahawk. But there is a type of wisdom in government that is ageless. Something of it was enunciated in this Harrison inaugural.

Editorial of the Day

FIRST-CLASS RACKET.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Representative Thomas of New Jersey, a member of the Dies committee investigating "un-American activities," declared Saturday that the investigation so far has shown that "most of the subversive organizations are just financial rackets for the leaders."

Perhaps this is not what members of the committee expected to find when they began investigating, but it is nevertheless well worth knowing. The more sapient elements of the population have always suspected it, for experience long ago proved that the business of saving the world from this or that menace is exceedingly attractive to gentry who aspire to live without working.

The United States is by far the most fertile field in the world for protagonists of causes whose chief virtue is that they furnish a living to the executive secretary.

Indeed, whooping for a new form of government and enlisting dues paying members to support the movement must be, in the eyes of the high spirited lazy, one of the pleasantest methods of living without working. Not only does it bring in the cash in pleasing quantities, but it frequently endows the leader with power to make the politicians jump. Witness the enormous authority wielded, for a time, by the head men of the Ku Klux Klan, who actually made such a magnifico as W. J. Bryan walk warily and speak softly. Unfortunately—from the standpoint of the leaders of such movements—the racket does not often last long, for "you can't fool all the people all the time." Still, it is an easy life as long as the victims continue to foot the bills.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

"LOST WITH ALL HANDS."

The death of a newspaper is to a journalist, even if not concerned in the tragedy, what the sinking of a ship, any ship, is to a sailor; the news saddens him beyond the understanding of the layman or the landsman. We have seen a number die in Chicago without finding in any rival office smiles of satisfaction over the disappearance of competitors. We have gone down with one, as a member of the crew, in a slow and dismal foundering. We feel chilly, therefore, over the passing of the Herald and Examiner; we, too, know the coldness of the dark waters in which most of its writers and printers find themselves.

The Examiner, as we have always called it, ignoring its later two-decker name, inherited the subscription lists and traditions of two newspapers upon which we had worked—the Inter-Ocean and the Record-Herald. If possession of their files went with these mergers, then we may regard ourself as a shareholder in the lost cargo. [What becomes of the files of dead newspapers, we wonder?]

An issue of the Examiner in 1902, the year of its birth, will contain a small piece of our writing that is, in a small way, a record breaker. We were then at the University of Chicago and a campus space-writer for the Record-Herald. The Examiner boy took a night off and asked us to cover for him. [This was a common practice.] THE TRIBUNE lad did likewise. So that evening we dropped into the Examiner office, announced ourself as a pinch hitter, and wrote 200 words. Ditto at THE TRIBUNE; ditto, except for the pinch hitting, at the Record-Herald. In each case we treated the same theme in a different way.

The next morning all three papers published our variations of a single feature—and on their first pages! The "story" ran in this vein: "Prof. Starr Calls Wedding Ring Barbaric Vestige of Wives' Slavery." [Yes, he said it.] Later on the Sunday editors of the nation ran wild with elaborations of the idea.

ALEC TEMPLETON'S MESSAGE.

These he has never seen: A silver moon
Swinging her sickle through a field of stars,
Pale lilies riding on a dark lagoon,
Or leaves that sift the sun in golden bars.
He has not seen a rainbow's promise fair
Nor watched the dream-filled galleons of the air
With sails all set drift out across the sky.
But music from his finger tips combines
To build for us exquisite imagery;
He tells us of the wind in rustling pines,
Night's magic, the enchantment of the sea,
Pleading with every cadence he can find

An Ultimatum in the Grand Style.

The prolonged Danzig crisis reminds us that the following ultimatum was served upon Poland by Turkey in 1673:

"We have understood that you refuse to pay to our Serene Majesty the tribute stipulated by the late treaty between us and you, and to remove the garrisons out of your places on the frontiers. Wherefore it appears that you have broken the peace that was concluded with me; and is it thus lawful for you, in so short a time, to violate the peace? The governors and soldiers of our frontier places have not done your subjects any damage, nor given you any cause of offense; wherefore then have you broken the peace, and why have you provoked me, the Monarch of the World, to anger?

"Send us quickly the tribute and the gifts, which by virture of the treaty ought to have been paid on the day of S. Demetrius last past. Send them quickly, if you will, that the ancient treaties between us be preserved and reëstablished. Send the gifts, restore the castles, repair the damages, and do so sufficiently, unless you desire to be by my arms compelled to it. If you omit it, by the help of God, I will with innumerable armies infest and destroy thy Poland. Be therefore ready for war."

The Line's International News Service.

To take your mind off European affairs but still gratify your typical American yearning for international news, we wish to inform you that the kingdom of Siam has made an official change in its name. It asks to be known among occidentals as Thailand, and the consulates of all nations have been instructed to this effect. Siam's name for itself in its own language is Muang Thai.

Footnote to the Big Skunk Myth.

Many, many years, nay, centuries, after the Indians threw the Big Skunk [Aug. 26] into Lake Michigan, the citizens of Chicago had to do the job all over again. But this time they threw him into Alcatraz prison.

SONNET ON ZIGZAG WALKERS.

The human race, so-called, hath many types,
A fact that classes, likewise, as cliché;
Yet there's but one 'gainst whom I would inveigh,
Whom I should like to clothe in chains and stripes:
The man who most my budding rage enripes—
And in the Loop I track him every day
And zigzag rearward of him ev'ry way
Whilst irritation all my entrails gripes—

From side to side, who wambles, in a word
Carrollian, perhaps; who's like to sweep
At sharp right angle, causing you perforce
To bump him; aye, the feckless, dopey bird
Who walks as he were walking in his sleep!

Mother Cabrini's Great Stone Urn.

A New Game for Tree Hunters.

Omitting Grant park, where can one find the tree that is nearest to the loop? [I mean a tree growing in the earth, not in a box.] I nominate a catalpa at the southwest corner of Ohio and Dearborn streets.

VITAMIN C IN VINCENT'S ANGINA.

SINCE the time of Willoughby Miller, who found corkscrewlike organisms in the mouth—often associated with inflammation of the gums—physicians have been interested in the antics of this spirochete. It is quite different from the type responsible for syphilis. But it can and does cause a lot of trouble, not only within the oral cavity and throat, but in other regions of the body.

The well known malady, Vincent's angina, is ascribed to this germ. Because it cannot flourish in the presence of oxygen it is forced to hide where fresh air cannot penetrate. Therefore, as we would expect, it is likely to lurk beneath the margins of the gums and the edges of the bridgework and crowns.

Symptoms include soreness, swelling, and ulceration of the affected sites, which may be covered with a grayish yellow exudate which cannot be lifted off without producing bleeding. Growing in fair profusion, the microbes impart a foul odor to the breath. Not infrequently throat irritation is complained of and the tonsils may be found to be involved. An acute attack may last but a short time—from four to seven days. Nevertheless, the patient may exhibit fever, difficulty in swallowing, and numerous punched out sores on the mucous surfaces.

Naturally, there are many stages of the ailment—some mild, others more severe—and whenever the soft tissues about the teeth are red, puffy, and easily injured this disease should be suspected. If ulcers are noted on the tongue or the inside of the cheeks and lips, microscopic examination of the material from these areas may disclose the existence of spirals.

The usual treatment—sodium perborate employed as a wash—may be effective. In some instances, however, careful dental work to eliminate and sterilize pockets which may harbor the infection is demanded. If improvement is not observed promptly it may be necessary to resort to some preparation of arsenic—for example, neoarsphenamine. This drug seems to exert a deadly influence upon spirochetes of many sorts. Should the microbes travel to the lungs or localities distant from the mouth, no delay should be brooked in giving an intravenous injection of this chemical.

Curiously enough, many victims are found to be deficient in vitamin C. Sometimes generous allowances of oranges, lemons, grapefruit, or fresh vegetables will be remedial. In other words, we may look upon this disorder as likely to appear should the blood level of C drop low enough to inaugurate malnutrition. Many of us think that because weight is normal and we feel good that our meals are perfectly balanced. This may be far from true. Omitting any single essential article of diet may pave the way for a disease assault. Three or four years ago in a certain district in Colorado 40 per cent of nine thousand persons examined were found to be afflicted with Vincent's angina. This suggests that undernutrition prepared the way for the trouble.

Now, the chances are that most of us receive enough vitamin C to get along. We show no clear cut signs of scurvy, although an occasional tongue irritation or sore on the inside of the cheek may appear. We may regard this as a fungus infection and treat it with alum, whereupon healing may ensue. But should these episodes recur at intervals they should be regarded as hints, at least, that the diet may be at fault. With ample doses of citrus fruits many a tendency in this direction has been relieved completely.

Several reliable reports indicate that this is a promising lead. In a group of cases vigorous treatment without this vitamin proved helpful but not curative, whereas with plenty of the missing food element recovery was the rule. For those who should not add to their intake of alkalis by means of orange juice, vitamin C [cevitamic acid] may be obtained in tablet form.

It goes without saying that the time expended on the care of the mouth will yield dividends in well being. We can preserve healthy organs and avoid these wormlike forms by keeping the resistance high. No case of this disease should be neglected as the tonsils, the pharynx, the bronchi, and even the lungs may later become the target.

WE ALL STARTED THAT WAY.

L. E. H. writes: Our 15 month old baby was born with flat feet. Is this condition hereditary? Can anything be done to cure it?

REPLY.

This is perfectly normal. The elevation of the arch does not become apparent until the child is considerably older. No treatment should be necessary. Change the child's shoes often enough to keep up with his growth.

SNAKEBITE SERUM.

W. E. writes: Is there a vaccine to prevent the ill effects of rattlesnake bite?

REPLY.

Antivenin serum will neutralize the poisons.

BURSITIS.

R. G. A. writes: What is bursitis?

REPLY.

Inflammation of bursa [which are closed sacs or pouches containing fluid]; usually due to some prolonged pressure or injury.

WILL CONTEST.

Chicago, Aug. 25 [Legal Friend of the People].—I am a widow with three grown children, all of age. Lately I have made out a will leaving all my property, personal and real, to only two. The third was not mentioned in the will.

1. In the event of my death could the third son break the will and come in for a third of the property, [2] inasmuch as his name is not mentioned in the will?
3. Must I leave him something?
4. A lawyer made out my will, but [5] different people keep telling me I must leave this third son something in the will or he can break it. S. A.

1. Depends on the proof of undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.
2 and 3. These points are not conclusive.
4. This was the best assurance against a will contest.
5. They are mistaken.

THIRD TERM TRADITION.

Stony Lake, Mich., Aug. 23.—I was much interested in your story on the third term tradition and would like to add my congratulation to the thousands you have no doubt received from your readers.

You might have added to the rest of the fine evidence the statement of another President, namely, William Henry Harrison. In his inaugural address in 1841 he stated very plainly where he stood on the matter and why.

I feel that Harrison was a vigorous leader and I would be glad at this time to see some one of his stamp rise up in the Republican ranks and make a clear statement of the old-fashioned fundamentals. Gen. Lew Wallace, who wrote a biography of Benjamin Harrison, evidently thought that William Henry was a leader of pretty hardy fiber.

LEE A. DUDLEY.

APPLAUDS THE CHANGE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—You recently printed several letters condemning the President's action in changing the date of Thanksgiving this year. You also commented on thirty-two other letters received, all in the same vein, and remarked that none were received favoring it.

That may be, but on the day or the day after the news broke, on about the fifth page in a very small column, you told how the State street merchants favored this plan as an aid to Christmas trade and adding that it would give an extra week's work to the help employed for this period.

I think you are just scared to death that the President will run for a third term and you know that if he does run he will win. That's why you are just in an anti-Roosevelt frenzy all the time and will only print letters against him.

Well, whether you print this or not, here's one letter to go on record applauding his action in moving up Thanksgiving day this year. M. W.

THE CITY'S LANDMARKS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Mr. Musham's proposal for a Fort Dearborn memorial is the first constructive suggestion made along these lines. How would it be to have THE TRIBUNE conduct a contest soliciting drawings and plans for the improvement of this famous intersection which can be published in THE TRIBUNE and voted upon by the people of Chicago? Such an idea might be expanded to embrace other important intersections in Chicago, such as Madison and Wacker, La Salle and Randolph, Clark and La Salle, and Clark and Ogden, to mention only a few.

Chicago shows promise of some day being the world's most progressive city. The maintenance of these historical monuments and landmarks will do much toward bringing about a more inspiring and attractive community.

R. W. DANON.

A CINEMA MENACE.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 26.—Is the cinema becoming a propaganda menace? I saw the "Nurse Edith Cavell" film, just previewed here. It is a dangerous propaganda picture, inspired and financed by Great Britain to stir up war hate and inflame the American people. Why should American screens be used for such purposes? AMY LYONS.

ILLINOIS FIRMS OUT OF LUCK.

As the taxpayer and the school are directly related the former should be benefited by this work, but the facts are as follows: Illinois' occupational tax as administered throws a great percentage of this work to out of state firms, they being exempt from this tax. Records show they benefit, being awarded on the lowest bid, which is a federal regulation, the tax often proving a deciding factor.

In the state of Iowa nonresident bidders must pay an income tax to the state on similar work above $1,500. In other states various laws are in effect to protect and not injure home industries. Ohio has a law requiring nonresident companies to carry insurance with the state. Wisconsin requires all corporations to be licensed in the state.

Our lawmakers in Illinois overlook the fact that these firms in the state should have the same protection that other states see fit to give their taxpayers. How long can the firms in this state engaged in this work continue paying tax with this condition? J. C. BECKER.

GRAFT AND SLOT MACHINES.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—As to slot machines, our federal investigators might be interested in checking up on the money paid the sheriffs to permit the running of these devices and by whom. Any amateur detective could easily follow the trail. The writer has been one of the hundreds of thousands of suckers who played these machines in every corner of Illinois. I would say there are some 75,000 machines still in operation in Illinois today and some one is cashing in on this tremendous source of graft

So long as crooked politicians are able to get their hands on lucrative sources of graft we are going to have bad laws and bad enforcement of the good laws.

"TOPS" IN MUSIC FETES.

West Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 24.—I have attended the Music Festival three times, but to me the one this year was "tops." We congratulate Phil Maxwell, whose untiring efforts make Chicago the place to which all eyes turn in August. We are happy to know that our generation will leave to its children such a fine institution as the Chicagoland Music Festival. I. B.

HONORING MASSACRE HEROES.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The suggestions of H. A. Musham, naval architect, who cited mistakes during his plea for the razing of Fort Dearborn, are interesting. To outline in colored concrete the site of the original fort at Michigan avenue south of the river is a feasible plan. To rename the outer drive bridge for Capt. John Whistler and to change Wacker drive to Heald drive in honor of Capt. Nathan Heald, who commanded the troops in the Fort Dearborn massacre, should also be satisfactory.

The square formed by the river, South Water street, and Wabash avenue could be called Ronan square, in memory of Ensign Ronan, killed defending the women and children, and the Michigan avenue bridge could properly be changed to Fort Dearborn bridge. Musham also suggested that the square north of the bridge be named for Dr. Isaac Van Voorhis, third surgeon of Fort Dearborn, who also lost his life in the massacre.

CITIZEN.

RACE PREJUDICE.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I have a friend whose son graduated from Purdue this spring. This lad was chosen as one of three candidates to be interviewed for a position as chemical engineer. When his application was examined he was turned down because his father was a Greek. His mother was an American born woman and his father a native of Athens.

This lad naturally was dumfounded. The audacity of any one showing such a discrimination! As if the lad were to blame. His father and brothers own and operate a successful china and glassware wholesale business and are highly respected.

I wish I could get a chance to talk to the man who has made that lad so unhappy. D. C.

NICKED HIS PAY ENVELOPE.

Ontarioville, Ill., Aug. 24.—I felt slighted when, just because I was past 65, I couldn't get in on "old age security," but now, joy unspeakable! Last week they dipped into my little flat pay envelope and without my knowledge or consent, took out $18.15 and now I am on the list as a weekly contributor to certain worthy projects, such as paying the farmers not to raise crops and paying the hired man not to work for the farmer. Now they'll get a few more millions out of poor old guys like myself who have been hanging on to the old job rather than become public charges and paupers.

JUST AN OLD TORY.

NARRAGANSETT REGAINS PLACE IN SUN UNDER G. O. P.

Racing Sport Kept Clean; Politics Submerged.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., Aug. 28.—Narragansett race track, the richest horse park in the country until political bossdom seized it nearly two years ago, is limping back toward prosperity.

The track was grabbed by Gov. Robert E. [Rule or Ruin] Quinn, the little dictator of the nation's smallest state, until William H. Vanderbilt, the Republican nominee for governor, snowed him under last fall at the polls.

Quinn declared martial law and moved troops and machine guns into Narragansett Park in order to oust his political foe, Walter E. O'Hara, president and managing director at the track. This was the same governor who two years before had figured in the "bloodless revolution" through which the Democratic machine seized control of the state government and booted out the Supreme court.

Slump Affects Betting.

Since the military grab, the track never has fully recovered. The "handle" or betting volume is below the peak of several years ago. However, the management blames this on the business slump under the Roosevelt administration.

As a barometer of economic conditions, Narragansett race track has as large an attendance today as at any time in its history. But three and four years ago, $2 bets accounted for only 40 per cent of the total, whereas today it totals 70 per cent. Just as many people are patronizing the track, but they are wagering less.

Gov. Vanderbilt has maintained a strict hands off policy on Narragansett track, as well as the other hot political potato, the so-called Kangaroo Supreme court set up by the Democratic machine four years ago. The new governor regards the track as a business proposition and has refused to tamper with its operation as a private enterprise.

Party Machine Demanded Jobs.

Under the Quinn régime Narragansett Park was an important cog in the Democratic patronage machine, which included state, federal, and Providence city pay rollers. There are about 600 track employés, including those in the pari-mutuel department, guards, gatemen, ticket sellers, laborers on the grounds, and so on.

According to the best information available, Gov. Vanderbilt has refused steadfastly to turn the track into a source of patronage. Incidentally, the governor has visited the track only once since taking office.

The governor's watchful eye over the track's operation is Louis C. Gerry, a widely known broker and sportsman whom Vanderbilt named as administrator of racing, boxing, and wrestling. Gerry is serving without pay, although the post carries a $6,000 yearly salary.

Sport Is Kept Clean.

Gerry's policy has been to let the race track people have a free hand, as long as they keep the sport clean. All horses are given saliva tests to determine whether a stimulating dope or a "slow pill" has been administered. So far there have been no doping or betting scandals under the new administration.

O'Hara's successor as president of the Narragansett Racing association is James E. Dooley, a former probate judge. Dooley was a member of the Republican state central committee when he agreed to take over the management of the track, but the G. O. P. turned on the pressure and Dooley resigned from the committee.

Dooley is the antithesis of O'Hara. The former is a quiet, mild mannered, businesslike individual. O'Hara was a spectacular promotor who made a fortune out of selling second hand textile machinery to southern manufacturers. He built the race track out of the profits in seven weeks.

Lauds Governor's Fairness.

This correspondent today found Dooley in his penthouse atop the clubhouse stands — the same penthouse in which O'Hara was besieged by Gov. Quinn's troops. Dooley declared Gov. Vanderbilt had given the track a free hand and had not made a single recommendation for a job, whereas Quinn insisted on the greater share of patronage.

"My policy," went on the new head of the track, "is getting the best set of racing officials, stewards, racing secretary, and starting judges possible, then holding them to strict accountability for the proper conduct of racing."

A month ago the local courts upheld Dooley in a proxie fight when O'Hara attempted to regain control of the track. The Dooley group voted 210,000 shares while the O'Hara bloc mustered 110,000.

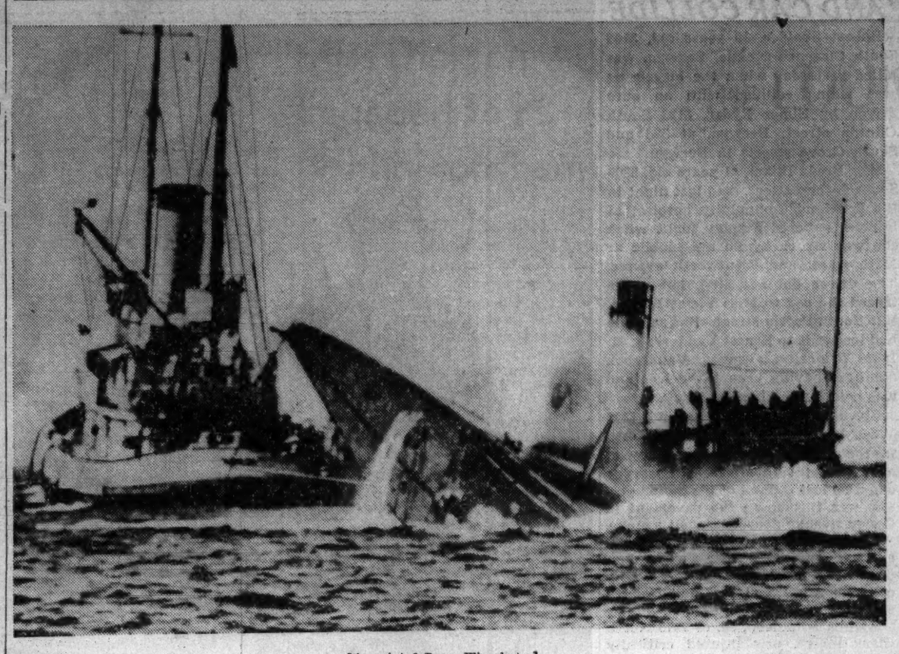
Squalus Rises and Sinks Below Surface Again



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Against a backdrop of salvage ships the submarine Squalus rose to the surface for a few moments during operations off Portsmouth, N. H., yesterday. Here is the bow out of water, much as it appeared on July 13 when it broke chains and sank again, but yesterday the navy had the sub under control.

NEW DIFFICULTY BLOCKS LIFTING OF SUB SQUALUS

Craft Lowered to Sea Floor After Setback.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 28 (AP).—For the second time in three months, the bow of the ill-fated submarine Squalus thrust itself above the surface of the Atlantic in a wild smother of foam today, but once again the craft and her 26 dead settled back to the bottom.

Within a hair's breadth of completing probably the most remarkable salvage job in naval history, the crew that has labored above the Squalus since May 23 left the bow of the craft embedded in a mud bank tonight.

After a conference of technicians aboard the salvage flagship Falcon, Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, in charge of operations, said another lifting attempt probably will be made Wednesday morning.

Rests on Even Keel.

It is planned to attach two pontoons to the bow as well as to the stern, anchoring them to a chain beneath the forward section.

An inspection dive revealed the Squalis lay on even keel fore and aft, with about a 30 degree list and only slightly imbedded in the soft mud bottom.

The task of the salvage experts was nowhere near as desperate as when the bow of the once-flooded craft last shot to the surface on July 13, breaking away from her lifting chains, only to plunge back to a 240 foot depth in a tangle of lifting gear.

Lays in 90 Feet of Water.

Today's lift, which brought both the bow and the stern of the $4,000,000 craft to or near the surface at different times, left the Squalus in 90 feet of water about two miles from the Isle of Shoals. If successful, the projected hoist and tow would have landed the submarine in dry dock at Portsmouth tonight.

After the submarine sank today, the salvage ship Falcon pumped air into the bow in an effort to bring it to the surface again. But only occasional bursts of bubbles came up as a reward.

Finally, at 2:15 p. m., Admiral Cole decided to sink the stern back to the bottom, and only the cluster of buoys holding the score of hose lines could be seen on the surface at sunset.

Submarine with 99 Dead Lifted 8 Miles Shoreward

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 28 (AP).—The British submarine Thetis, which sank and carried ninety-nine men to death in Liverpool bay on June 1, was dragged eight miles toward shore today. This was the first of eight lifts planned by salvage experts to beach the craft.

ADMIRAL WATTS TAKES COMMAND OF NAVY DISTRICT

Rear Admiral William Carleton Watts, former commander of the United States navy's base force at San Pedro, Cal., yesterday assumed command of the Ninth Naval district and the Great Lakes Training station. He succeeds Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis, who will take command of the Atlantic squadron of the United States fleet.

Rear Admiral Watts.

A ceremony at the naval station marked the transfer. Admiral Ellis had been in charge of the Chicago navy district for two and a half years. His flagship as commander of the Atlantic squadron will be the U. S. S. New York.

Admiral Watts is 59 years old and a native of Philadelphia. He is a graduate of the United States Naval academy, class of 1898, and was made a rear admiral eight years ago. He served in the Spanish-American war and commanded the U. S. S. Albany, an escort ship, during the world war.

PALMOLIVE LEAP HELD SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of James Morgan Bushnell, 51 years old, who leaped from the eighteenth floor of the Palmolive building, 919 North Michigan avenue, on Saturday. He lived in the Y. M. C. A. hotel at 826 South Wabash avenue.

INCOME TAX QUIZ FACED BY LEADER OF SILVER SHIRTS

Dies Committee to Turn Over Its Figures.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 (AP).—The house committee on un-American activities directed its investigators today to turn over to income tax authorities the information they have collected about the financial affairs of William Dudley Pelley of Asheville, N. C., leader of the Silver Shirts and publisher of anti-Semitic literature.

William D. Pelley.

Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] also instructed Rhea Whitley, committee counsel, to determine whether Pelley, the German-American bund, and the communist party have violated the law requiring agents of foreign principals to register with the state department.

He said Pelley and the bund were disseminating propaganda originating in Germany and that the communist party also was engaged in propaganda activities.

Income Figures Given.

The committee information concerning Pelley's financial affairs was ordered turned over to the bureau of internal revenue after Robert B. Barker, a committee investigator, had testified that at least $174,014 was received by Pelley and the corporations he controls in the last eight years.

For the five years, 1934 to 1938, inclusively, Barker said, Pelley paid a total federal income tax of $216.36 on behalf of himself, his wife, and the Pelley publications of Asheville.

The investigator, who spent most of the day discussing the financial history of the Silver Shirt leader, also accused Pelley of diverting $100,000 of assets of one of his publishing companies, the Galahad Press. As a result, Barker said, Galahad Press became bankrupt, and preferred stockholders and creditors lost between $35,000 and $40,000.

Injunction Refused.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 28 (AP)—United States District Judge E. Yates Webb denied today a request by William Dudley Pelley that the Dies committee be restrained from investigating the personal activities of Pelley and the Silver Shirts.

Teachers Turn 1,000 Pupils Away; Demand Back Wages

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 28 (AP).—Pupils were turned away today, the start of the fall term, at seven Porter township schools because teachers said there would be no classes until they received "back pay in full." A thousand pupils, most of them taken to schools by bus, were told by Supervising Principal E. A. Keiser to return home and await word from him when classes would start. The thirty-six teachers said they were owed three months' back pay—and voted to stay away from classes until they were paid.

"YOUR WAIST MUST BE LONG AND SLIM LIKE THE STEM OF A CHAMPAGNE GLASS"

Nostalgic reminders of another era . . . when beauty was measured by grace and carriage . . . and when a writer of old penned of his love . . . "like a fair sloping sunny bank with the long tapering arms and the slim waist so tempting between."

Once again Paris revives the moulded bosom, the rounded hips, the long, slim waist, and with peplums, polonaise, tiers, bustle bows and princess skirts contrives to diminish your waistline.

Since Paris makes no compromise on the tiny waistline you'll hasten into an interpretation of Mainbocher's back lace corset that gently persuades you to the Fashion Figure of Autumn, 1939. You'll even wear a desperately simple black dress and be a Great Lady because of your fragile waist.

WOMAN IS HELD WITHOUT BOND AS WILD DRIVER

Joan Meriault Admits Her Guilt After Flight.

Mrs. Joan Meriault, 26 years old, a divorcéee whose motoring escapades called attention several weeks ago to the loose administration of the drivers' license law, was ordered held without bond yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in Safety court. Her case was continued until today after she pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

Mrs. Meriault was seized by police Sunday when she returned to her home at 4332 Drexel boulevard. She had been sought since Aug. 1 when she failed to appear in court.

Afraid to Surrender.

"I was afraid to come in," she said, but would not explain the statement. She said she had been in Detroit most of the time police were hunting for her and reporting to Judge Borrelli daily that they were only a step behind her.

Mrs. Meriault's brushes with the trafic laws began June 29 when she was put on probation for six months on a drunken driving charge by Judge Thomas A. Green. Her driving privileges were suspended for the same period.

On July 29, however, Mrs. Meriault was rearrested on a reckless driving charge when an automobile she was operating crashed into two parked cars. She supplied $50 bond, which was forfeited when she did not appear in court.

Then it was learned that her previous arrest had not been noted on her driver's license, as required by law, and the investigation of laxity in the enforcement of the law began.

Five Get Jail Terms.

Five motorists, one a second offender, were sentenced to jail terms by Judge Borrelli yesterday. Anton Sikorcin, 32, of 2328 North Parkside avenue, a painter, was sent to the Bridewell for sixty days on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The court was informed that three years ago Sikorchin served thirty days on a similar charge.

The others sentenced are:

Lemont Kennedy, 34, colored, 3574 Vincennes avenue, a laborer, thirty days in the Bridewell, driving while intoxicated.

Martin Benz, 47, of 4550 North Claremont avenue, ten days in the county jail, leaving the scene of an accident.

Alfredo Romez, 39, of 3547 Ellis avenue, five days in the county jail, leaving the scene of an accident.

Shaughnessy and Benz also were fined $10 for faliure to have drivers' licenses. The licenses of the others were revoked for one year.

Impound Thirteen Licenses.

The licenses of thirteen drivers, twelve of whom were charged with reckless driving, were impounded by the court pending trial. They are:

John Steffns, 4551 South Springfield avenue.

Joseph Wilson, colored, 19 East 44th street.

Peter Kornevich, 2833 Dawson avenue.

Charles Bonner, 6831 Paxton avenue.

John Soch, 2322 Janssen avenue.

William North, 5620 North Maplewood avenue.

Joseph Cimaglia, 4841 Patterson avenue.

Miss Pearl Gieron, 3218 North Kimball avenue.

John Pierce, 4318 Evans avenue.

William Walker, 4946 Division street.

Andro Kaluzo, 4550 South Mozart street.

Tilmon Richmond, 5710 South Park way.

BRIDGES ASSERTS DEMOCRATS, NOT REDS, GUIDED HIM

Tells His Strategy in '36 Waterfront Strike.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28 [Special].—Harry Bridges today took the stand for the third time at his deportation hearing and denied that he is a communist, that he ever attended communist meetings, or that he had boasted he was running the communist party on the Pacific coast, as government witnesses had testified.

In denying the charge that he is a communist, the west coast C. I. O. leader declared that interests of the Democratic party, rather than those of the communist party, motivated his actions in the 1936 waterfront strike.

Replies to Sapiro Charges.

Bridges made this assertion in connection with charges of Aaron Sapiro, labor attorney aligned with the factions opposed to Bridges. Sapiro, as a government witness, testified that communist party orders were involved in the 1936 maritime strike.

Bridges flatly denies this. Instead, he said, he attempted to delay the strike until after the Nov. 2 election in 1936 in the interests of the Democratic party.

Denies Browder Conference.

Testifying in his defense to clear up loose ends of the case in which the government seeks to deport him to his native Australia on charges that he belongs to the communist party and that the communist party advocates overthrow of the government by violence, Bridges also denied he had ever conferred with Earl Browder, No. 1 communist in the United States.

End of the long hearing on Angel Island was in sight as it began its eighth week. Defense attorneys said they expected to close their case possibly by Wednesday.

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

REROUTE TRAFIC ON LAKE SHORE TO FINISH PARK

Rush hour trafic along Lake Shore drive between Ohio and Oak streets was placed under new regulations last night. The new rules will apply to all 5 to 6 p. m. trafic until construction work at North avenue and the south end of Lincoln park is completed.

During the hour named the openings between the two express drives will be closed at Erie street and Chicago avenue. Westbound trafic for streets between Ohio and North avenue is asked to turn into Ohio and go north on Michigan avenue. Left turns will be permitted at Delaware place, and northbound trafic using the local drive may enter the express lane there.

The signal lights at Chicago avenue will not operate and pedestrians are advised to use the underpass. There will be police protection for pedestrians crossing at the intersections where it is needed. Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer, said the new regulations would continue for several weeks at least.

YOUTH IS KILLED WHEN HIS BICYCLE AND CAR COLLIDE

Robert Spalder, 19 years old, 3102 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn, was killed yesterday when the bicycle he was riding collided with an auto driven by Elmer Ryder, 3123 South Clinton street, Berwyn, at 32d and South Grove streets in Berwyn.

Golfer's Tale.

A foursome was getting ready to tee off at the fifteenth tee when a single player rushed up and asked if he might go through, Frank Rand relates. The foursome, somewhat coldly, told the man to go ahead.

"Gee, thanks, fellows," he said. "They sent out word from the club a moment ago that my wife just died."

To End Three Little Fishie Stories.

The woman behind Nat Lane on the train coming into Chicago from the south was trying to quiet the small child beside her. The train approached a river and a dam and Mr. Lane winced to hear the woman say: "There, darling, is the dam the itty bitty fishies swam over."

THEY'RE OFF.

Seabuisct was in the lead,
For hes the greatest strongest stead.
And number two is close behind,
For he was cheating when they lined.
The third horse was far far back,
I think they called him Iron Mac.
Silver Knight was gaining fast,
Till just like that he went on past.
But, but, alas he lost the winning lead,
For Seabuisct was the better stead.
Fifth and sixth were neck and neck.
One was a break down, the other was a reck.
The one who one was the one who lead,
Seabuisct by halph a head.

Market By-Play.

One day last week, when the market was crashing because of the European situation, a message came over private wire from New York to a Chicago brokerage house: "They say Rozafskey has resigned." Partners and customers' men racked their brains to think who Rozafskey was and opinion was fairly evenly divided as to whether he was a Polish political head or a military chief. Finally a query was put on the wire: "Who is Rozafskey?" The answer came back immediately: "The messenger boy on post No. 9 in the New York Stock exchange."

The Housewife

You can help inculcate the habit of neatness in your growing son by providing him with a clothes tree for his bedroom. Especially made for men, the type we saw the other day is of mahogany with a lower rack for shoes, an upper arch for jackets, a rod for trousers, and at the top a shallow cup for collar buttons. It takes up little space. Most men, as well as boys, are fond of a gadget like this. And it is not expensive.

Miss Dickson Engaged to H. N. Higinbotham

BY JUDITH CASS.

An announcement of great interest in Chicago and Joliet is being made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eugene Dickson of Chicago. It is of the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Harlow Niles Higinbotham, son of Harlow B. Higinbotham and grandson of the late Harlow N. Higinbotham of Joliet.

All three generations of the Higinbotham family were born in Joliet, and it was in the house at Harlowarden, the Higinbotham estate, that young Mr. Higinbotham's sister, Florence, became the bride of John Skelton Williams of Richmond, Va., six years ago. The first Harlow Higinbotham was born on the property in 1838. He was a pioneer Chicago merchant and president of Chicago's World's Fair in 1893.

Miss Dickson and her fiancé have not made any definite plans for their marriage, but they will go to Joliet to make their home. Miss Dickson is a graduate of the Marot Junior college in Connecticut and attended the University of Chicago. Mr. Higinbotham prepared for college in the east and is a graduate of Harvard. Mrs. Richard T. Crane and Mrs. A. H. Patterson of Chicago are his aunts.

Castle Park Holds Horse Show Tomorrow.

The highlight of the summer season at Castle Park, Mich., across the lake, always is the annual horse show and dance which follows. This summer's will be held tomorrow, so from near and far guests are gathering in the homes of Castle Park summer colonists.

Mrs. Edward H. Bennett and her daughter, Miss Betty Mead, who are noted equestrians, will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Brown. Mr. Brown is general chairman of the show, and he and his wife usually visit the Bennetts in Lake Forest during the horse show there.

The Jack Kimberlys and the Ernst Mahlers and their daughter, Miss Polly Mahler, have shipped several of their horses from Neenah, Wis. The Fred Fords and the Charles Pierces of Detroit, and the Donald Ordways of Battle Creek are others who will exhibit their horses. Anne and Sally Ordway will ride their parents' entries.

Mr. Kimberly is M. F. H. of the Tryon, N. C., Hunt, of which Mr. Brown was master until he resigned a year or two ago. The latter now is honorary huntsman, and his two sons, Carter Wilkie Brown and Austin, are honorary whipper-ins. The former, who attends the Asheville school, will have a pretty and distinguished horsewoman from Greenwich, Conn., as his guest over the horse show, Miss Antoinette Wickes. Miss Wickes, who always is called Toni, attended the Madeira school and Miss Nixon's in Florence. She will ride some of the Browns' horses, as she has not brought her own with her.

Walter A. Bell Jr. of Tyron will ride Mrs. James F. Getz's Plowboy. Mr. and Mrs. Getz have been supervising the building of a new home west of Chicago and so have not spent much time at their summer home in Holland, near Castle Park, this summer.

Chicago Children in Junior Classes.

One of the tiniest exhibitors will be Cynthia Laing, Dr. and Mrs. Grant Laing's daughter, who last year rode on a lead. The junior Rush C. Butlers' daughters, Blair and Judy, and Barbara Wells, Mrs. John Favill's daughter, also will ride in the children's classes. Dr. and Mrs. Favill and the Laings have cottages at the Park for the summer.

The Albert W. Sherers, former Chicagoans who now live in Greenwich, and their son, Bud, a student at the Harvard law school; Mrs. Edward F. Hamm and the junior Edward F. Hamms [Joy Fairman]; Dr. and Mrs. Paul Greeley and Julius Greeley, and the Francis R. Blossoms are others who will watch the show or take part in it. The Maurice Needhams, Mrs. Getz's parents, will miss the show, for they came back to Chicago for the All-Star football game.

N. Philip Frye Jr. of Glencoe, who is a senior at Princeton, is treasurer of the show. The proceeds always go to the Crippled Children's Fund

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[Posed by Virginia Grey.]

For your new fall clothes you'll need new fall lipstick shades. For blacks and blues, look at a bonfire red shade, brilliant and rich, that is a smart costume accent and a flattering color touch to blonde as well as brunette.

Now that beauty is Siamese twin to fashion the cosmetic industry must share the apparel industry's sorrows as well as joys. The joys, of course, are many and delightful. But under the head of sorrows they must count the headache of trying to guess what colors Mrs. Consumer will prefer above all others in a season—and the guesses, in lipstick shades as in fabrics, must be made well in advance of that season.

Last fall and winter the wine shades were what Hollywood would call "colossal." Some lipstick manufacturers were utterly unprepared for it. What the big color will be this fall is still any one's guess. Some are betting on the browns, some on the greens. But all are being careful enough to put substantial side bets on that perennial favorite, black. And if ever an autumn comes when black isn't the big winner, the fashion and beauty experts will probably tear up their prediction sheets and start all over again.

So the first fruits of the lipstick maker's guesses are beginning to pour in. We've liked nearly all we've seen and we've fallen quite in love with a few. One of the few is a blazing, roaring red—true as true red can be—that is sensationally attractive with black. And it's no slouch with a few other colors, either. Blue, for instance,

The texture of this stick is close to perfect. It doesn't crumble nor cake but neither is it so creamy that it's too slippery. It gives a satin finish that lasts quite well. The color will be one of the raves of the season. You've never seen such a red. It's not the least bit dark or sullen. It's vivid and rich and immensely flattering to all types. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Fall Millinery Goes to Spain for Inspiration

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

Noticeable in the new fall millinery is the Spanish influence. A recent showing of French originals included, for instance, the flat disc worn by the romantic matador. Also evident was the Spanish comb effect and the Spanish rose tucked devastatingly behind the right ear.

Of course, they are all adaptations, but by their subtle exaggerations and clever manipulations of the Parisian fingers which designed them, they tell their Spanish story clearly and interestingly. In addition, they are highly feminine chapeaux, flattering and alluring beyond a doubt, and examples again of the elegance that can be conjured up by sheer simplicity.

In detail . . . there is the matador's hat which in the 1939 adaptation is a thick sculptured oval disc, tilted over the brow with a great forward sweeping motion. Perfectly flat it is, with a head strap to grip the hair firmly and hold the hat securely in its precarious position atop the curls. Black is the color. Some designers have used a bit of black lace to trim the outer edge of the disc. The lace stands up crisply like a miniature picket fence a fraction of an inch tall.

The one resembling a Spanish comb is a small hat, but built up high to remind imaginative souls of señoritas with dancing heels, clacking castanets and architectural coiffures.

Most captivating of all was a little felt cap, black, too, fitting skull tight, with a suggestion of a snood in the back, but with all the interest centered in a huge red flower larger than the little hat itself tucked behind the right ear like a flaming hibiscus.

Kenilworth Field Day.

Kenilworth will hold its annual field day on Sept. 15 at the Illinois Golf club.

On the House

If you should wish to change the color of white window shades, try giving them a coat of kalsomine or cold water paint. You can buy it in powder form. After you have taken the shades down and brushed off the dust, put them on a flat surface. Prepare your paint solution just thick enough to spread. Start at the top of the shade and work down. If necessary apply a second coat after the first coat is dry and then turn over and give the over side of shade two coats. This type of "glorified kalsimine" or cold water paint comes in many different colors. With it a shade takes on a new color lease on life.

The Philharmonic orchestra of Los Angeles.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Those crowds on the east side of State street—smiling crowds, humming crowds!—know where they're coming from?

"The Star Maker" is one of the most refreshing things that's come to the loop in a long time. It's so spontaneous! So ingratiating! So witty, warm and tuneful! Bing sings. Linda Ware, the new 14 year old find, sings—most beautifully!—the mess of clever kids who form the mainspring of the plot sing, and, by golly, you sing, too, because young Mr. Crosby stands right up in meeting and asks you to, providing words, music, and the dancing ball to help you along.

It's all just as co-sy!

The interesting career of Gus Edwards, who for years toured the world with a company of bright youngsters in a skit called "School Days," forms the basis for the plot of Bing's new release. . . . Larry Earl, composer of popular songs, is on his uppers—but determined to work for no man but himself. His young wife does wish he'd get a regular job—but, after all, anything he does or doesn't do suits her all right.

Strolling down the street one day Larry happens upon a covey of newsboys singing and dancing on a street corner and making a pretty good thing of their performance. His GREAT IDEA is born! He'll get together a kid singing and dancing act!

He does. It goes over. It is the seed from which hundreds of acts of its kind develop, playing on stages all over the country. And continue to keep papa happily dodging from a rain of golden nuggets until the child welfare societies get busy. Which makes that—that!

Not, however, before Bing has given much fresh talent to the world—most remarkable specimen being Jane Grey, whom his old eyes delightedly behold on a stage with Walter Damrosch, while his ears hear the voice he has discovered caroling to the accompaniment of—the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra!

What to do? Well—comes radio. We leave the "Star Maker" in new fields of richly blooming clover.

This is the best show Mr. Crosby has drawn in a long time. He has admirable support, both child and adult. Ned Sparks, as his far seeing press agent—who doesn't like children almost puts the audience in the aisles. Louise Campbell, whom you think a bit amateurish at first, ISN'T. She's just herself—dewy fresh and divertingly natural. Laura Hope Crews does a neat bit.

Direction was tops and staging, costumes, scenery, and songs of the Ziegfeld era are captivating.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 28.—Taken by and large, or horizontally, or vertically, or even on the bias, the last week was as exciting a procession of seven days as this colony has witnessed in some time. . . . The war scare in Europe was a grim monotone, rendered more so because Hollywood has strings attaching it to every country in Europe. . . . Not only that, but there were at least forty movie celebs traveling abroad, so that every studio had a personal contact with the war zone that accented its terror. . . . In this particular week there were previews and parties that had been arranged and could not very well have been called off.

Baby Snooks gave a party Sunday afternoon on North Faring road. . . . The invitation read: "Won't you please come to a party in my back yard? Daddy says we is gonna have fun and good things to eat and everything." . . . Attached was a map showing the guests how to get to Snooks' home. . . . Hostess, of course, was Fannie Brice, who has had as strange a career as any performer in the profession. . . . Her "Baby Snooks," which flopped on the radio in the east, clicked on L. K. Sidney's "Good News" show for MGM, and made her a national headliner all over again.

Saturday night was the annual party and barn dance of the Darryl Francis Zanucks. . . . A road map showed you where to cross the hills and reach Ventura boulevard and make your left turn on Havenhurst to the Zanuck estate. . . . In a week of war scares it was interesting to reflect that Zanuck, a Wahoo, Neb., boy, had been a doughboy in the last world war. . . . Between 1919 and 1939, starting from scratch, he had become one of the most important figures in the industry. . . . The party indicated just how great a figure, because every biggie in the business answered his invitation. . . . The turnout ran the gamut from Mary Pickford to Oroson Welles, newest screen recruit. . . . "How can comics like me get laughs when guys like you wear beards like that," Jack Oakie asked Welles during a lull.

Dressed in jodhpurs, overalls, sombreros, and tailored cowboy outfits the celebs danced the Virginia reel while a cowboy band fiddled in the Zanuck barn, or switched to rhumba and tango when the Cuban band took over.

Thursday night was the 19th wedding anniversary party of the Nate Blumbergs, hustling president of Universal, who has returned that ancient company to big money rating. . . . You reflected to yourself that Blumberg, in nineteen years, has traveled a long way from the little theater which he once managed in Racine, Wis. . . . Secret of his spectacular elevation in the entertainment business is simple enough. . . . He knows the business backward and forward . . . in addition, he is a fine human being who has proved that you get out of life exactly what you put into it. . . . He has put in a great deal. . . . His friendship and loyalty never have faltered. . . . Universal, in signing him as president, actually signed 1,000 other men, and their amazing friendship for him explains the startling reclamation job he has accomplished for a company that was all washed up.

Wednesday night offered the preview of "The Underpup," which won rave notices for Producer Joe Pasternak and Scranton, Pa., girl prodigy, Gloria Jeans. . . . Born in Buffalo, N. Y., 11 year old Gloria bowled over Hollywood, just as Pasternak's Deanna Durbin did a few years ago.

Tuesday the press saw a preview of Director George Cukor's solid smash hit, "The Woman." . . . Sensitive direction of Cukor turns this into a series of individual triumphs for Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, Mary Boland, Joan Fontaine, Paulette Goddard, Marjorie Main, Lucile Watson, Virginia Weidler, and Dennie Moore. . . . Every now and then a picture is previewed which yanks you up in your seat in pleased astonishment at the first rate work of Hollywood.

"The Star Maker" opened the week melodiously and pleasantly with Bing Crosby, Linda Ware, Laura Hope Crews, and Ned Sparks getting the maximum of entertainment out of the life of Gus Edwards . . . . Fourteen deep in kids, this musical will make a barrel of dough for Paramount and erase the worried look from Producer Charlie Rogers' tanned phiz.

Audience Likes Park Concert of Thaviu's Band

BY CECIL SMITH.

A. F. Thaviu and his band played the fifty-ninth Grant park concert last night before a good sized and appreciative audience. Much of the time the band's playing was very loud and very fiery, and often it was very inaccurate.

The order of the program had undergone a complete reshuffling. Nobody seemed quite to know what was expected at any given moment, and there were many frantic last minute signals. Twice the wires got badly crossed—once when Pierre Andre announced Johann Strauss' waltz, "Wine, Women, and Song" as Weber's Overture to "Oberon," and once when Mr. Thaviu and Russ Perkins, radio baritone, did not choose the same spot to begin a reprise of Wendell Hall's "The Rhythm of State Street." In the last instance the scrambled version was at least more diverting than the correct original.

Assisting artists were Helen Margolyne, soprano, who has appeared modestly with the Chicago City Opera company; Henry Thompson, tenor, and the Chicago Radio chorus, Frederick H. Pohlmann, director.

Miss Margolyne began the Jewel Song from Gounod's "Faust" without a vestige of a trill or other evidence of coloratura fluency, but in the main displayed her attractive fresh voice and good French diction to advantage in the aria.

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds, promoter of children's acts in the days before motion pictures, is attracted to the tenement flat of the Lichts by the singing of their little daughter, Josefa. Next day he calls with his wife and persuades the Lichts to let him take Josefa into his home and train her for the stage. Two older children, Lena and Eddie, live with the Reynolds. During a stage show Eddie's voice breaks and Josefa goes to his rescue, saves the act, and becomes famous overnight. Josefa is billed as Sheila Doone. Lena hides her envy and hatred of Sheila by pretended friendship. Backed by Producer Leica, Lena becomes a motion picture actress in the infant industry. With Lena's brief day waning Leica signs up Sheila. Lena loses a coveted rôle to Sheila. Lena forces Harry Larch, a leading man who falls in love with Sheila, to marry her and she retires from the screen. Her husband is accidentally drowned. Sheila helps Lena financially and depends on Lena for business advice. Lena finds a new attraction in Austin Birch, an actor. And Sheila becomes secretly engaged to Ronny Low, her new leading man. Austin Birch falls in love with Sheila and proposes to her. She tells him of her engagement to Ronny. Lena's hopes of marrying Austin are thwarted. Sheila and Ronny are married and buy a ranch, leaving most of the arrangements to Lena. The night Sheila's son is born Ronny loans Lena $2,500. Then Ronny is notified that his contract will not be renewed. And Sheila loses the favor of her public. But when sound comes in they stage a triumphant comeback. Ronny is rushed to the hospital with a ruptured appendix.

INSTALMENT XX.

WIDOWED.

Ronny had had a previous attack, and the surgeon, who remembered him, scolded him—gently.

"You should have had the thing out when I told you to, Ronny."

"Couldn't," said Ronny. "That was when I was broke, down and out."

The old friend operated. But it was too late. Peritonitis set in; it was bound to, and Ronny died.

Mr. Leica, for whom Ronny had made millions and millions, tore his hair. The retakes of "Capt. Singleton" could not be finished now, and the half baked picture would have to be released "as is."

The picture was released and withdrawn. It was withdrawn for two reasons. It was a bad picture [Mr. Leica had meddled and made it so], and the public does not like to see dead people, or their shadows, moving about on the screen and acting and talking as if they were alive.

Ronny was cremated and, according to his wish, his ashes were scattered on the Pacific ocean out in No Man's Waters, beyond the three mile limit.

Numb with shock of Ronny's death, Sheila went right on working as if nothing had happened. Those closest to her and fondest of her were a little hurt and disappointed at what seemed to be her attitude.

She seemed just as ready as ever to laugh and smart crack with the technicians and to make plans gaily, and with enthusiasm.

The truth was that her hurt was too deep for utterance or expression.

Curly of the publicity department understood better than others why Sheila did not make a show of her grief. She did not know that she had it to show.

Curly had barged into the hospital when it was rumored that Ronny was dying and had stood with his arm around Sheila during the long last watch which ended with the last breath of the unconscious man.

Then he had driven her home to her mother and spent the night pacing the living room and now and then the hall outside of Sheila's door. Her quietness had frightened him.

He anticipated an outbreak of crazy hysteria, and believed that his own bullying and rough and ready methods might be needed during the night. If they were not actually needed, they came in handy. But the hysterics did not materialize so that bullying was not indicated.

If silence means sleep, Sheila fell asleep soon after going to bed and slept for a long time. In the early hours she began to cry, and after a while Curly's prowlings brought him close enough to hear her. Without knocking, he opened the door of her room and went in. A night light burned near the head of the bed and Sheila's face, swollen and distorted, was not pretty to see. Her pillow and the top of her night dress was darkly stained with tears.

Curly, without speaking, located the bathroom, dampened a wash cloth at the cold water tap, sat himself on the edge of Sheila's bed and washed her face. Then he shambled about the room, pulling out drawers and shutting them until he had found a fresh night dress. His first words were: "Take off that wet rag and put on this dry one."

Whether or not Curly watched her make the change, Sheila neither knew or cared. As a matter of fact, he was careful not to. But to have turned his back deliberately would have been too obvious and maudlin a gesture. So, having turned Sheila's vacated pillow dry side up, he shambled back to the bathroom and located a bottle of eau de cologne.

When he returned with this the docile Sheila had changed and was once more in bed.

"Turn your head sideways," said Curly.

When Sheila had obeyed he splashed a little cologne behind her ears and blew on it. It was as if she had been touched in two places with ice. He treated her wrists in the same way. Then he took one of her long, beautiful hands in his immense, powerful ones and, with the gestures and paddy touch of a kitten, seemed to count her five fingers over and over again. And, in a casual voice, began a monologue which lasted until Sheila fell asleep.

Later in the week she found the courage to hunt Curly up on the lot and thank him for being so kind.

"I didn't like to see you cry, Sheila," he said, "or to hear you. It isn't for a soldier's widow to cry. Ronny fought the good fight. He fought his way to the top and then took a terrible licking. He was fighting his way to the top again when things happened and he fell and was carried from the field in his uniform."

"There was nobody like him," said Sheila, "nobody so gentle and thoughtful and kind."

"Right," said Curly, "and there won't be another. You can make up your mind and your heart to that. But don't pull the 'never, never' stuff. You've got your work to do, and a dandy kid to think about, and one of these days you'll find that you're the marrying kind. I know a frigid woman when I see one, and there's nothing frigid about you. Biology is bound to get you in the long run, and the next time you step up to the altar it will be the highest compliment you can pay Ronny. And, look here, kid. Don't work so hard. Don't let the old man drive you so. Don't make so many pictures. Kick, squall, yell. Be temperamental. One breakdown is enough in one family."

But Sheila was not temperamental by nature, and she could not pretend to be what she was not. And before the year was up Mr. Leica was able to declare himself a bonus of $300,000 for meddling with matters which he did not understand and which would have resulted in even bigger returns if he hadn't meddled with them, and it was reported to him that Sheila Doone in her turn had fainted on the set, and that the studio doctor would not hear of her playing in any more pictures for a long time. She was on the verge of a complete breakdown. She must have a long rest.

"Say 'ah.'"

Sheila said "ah" for the doctor. She had been saying it off and on for several days. Several doctors had looked into her throat and sounded her chest. Her blood had been tested and she had been X-rayed. There was nothing organic the matter with her.

When the doctors put things in their ears and listened to her breathing they said her bronchial tubes made noises like the rigging of a ship in a gale.

Sheila was not alarmed about herself or the future. She had $40,000 in her savings account in Scudder's Hollywood bank and she could afford to take a long rest and to take it in whatever part of the world the doctors thought best.

"Where had I better go?" she asked.

"Anywhere where the climate will give your bronchial tubes a chance to heal. New Mexico, up high, would be fine. I know a trader near Albuquerque. Splendid fellow, New England stock. So's his wife. They have a cottage to rent. Room enough for you and Ronny and a nurse. But you're too played out to be bothered. Let me make all the arrangements. How'd you like to fly out?"

Don't Expect Perfection of the Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If I should say that we expect much more of our children, either those in their teens or the very young ones, than we do of our peers in age and experience, I'm sure that a great many of you would disagree with me. Yet, there's the uncle who flies off the handle if we so much as faintly criticize the quarter to which his political loyalty is given. So, for peace, we avoid doing so.

And there's the classmate of dad's who is a fanatic on the subject of religion, and sees red at the mention that any other than his own might be the true one. So we don't let the subject be breathed.

We simply mustn't see everything the children do. Children need a little leeway. They can't toe the mark or walk a chalkline every minute of the day. They have so many things to conform to in this civilized, adult regulated world that I'm often surprised they get along as well as they do.

They are always bumping themselves on the sharp corners of our tastes and prejudices, on the whole order of our established world—material as well as mental. So, it's a good plan for the children, as well as for us, if we pretend not to see some of the small croppers they come.

By this I don't mean necessarily mischievous things, or disobedient things, or serious things. I mean forgetful things, or accidents, or just the dire results of some sort of enthusiastic play. If it happens as the consequence of a natural activity just don't see it—or if you have to see it, let it pass without comment or reproof.

Drink Water on Arising; It Is Beauty Aid

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Your first beauty rite, guaranteed to give the best results, is to take a glass of water every morning on rising. Once that habit is established, the body is assured a good start for the day. The beverage may taste flat, or have no taste at all, but we do urge the habit for a number of reasons.

One reason is that we women are poor water drinkers. As is the nation, too, which is responsible in a large measure for our mounting number of constipation victims. Incidentally, if you are a victim, add a little salt to that early morning glass of water. This has great eliminative value.

Take this drink first thing, before you bathe, before dressing. Get the youngsters in the habit of doing the same thing on arising. That child is going to be a healthier, better-looking grown girl and boy, woman or man if this habit is maintained.

Another morning habit we would urge for the children, especially, and for the adult, too. It is to squeeze lemon juice into the orange juice "must" at the breakfast table. Tests have been conducted, showing that the lemon juice addition is a valuable aid to good teeth preservation. Tests were made on children. Some took the orange juice straight over a given and long period of time. Some took the juice with the lemon juice addition, and the consensus was that the latter group showed the better teeth.

When your Stomach is UPSET

Not an antacid. It soothes the irritated intestinal walls as well as the stomach, and helps retard fermentation, gas pains and simple diarrhea.

Mary Lee Boyd Will Be Bride in Scotland

The Holy Trinity church of Ayr, Scotland, will be the scene of Miss Mary Lee Boyd's marriage to James Michael Gikie on Sept. 2. Miss Boyd is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ruthven Boyd of Thinacre, Ayr. Her mother is the former Gertrude Wells Lyford, whose girlhood was spent at the House of the Seven Gables in Wheaton, the estate of the late Mr. and Mrs. Will Hartford Lyford. She has lived in Scotland since she became the bride of Mr. Boyd in 1913.

Miss Boyd has cousins here, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Moody of Evanston and the Brooks Corwines of Winnetka.

Mr. Gikie, the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Gikie of Ayr, has studied farming intensively. He and his bride will live at Weston farm, Micheldever, Hampshire, England, a 700 acre estate with a modern manor house and eleven cottages for the farm hands.

Castle-Duncan Nuptials Sept. 9.

The marriage of Miss Wilma Maurine Duncan and Frederick Kilburn Castle has been set for Saturday, Sept. 9. The ceremony will take place at noon in the gardens of the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Duncan, in Hinsdale. The Rev. Wilfred Rowell will read the service and a reception will follow.

Miss Duncan will have seven attendants. Mrs. Hamilton Barksdale Brown, the former Deborah Childs, will be the matron of honor. Miss June Essley, Miss Nancy Slade, Miss Suzanne Vollintine, Miss Nancy Averill of Racine, Wis., Miss Anna MacDougal, and Miss Louise Castle, sister of the bridegroom, will be the bridesmaids.

Eduard Castle will be his brother's best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ward C. Castle, also of Hinsdale. Ushering will be Mortimer Berkowitz Jr. of New York, George McKeon of East Orange, N. J., Richard Rohn of Canton, O., Scott Jones, John Dingle, and S. Parker Johnston Jr.

Miss Catherine Becker Sets Wedding Date.

Also on Sept. 9 in Hinsdale Miss Catherine Becker will become the bride of Donn Dezell Parker, son of Mrs. Charles Parker of Otisville, Mich. The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew G. Becker. Only the families will attend the ceremony, but a larger reception will follow.

Miss Becker will be unattended. Roscoe Parker will be his brother's best man. Mr. Parker is a student in the law school at the University of Michigan.

Announce Marriage of Barbara Herrick Phelps.

Announcements of the marriage last Friday of Miss Barbara Herrick Phelps to Robert Orville Anderson will be received today from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Perry Phelps of Hinsdale. The wedding took place at 5:30 o'clock in their home, the Rev. Wilfred Rowell of the Hinsdale Union church officiating. Only the immediate families and half a dozen close friends were present.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Anderson of Chicago, was attended by his brother, Hugo Jr. Following a honeymoon in Wyoming, Mr. Anderson and his bride will be at home in Chicago. The former Miss Phelps was graduated from Gunston Hall in Washington, D. C., and was a special student at the University of Chicago last year. Mr. Anderson was graduated from the same university last June.

Don't Be Too Aggressive if You're in Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am a 19 year old girl desperately in love with a 22 year old man. We have been out together frequently for eight months. He says he loves me. We have spoken of marriage often, but there are times when I begin to wonder if he even loves me. He becomes angry on the least provocation. We have quite a few arguments which he insists I start because I lie to him. If I know I'm in the wrong, I apologize.

"When we argue he tells me that he never wants to see me again. Then we stay away from each other for a while and I try going out with other boys, but I miss the other so much the evening is always spoiled. Then I'll put my pride in my pocket and go down to see him, when he'll confess he missed me, too. All will go well again until he'll get into another quarrelsome mood.

"I just can't understand him. Anything I tell him, he says I am lying to him. I love him so much that I'd do anything to make him believe me. Sometimes he says things that hurt deeply, but because I care so much for him I overlook it. What is to be done? Roslyn."

Dear, dear, Roslyn. You've certainly picked a hard one for yourself, haven't you?

The trouble, as we see it, is that you care more for the young man than he does for you, or else he is a young sadist who enjoys making you squirm and writhe, which would bode an unhappy lifetime association.

Your mistake, no doubt, is being so eager to remain in the chap's good graces. There's something about that willingness of yours to take it on the chin for love's sake that bestirs the worst instincts. We don't know why,

Practical Frock for the Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This practical home frock unites the virtues of both shirtwaist and princess styles. It is easy to put on and to wear because it fits loosely at the shoulders and buttons or is closed with a slide fastener down the front. Sleeves are cut in one with the shoulders, and the collar may be a Peter Pan one or a wing model. Cottons, linens, and wash silks in both prints and plain colors make up well. If you have one-color collar and pocket, you might like the addition of embroidery. A neat pattern for it is No. 713, available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2858 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Loaf Cake Is No Loafer; It Works for You

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

If cakes have personality problems, loaf cake has every right to an inferiority complex. But I'm sure it's too busy, working away for you, ever to have one.

For while virtually no one bothers to swap recipes for such a homely thing as a loaf cake, and while its recipe gets stuck 'way to the back of the files whenever there are "company doin's" on, that loaf cake is right there on the job for everyday meals.

It's so easy to bake a loaf cake, only one pan to wash afterward and no trouble at all to ice. Then, too, loaf cakes slice to such good advantage and seem to stay moist and fresh longer than their more frivolous layer cake sisters. A cake that can be carried right in its baking pan is a handy thing for picnics and church suppers. And that's another loaf cake advantage. A loaf cake never "loafs." So, light the oven and get one of these three working for you immediately.

Plain Loaf Cake.
[For a pan 5¼ by 9¼ inches.]

½ cup butter or other shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, well beaten
1¾ cups cake flour sifted
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk

Cream butter, vanilla, and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat thoroughly. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together three times. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture, dividing flour in three parts and milk in half. Beat for 2 or 3 minutes longer and turn into greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 1 hour, or until done.

Doesn't sound possible, but this spice cake is iced before it's baked. The next time that you're in a mad rush, try mixing this cake as you would muffin batter. That is, combine the slightly beaten eggs, sour milk, and melted shortening and add them to the sifted dry ingredients, stirring longer than you would for muffins, but quite a bit less than for cake. The result won't be quite the velvety cake you usually turn out, but with a camouflaging frosting [better try the regular variety in this case] your family will hardly notice the difference. But you'll notice a big difference in time saved.

Spice Cake.
[For 8¼ inch square pan.]

⅓ cup vegetable or other shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs [reserve 1 white for icing]
¾ cup sour milk or buttermilk
1¾ cups flour, sifted
¾ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroughly. Add 2 egg yolks and 1 egg white and beat until fluffy. Sift dry ingredients together and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Turn into 8 or 8½ inch square pan, top with meringue icing, and bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven until the icing is crisply crusted, about 40 to 50 minutes.

Meringue Icing.

1 egg white
½ cup brown sugar

Beat egg white until thick and foamy. Add brown sugar slowly and continue beating until sugar is well blended and of spreading consistency. Spread lightly over batter of unbaked cake.

Chocolate Loaf Cake.
[9 by 12 inch loaf.]

3 cups sifted cake flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
⅔ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup milk
1 cup nutmeats
3 squares melted chocolate

Sift flour, salt, and soda together. Cream shortening and 1½ cups of sugar together until light and fluffy. Add unbeaten egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add sifted dry ingredients and milk, to which vanilla has been added, alternately to creamed mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in remaining ½ cup of sugar gradually. Cut and fold into batter. Fold in nutmeats and bake in a well greased, paper lined loaf pan, in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for about 1 hour, or until done.

The dance will be held out of doors on the "dance dune," as the outdoor platform is called, because it is built on a dune at the edge of Lake Michigan. A buffet dinner will be served.

Ballet Opening Will Be Benefit.

Dec. 29 should be one of the gayest of the Christmas holiday dates, for on that night the Chauncey McCormicks will give a dance at the Blackstone hotel for their debutante niece, Miss Marion Danielson of Boston, and earlier in the evening the Church Mission of Help is sponsoring the first performance of the Ballet Russe's Chicago engagement.

Undoubtedly many will give ballet parties for the debutantes before the McCormick party, unless a debutante dinner-dance is scheduled for that evening.

Catholic Action Told Student Government Trains for Democracy

Fifteen hundred Catholic youth of the central west and 500 priests, nuns, and monastic brothers opened a Catholic Action summer school yesterday at the Morrison hotel. It will continue all week under the leadership of the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, St. Louis.

Before a class of 300 high school pupils studying problems of democracy the Rev. Edward Dowling of St. Louis asserted that student government in schools is the best laboratory for the development of democratic means and methods. In the kind of democracy the Rev. Mr. Dowling advocates, the people control through the election of highly trained men for specific tasks of government.

The Rev. Mr. Dowling said that the Hare system of proportional representation now used in New York state and in Canadian provinces originated in a dispute among students over election methods at Kidderminster school in England.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is a bit peculiar, not to say silly, when a declarer sternly forbids an adversary to make the one play that would permit the fulfillment of the contract. Yet, that is exactly what happened in a game jovially reported by master player Dick Frey in The Bridge World Magazine.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

I can do no better than quote Mr. Frey's account:

"Sitting South, my three spade bid was a bit skimpy, but there was nothing wrong with the final contract except that we didn't make it.

"East opened the club queen and I put down the dummy. East and West then hunched 'round so that I could see both their hands. [This is a suburban politeness which saves the dummy from the effort of getting up and walking around behind his partner. The annoying habit of dummy and declarer exchanging hands is not encouraged.] After winning the club trick, North extracted a couple of rounds of trumps and led a low diamond. West properly permitted the queen to hold the trick and declarer returned to his hand with a third trump lead to take a second and futile diamond lead up to the dummy. West's ace slaughtered the king and, after West also gathered in the diamond jack, it was easy for him to figure North had either four hearts or another club. So he returned a club and North trumped, discarding one of dummy's hearts. Although this discard in itself was unimportant, it set the stage for a second end play and I watched with approval when North led a heart and after some study, reached for dummy's king. My jaw dropped with West's queen! But this brilliance was unintentional—West argued that North had made motions toward the nine, and wanted to take back the play that beat us! North, however, knew his rights and, in addition, was annoyed at West's suggestion of chicanery. The queen had been played and would have to stay played! So now, on the next heart lead from dummy, West couldn't play the queen that would have forced him to give declarer another ruff and discard. It didn't matter whether or not North played the jack. East's ace and ten took two tricks."

The above account, I imagine, speaks pretty well for itself. By sheer accident, West made the brilliant play of unblocking his heart queen under dummy's king, thereby avoiding being thrown on lead at the next play, and being forced to return a suit that would give declarer another ruff in one hand and discard in the other. The amusing part is that West fought bitterly for the privilege of taking back his queen, claiming that he had played it under the impression that the nine spot had been played from dummy. Declarer indignantly rejected this demand when, as a matter of fact, its concession would have made the contract ice cold!

SANITARY CANAL ODORS PROVOKE TOWNS ON BANKS

Unbearable on Hot Days, Says Lemont Resident.

Protests against foul odors from the sanitary district canal since the flow of water from Lake Michigan was reduced in January were voiced yesterday by residents of towns along the canal banks. They said that years ago, when the flow was 6,500 cubic feet per second, they never knew the canal was there, so far as odors were concerned.

"Now we smell it all the time and on hot days it is unbearable," said Attorney Alderman Dystrup, president of the Lemont Commercial association.

The flow was reduced to 1,500 cubic feet per second in January to obey a 1931 ruling of the Supreme court.

Water Seems to Boil.

"The canal water is as black as midnight now and seems to boil constantly from waste that has collected on the bottom," Dystrup said. "Sometimes we can smell it a mile from its banks."

Samuel Herzog, Summit chief of police, said, "People who live near the canal keep their windows closed on hot days rather than suffer the stench."

Sanitary district officials said the odors will cease after Oct. 1, when the new Racine avenue pumping station, at 39th street, is placed in operation. South side waste now dumped into the canal at Racine avenue, will then be pumped to the new sewage treatment plant at Stickney. No other sewage now is being dumped into the canal by the district.

83 Miles of Sewers.

Although some final contracts remain to be completed on both the Racine avenue station and Stickney treatment works, the $60,130,000 PWA construction program started in 1935 will be recognized as complete by the government on Thursday. The program includes eighty-three and a half miles of sewers costing $33,847,875 and new treatment works and additions to old plants costing $23,744,127.

Joshua D'Esposito, resident PWA engineer, said yesterday that the job is one of the finest in the country carried on under PWA direction.

In 1934 the district obtained a $16,692,000 grant and a loan of $41,938,000 from the PWA. That amount, with $1,500,000 added later by the district itself, made $60,130,000 for construction. The PWA specified that the work be completed by Dec. 1, 1938. Most of the projects were ready for operation by then, and the deadline was extended to Aug. 31, 1939.

$59,610,000 Spent So Far.

The district has spent $57,692,002 on construction which, with engineering costs added by both the district and PWA, bring the total cost so far to approximately $59,610,000.

Under the 6,500 cubic foot flow the district dumped Chicago sewage directly into the river. This dumpage had to be stopped when the flow was reduced because of the sluggish condition of the water. Intercepting sewers were constructed to pick up the waste where it was formerly dumped into the river. Those interceptors, which now line the banks of the Chicago river on both its branches, lead into the newly completed treatment works which treat sewage and dump a practically pure effluent into the sanitary canal. The interceptors and treatment plants were part of the $60,130,000 program.

PERMIT GIVEN ICC TO APPEAL GULF COAST RAIL CASE

The interstate commerce commission yesterday was given permission by the United States District court here to appeal directly to the United States Supreme court a decision setting aside part of its order in the contemplated lease of the Chicago Rock Island and Gulf railway by the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

In approving the lease the I. C. C. ordered that severance pay be given to fifty-three employés of the Gulf railroad whose services would not be needed because of duplication of work. Other conditions of the rider to the order would cost the railroad $300,000. Attorneys claimed that the savings in the lease would amount to $100,000.

The I. C. C. rider was set aside July 12 by Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting with Federal Judges Charles E. Woodward and F. Ryan Duffy. The court held that the I. C. C. had no power to impose the conditions. The order allowing the appeal was signed by Judges Evans and Woodward.

Warns County Taxpayers of Penalties After Sept. 1

County Treasurer John Toman yesterday warned Cook county taxpayers that penalties for late payment of taxes will not be reduced or waived. The penalty date for the second and final instalment of 1938 real estate taxes is Sept. 1, and penalties will accrue at the rate of one per cent a month on unpaid taxes after that date, Toman said.

Winning Twins

ANN FITZPATRICK.

RUTH and WINNIE CURPHEY.

Chicagoans captured a major share of the honors at the week-end convention of the International Twins association in Fort Wayne, Ind. Nearly 100 twins from Chicago, members of the Zephyr Twin club, were among the 5,000 at the convention.

Misses Ruth and Winnie Curphey, 8029 Burnham avenue, were adjudged most identical among twins over 21 years of age. Alberta and Florence Spaeth, 4132 North Kedvale avenue, won a prize for looking least alike.

George and Francis Waterstaat, 4116 North Kedvale avenue, were found to be the most identical male twins over 21. Peggy and Ann Fitzpatrick, 910 West 54th place, were pronounced the prettiest at the convention.

NAVY PIER'S NECK GETS SCRUBBING; (IT NEEDED ONE!)

1,170,000 Pieces of Gum Scoured Up.

Navy pier is getting its first bath. And it's some bath! The job is believed to be the largest of its kind ever undertaken by the city.

The huge structure is being washed and scrubbed on orders of Oscar E. Hewitt, commission of public works, who said yesterday he hopes to restore some of the pier's charm to attract pleasure seekers. When first opened a quarter of a century ago it was one of the most popular recreational spots on the lake front. But in late years there has been a falling off in the crowds, and this has been reflected in an increased annual operating deficit.

Reliefers Doing the Work.

James Hyland, pier superintendent, and Harbormaster William J. Lynch are directing the scrubbing crews. Work is being done by reliefers earning part of their monthly checks.

The project was started three weeks ago and is nearing completion. Already, according to city officials, visitors at the pier are commenting on its improved appearance. The white cement floors are beginning to gleam again, and most of the chewing gum ground into the crevices over the last twenty-five years has been removed.

1,170,000 Gobs Removed.

Those in charge are proudest of the triumph over the chewing gum. Hewitt requested an estimate of the number of gobs before the cleaning began. Hyland counted the gobs in one square foot and estimated the total at 1,300,000. Yesterday he made another survey and reported that approximately 1,170,000 of the unsightly gobs had been cleaned up.

A total of 270,516 feet of floor space has been washed once and is receiving a second scrubbing. The refreshment and restaurant concessionaires had to clean their 19,680 square feet while the city took care of the rest—approximately 5 4-5 acres.

Cassidy Names P. W. Yager Lake County Assistant

Philip W. Yager, Waukegan attorney, was notified yesterday of his appointment as assistant Illinois attorney general for Lake county. He will take office Friday, according to his notification from Attorney General John E. Cassidy, succeeding Charles Noll of Waukegan who has held the post since 1933. Yager was Democratic nominee for judge of the Lake county probate court last year.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Where Answered.

In Humboldt park.

The Answers:

Mrs. Esther Zorenkey, 2341 Haddon avenue—Definitly! I have a son, 5 years old, who is starting to kindergarten this fall, and I'm looking forward to his school experiences. I didn't attend school here, but my sister went to Tuley High school and we never heard anything but good about the schools. I understand the public schools use progressive methods.

Mrs. Martha Lindner, 1647 Talman avenue—My daughter, who is 7 years old, has done very well in school. She reads nicely, and has been in good health, which I consider reflects to the credit of the school. Her health certificate from the school was a good thing. I didn't like schools when I was her age. . . . I think a great deal more of them now.

Mrs. Catherine Vandigo, 2249 Spaulding avenue—I went to Carl Schurz High school and loved it. I think Chicago children, even if they aren't fortunate enough to go to college, can get a well rounded education. My own daughter, only one year old, will certainly go here to school. None of my friends has ever criticized the schools.

Mrs. Mary Gershberg, 1034 North Washtenaw avenue—I have two children, 17 and 13 years old. One is in grade school, one in high school. They both like it very much. I lived in Poland when I was a child, and in those days we had no free education. It seems so wonderful to be here where everybody can learn. My daughter, incidentally, is a star student in English and likes it better than anything else.

Mrs. Anna Perlstein, 2335 Haddon avenue—I think the public schools in Chicago are fine. I don't know about the private institutions. My daughter, 12 years old, loves her work at Schley school, and my little one, 5, is ready for kindergarten. People who criticize the schools do not realize what a big job it is to take care of the education of thousands and thousands of children.

PLUMBER ENDS LIFE IN AUTO.

John Street, 46 years old, 3326 Adams street, an unemployed plumber, yesterday committed suicide by rigging a pipe from the exhaust of his automobile into the interior. The car was in the garage at the rear of his home.

HOLD QUIZ TODAY INTO SUICIDE ON EXCURSION BOAT

Representatives of the federal marine investigating board will hold an inquiry this morning aboard the excursion steamer City of Grand Rapids into the death of a young Indiana woman. She leaped from the ship Sunday night as it was returning from Milwaukee to Chicago. She was Mrs. Thomas Hyland, 30 years old, of 227 Clinton street, Hammond.

Purser Edward J. Taylor said Mrs. Hyland and her husband had been drinking, and that they quarreled almost constantly after leaving Milwaukee. Mrs. Hyland left a table near the dance floor and leaped over a railing into the lake when the boat was north of Wilmette and three miles offshore. Her body has not been recovered. Hyland is a steamfitter.

WILMETTE GETS POSSESSION OF NO MAN'S LAND

No Man's Land, the 23 acre tract between Wilmette and Kenilworth along the lake front, yesterday became a part of Wilmette. An annexation ordinance passed by the Wilmette village board on Aug. 15 became effective and was filed with the county recorder. Adolph J. Koenig, village manager, said the next board meeting on Sept. 5 would consider what licenses and taxes would be imposed on the new territory. Fire and police protection began yesterday.

ALL-STARS TAPER OFF IN NIGHT PRACTICE

WALKER'S HIT ENDS DEADLOCK IN NINTH INNING

15,000 Fans Watch Night Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

John D. Rigney, leading citizen in the eyes of those who live by lamplight in his native River Forest, last night pitched the White Sox to a 5 to 4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics before 15,000 in Comiskey park. It was John D.'s third success under the new Comiskey bulbs, his ninth straight in American league competition, and his twelfth of the season. The youngster thus became the first of the Sox tossing corps to effect a dozen triumphs.

Though Rigney held the visitors to seven hits and struck out eight, he had many moments of mental anguish, especially during the seventh inning span while the A's were scoring three runs to tie the count. They made four of their hits in this splurge, the most effective of which was a double by Chubby Dean.

Dean's Good Deed Is Costly.

Dean, after his heroic performance, went in to relieve Buck Ross, starting pitcher. With his double he tied the score and this took the game off Ross' ledger and on to Dean's. If he hadn't been a good pinch batter, Ross and not Chubby, would have been the losing pitcher. A cruel set of circumstances indeed.

Dean, though the loser, was not in the game when Gee Walker ended proceedings by singling Joe Kuhel home with two out in the ninth. Lynn Nelson came in after Dean had walked two batsmen in the ninth. Lynn got Luke Appling for the second out but Walker smacked one to deep short for the decision.

Sox Like the Lights.

It was the fifth and next to last game of the season under the Comiskey lights and the fourth after dark home victory for the Sox. They also won a nocturnal encounter in Philadelphia last June. The lone home night victory not won by Rigney was accomplished by Edgar Smith. Smith also won the night game in Philadelphia and will try to win the final, against Washington Thursday night.

The turnout last night lifted the night attendance for five games in Comiskey park to 161,000, almost enough to pay for the light plant investment. It is estimated the five games played on weekday afternoons would have drawn about 35,000.

Sox Score Three, Anyway.

The Sox started after a million runs in the second inning but had to be satisfied with three after they had been nipped by a double play by way of the plate. Rosenthal beat out a bunt and went to third on McNair's single to left. Tresh also singled to left, scoring Rosenthal. McNair and Tresh moved up on Rigney's sacrifice. Ross fumbled Jack Hayes' bouncer, McNair scoring. Kuhel walked, loading the bases and Kreevich walked, forcing Tresh across the plate. Appling then slammed into a double play, Ross to F. Hayes to Siebert.

The A's didn't break into the scoring column until two were out in the fifth when Lodigiani walked and got home on Ross' double.

McNair Drives in Rosenthal.

The Sox made the count 4 to 1 in the sixth. Rosenthal walked, stole second and went on to third when second was left uncovered on F.

Young, who has a reputation of rushing forward passers, was asked if he expected to be successful in handling Danowski and Leemans, forward passing stars of the New York Giants. . . . "They can't pass sitting on the ground," was his comeback. . . . Young's reply typifies the spirit of the All-Star squad. . . . American Plan.

It's grand to live in a country
Where summer means frolic and fun,
Where folks listen with glee
To the boom of the sea
And not to the bang of a gun;
Where folks can rush off to their summer camps
[Not to camps of a drearier sort],
Where the very shores
Of the seasides roar
With the joy of gay, innocent sport.

It's grand to live in a country
Where river and seaside and hills
Are used for the things God meant them to be,
For health and for pleasure and thrills;
Where the sun and its light
Aren't dimmed by the sight
Of a bomber to plunder and kill;
Let's give thanks to a man
For the American plan
That permits us to live as we will!

War.

'Tis said that dead men tell no tales
But O, what tales they tell
Who lie today in Flanders field
From bayonet and shell.

With many thousand human wrecks,
The aftermath of war,
How sad that they should hear again
That rumbling from afar.

For shame that those who suffer here
Have sacrificed in vain,
The same as those whose cross-marked graves
Are washed by Flanders rain.

If those who sanction bloody war
Marched first in battle line,
There would be fewer wars to call
Away your son and mine.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 28.—Manager Gabby Hartnett today caught, according to unofficial figures for this season, the 1,721st game of his big league career to tie Bay Schalk's American league record. Gabby plans to break that mark tomorrow.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—The Cubs, who yesterday picked a bad spot for a double nose dive, righted themselves this afternoon and regained some highly valuable ground in the percentage column. They spanked their Philadelphia tormentors by 5 to 3, a victory of consequence because the pace making Reds were slowed down in their chores at New York. The Chicagoans carved a full game from the percentage interval, putting them seven and one-half games from the front of the National league pennant parade.

The job of rallying a gang of fellows sorely beset by Sunday's double defeat fell to the 40 year old Charles Root and the old boy didn't falter, at least not until the finish line was almost reached. Given a four run edge in the second inning and the added protection of Glen Russell's seventh homer in the ninth, Root had the Phils stopped on one run until they took their final batting exercises. Then they slapped him for a pair of runs, but he weathered the last minute storm to achieve his season's sixth success.

Syl Johnson Has a Lapse.

The Phils also had an antique, Sylvester Johnson, on the mound and for most of the afternoon he baffled the Cubs just as he has in the past. But his undoing was the second inning in which Dickie Bartell, even Root, Stan Hack, and Augie Galan bunched four hits out of a grand total of seven. After this decisive assault Johnson was almost beyond reproach. In the seven closing innings he gave up only two hits, one a single which Galan failed to stretch into a double with none out in the fifth and the other G. Russell's homer into the left field seats.

Only five of the nine Cubs in action succeeded in dodging a depressing shrinkage of their batting averages.

The Giants, 45 Strong, Reach Chicago Today

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Superior, Wis., Aug. 28.—The New York Giants, football champions of the world, set off for the All-Star wars tonight.

Amid the cheers of several hundred townsfolk and a deafening rendition of the "Sidewalks of New York" by the fifty piece municipal band, forty-five players boarded a train for Chicago, where on Wednesday night they meet the College All-Stars in Soldiers' field. Mayor Bryn Ostby officially wished the Giants good luck while the hundreds informally exhorted Tuffy Leemans, a fellow townsman and Giant star, to "lick hell out of 'em."

"We are ready for anything," Coach Steve Owen told them as the Giants, bronzed and drawn, filed into two special North Western Pullmans that will leave them in Chicago at 9 o'clock, daylight saving time, tomorrow morning.

Ready for Anything.

"We have had the advantage of the finest camp a professional team has ever trained in and we have worked hard," Owen said. "After the boys regain their strength and stamina in the tapering off processes which began two days ago we will be prepared to play our best football. We were able to gain perfect physical condition here and we hope we can come back next fall."

There was no denying the squad's condition. All but Tackle Tom Roberts, Half Back Alton Owen, and Full Back Carl Littlefield are ready to face the All-Stars. Hank Soar, Ox Parry, and Johnny Dell Isola, the cripples among the regulars, have completely recovered and are prepared to start.

This Giant squad, favored by weather that seemed to change at the coaches' bidding, has not missed a drill since assembling here Aug. 12, and it has worked harder than in any previous training period. If victory escapes the professionals for the third consecutive year in the All-Star series on Wednesday night the

Wightman Cup Stars Play Today in Essex Tourney

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP).—First round matches in the Essex County club women's invitation tennis tournament today went according to form. Only two seeded players took part as the Wightman cup players of America and Britain were en route from Forest Hills and will play tomorrow.

Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., seeded fourth on the domestic list, and Mme. Simone Mathieu, seeded third among the foreigners, won easy victories. Miss Pedersen defeated Grace Parker of Baltimore, Md., 6-2, 6-2, and Mme. Mathieu eliminated 15 year old Ellen Zinseer of Magnolia, 6-1, 6-1.

The only three-set match was waged by Constance Bradlee of Beverly and Harriett Swift of Pasadena, Cal., the former winning, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5. Miss Bradlee was eliminated later in a second round match by Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-1.

The only other player to gain the third round was Katherine Winthrop of Boston, who drew a bye and then won, 6-0, 6-0, over Rosemary Merrill of Beverly.

END DRILL FOR PROS TODAY AT NORTHWESTERN

80,000 Will Watch Game Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-Stars football players practiced last night in Soldiers' field, where tomorrow evening they will meet the New York Giants in the sixth annual game sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., between the collegians and the champions of the professional league. For nearly an hour and a half the entire squad, uniformed in game suits, went through the routine of passing and kicking and then finished with a brief review of offensive plays.

While the All-Americans will hold a last practice today in Dyche stadium—this will be a secret drill, as was last night's workout in Soldiers' field—the squad now is ready for the game for which the players have been pointing since Aug. 12. No All-Star squad has trained more diligently, no group of coaches has been more thorough in instruction, and with no intent of making the All-Stars too optimistic it may be added that in general strength no squad has been stronger.

Teams Splendidly Balanced.

In other years there have been individuals who stood out—Ed Krause of Notre Dame and Chuck Bernard of Michigan in 1934, Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian in 1937, Cecil Isbell of Purdue last year, Bob Reynolds of Stanford and Joe Stydahar of West Virginia, to name a few—but there is splendid balance to the 1939 teams. The All-Stars may lose. Perhaps they face the best team the National league ever has sent against the collegians, but the game looms as the finest in the six years of competition.

Eighty thousand are expected to see tomorrow night's game. Advance sales have broken all records. There are reserved seats remaining, however, in the $2.20 and $1.10 sections. These may be purchased today and tomorrow in the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Should any tickets remain tomorrow evening they will be placed on sale that night in Soldiers' field.

Millions Will Tune In Radios.

Millions undoubtedly will listen to the reports by the Mutual Broadcasting system and the National Broadcasting company. Both companies will carry the entire game, which will start at 8:20 tomorrow evening with the introduction of the eleven All-Stars elected by the fans of the nation in a poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE and 334 associated newspapers and radio stations in 47 states. The All-Star coaches—Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin; Slip Madigan, St. Mary's; Maj. Robert Neyland, Tennessee, and Carl Snavely, Cornell—then will be introduced while giant spotlights follow them as they walk to the center of the gridiron. All other lights in the stadium will be turned out.

Then will come the introduction of the Giants, professional champions. All this will require no more than 10 minutes and will be presented to the music of the universities whose players compose the starting All-Star lineup.

Last night's pre-game review by the All-Stars was in itself a brilliant pageant. All the players were uniformed in silver pants and blue jersies with shoulder stripes and gold stars. The pants have a composite red, white and blue stripe down the sides. Blue stockings and silver head guards complete the uniform.

Lighting Slightly Increased.

The lighting for the game has been slightly increased at the ends of the gridiron, but the same system of individual 1,000 watt lights mounted on sixty foot poles, each light focused to blend into the whole, is preserved. The lighting system has been developed since the first game so that it now is one of the finest for football in the country.

White footballs, each with two black stripes, will be used. This has

THERE'S STILL TIME!

Although it is apparent that there will be a sellout for the football battle between the College All-Americans and the New York Giants, professional champions, in Soldiers' field tomorrow night, you still have a chance to buy tickets. They are on sale in the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Seats remain in only two price classes. The Dearborn street office is open until 9 p. m.

RUSSIA REGAINS STRIDE; WINS AT WASHINGTON PK.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Russia, a four year old gelding which had been claimed out of a $1,000 race two weeks ago, returned to his customary $2,000 class to win the Fifty Yard Line purse which headed yesterday's program at Washington Park. Running for the first time in the colors of Mrs. L. C. Molay, he beat the veteran route runner, Banola, by four lengths, Seventh Inning getting in third.

Throughout the Arlington Park meeting, Russia had been racing for the Christopher stable against horses ranging in value from $2,000 to $2,300. Though he got in the money a few times, he couldn't win. Coming to Washington Park, he drifted down to $1,800 and still he couldn't quite make the grade.

Claimed by Mrs. L. C. Molay.

So Trainer L. V. Bellew Jr., in an unlucky moment, dropped him down to the $1,500 class one day about two weeks ago. Trainer S. J. Molay promptly showed himself an excellent judge of horses by lodging a claim on behalf of Mrs. Molay, thereby snapping up Russia just at the time he had worked himself into winning form.

Russia won that race by three lengths, after which Molay got out the halter and led him away to his barn. After working with the horse for nearly two weeks, the trainer put his judgment to the test by entering him yesterday in the $2,000 class where previously he had been unsuccessful.

Russia responded by running like a stake horse in this mile and a furlong event. In the early stages, Jockey George Oros had him close to the pace set by Seventh Inning and Wegoway. In the turn out of the back stretch, Wegoway gave up and Russia took after the leader. Catching him on the curve he quickly drew away and led by two lengths as they swung into the stretch. Under mild urging he increased his advantage and won with plenty in reserve while Banola was coming up to beat Seventh Inning by a head.

Viveanna Returns $152.40.

Though the race nominally was for horses of the $2,000 class, Russia had been running against much better company in the last few weeks and as a result he went to the post as the 5 to 2 second choice. He returned $7.40, $4.40, and $3.40.

Earlier in the afternoon, Viveanna, an old mare which hadn't run since the Sportsman's Park meeting of 1935, precipitated considerable excitement by winning the second race at odds of 75 to 1. She paid $152.40, $54.20, and $15.20. With Glitterbug, she completed a daily double worth $639.

DIMAGGIO, YANKS LAY IT ON AGAIN; MAUL TIGERS, 18-2

Joe Hits Two Homers and Drives In 8 Runs.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28 (AP).—The New York Yankees hit the helpless Tigers with everything in the book today and piled up an 18 to 2 victory to stretch their current winning streak to ten straight.

Joe Di Maggio walloped a homer with the bases full and another with two aboard and batted in eight runs. Charley Keller also hit a round-tripper with one on. Meantime young Marius Russo, left-handed rookie, stopped the Tigers with four hits for his fourth victory.

Every member of the Yankee starting lineup hit safely in the eighteen hit attack. All but Joe Gordon drove in one or more runs, and all but Babe Dahlgren and Russo scored.

BROWNS ROUT SENATORS.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28 (AP).—Behind the four hit pitching of Bill Trotter, the Browns routed the Washington Senators, 12 to 2, today to break their latest losing streak at eight straight.

Cecil Travis hit a homer in the fourth to drive in both Washington runs. Don Heffner, Brown second baseman, hit his first circuit drive of the season with one on in the seventh. Score:

OTT HITS HOMER; GIANTS TRIUMPH OVER REDS, 3 TO 1

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Mel Ott and young Bill Lohrman combined today to give the Giants a 3 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Despite the defeat, however, the Rhinelanders maintained their five-game National league lead.

Mel Ott.

Ott's single in the first inning drove in one Giant run, and his twenty-seventh homer of the campaign, in the fourth, sent the other two across. Lohrman, meantime, held the Reds to seven hits and blanked them until the ninth when three singles and a fly pushed their only run across.

Ernie Lombardi, the Reds No. 1 catcher, was struck on the groin by a foul tip off Tom Hafey's bat. He had to retire from the game and Will Hershberger took his place. The injury was not considered serious, however.

Lohrman now stands as the league's top jinx for the Reds. With today's victory he has set back the pennant favorites four times this season.

BEES WHIP CARDS.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals' grip on second place loosened a bit today when the Bees, getting off to a six run start against Rookie Nate Andrews, gave them a 10 to 5 beating. Al Moran, right-handed youngster up from the Bees' Hartford farm, held the Cards to nine hits, one a homer by Terry Moore in the fifth inning.

The Bees scored six runs in the first on four hits, two errors and two passes, added a seventh in the second when Buddy Hassett tripled, and the last three in the fifth inning against Tom Sunkel, who finished the game.

Catcher Don Padgett made ten of the cards' twenty-four putouts. He nailed two Boston runners at the plate. Hassett came out of a batting slump by hitting safely his first four times at bat. Score:

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28 (AP).—The traditional Thanksgiving day football game between Pennsylvania and Cornell will be played this year on Saturday, Nov. 25, instead of Nov. 23, the day President Roosevelt has announced he would designate as Thanksgiving day. It will be the forty-sixth game between the two universities and the first time since 1895 that it will not have been played on Thanksgiving day.

Sox Idle Today, Then They Play 2 with Senators

The White Sox will have a well earned rest today, but have to go back to heavy duty tomorrow in a double-header with the Washington Senators. Ted Lyons, who has been out of service since he wrenched his right ankle in Cleveland on Aug. 13, will pitch one of the games and Jack Knott the other.

About thirty-five of the Senators and White Sox will see the All-Star-Giants' football game in Soldiers' field tomorrow night, headed by two enthusiastic football fans, Managers Bucky Harris of Washington and Jimmy Dykes of the Sox.

Mike Tresh, making his first appearance in the lineup since he suffered a bruised right shoulder on Aug. 19, revealed no effects of the injury in handling John Rigney's pitches last night.

Hayes' throw and scored on McNair's second hit.

This is the way the A's hopped on Rigney in the seventh for a 4 to 4 tie: Siebert opened with a single and stopped at second on Dee Miles' pinch single. The runners advanced on Chapman's out. Lodigiani scored Siebert with a single off Rigney's glove, then Dean batted for Ross and doubled to the left field scoreboard, sending Miles and Lodigiani home.

Dean became the A's pitcher after his pinch double and was saved from trouble in the seventh by great catches perpetrated by Siebert and Johnson. Kuhel got a single and Appling a walk in the disappointing inning.

Rigney Escapes in Ninth.

Rosenthal opened the home eighth with a single but was out trying to steal second. McNair then socked his third single but Tresh fanned and Rigney bounced to Siebert.

Rigney had to do some bearing down in the ninth. Ambler opened with a single and reached second on Kreevich's fumble. Chapman became Rigney's eighth strike out victim and Lodigiani popped to Jack Hayes. Dean and Moses walked, loading the bases, but Gantenbein, batting for Newsome, grounded out to Jack Hayes.

Billy Herman was among the unfortunates. He drew a pass when it counted but flopped three other times. Leiber started off with a pass and in three subsequent efforts didn't get the ball past the infield. Billy Nicholson popped out three times and fanned once. Manager Gabby Hartnett, catching his 1,721st big league game, also was shut out. Gabby slapped three long flies, and one pop foul.

The Cubs waited until two were out to start on their four run scoring spree in the second. Bartell touched it off with a single to center, and Root, instead of subsiding gently as is a pitcher's custom, drove a triple into the right field corner. Hack stalled around to give old Charles a few minutes for breathing and then singled to center, Root scoring. Herman walked after Hack had stolen second and they went home as a pair on Galan's two bagger into right center.

Arnovich's Drive Hits Root.

Some of the trouble encountered by Root came in the first inning, but the Phils, after getting him into a jam, were considerate enough to get him out again. With two out, Hughes singled to center and Arnovich doubled to left center. Hughes was nipped when he tried to return to third after rounding the bag. Root didn't yield the next hit until the start of the third, when Davis led off with a single. A double play brought a rapid adjustment.

Root gave up another hit in the fourth and while it was harmless so far as runs were concerned it was slightly painful for the veteran. Arnovich caromed a drive off Charley's shin bone, a bump which may account for the fact that the Phils made two more unproductive singles in the fifth. Their next safe taps, a pair of them, came up in the seventh, May leading off with a two bagger to right center and scoring on Johnson's single which Leiber had in his hands but dropped when he twisted quickly to avoid a collision with Galan.

Two were out in the ninth before the Phils developed an unruly streak. Scharein singled to right. Hartnett suspected Scharein was planning a steal and called for a pitchout but in his hurry Root committed a balk. Then Davis bounced a two bagger over Nicholson's head, Scharein scoring. Bud Hafey batted for Johnson and doubled to left center, Davis scoring, but Root broke up the party by fanning Mueller.

All-Americans Take Secret Night Practice

The All-Stars went through their paces last night with the enthusiasm that has come to be expected with the approach of the game. The drill climaxed sixteen days' work, during which time at least one practice was held each day. For the most part there were double workouts. The squad was divided as quickly as possible into units, and the men rated individually at each position. The squad played seven games, the final scrimmages being held last Saturday morning when the number one team won, 10 to 0, from the third eleven, and the second varsity played a 7 to 7 tie with the fourth team. Numerous substitutions were made in this second contest.

Quit Camp Tomorrow Noon.

The All-Stars returned to Evanston last night. They will not quiet their training camp until tomorrow noon.

With the arrival of the New York Giants, who have been training in Superior, Wis., since Aug. 12, the spotlight of interest is diffused to include the champions. The Giants will go to their quarters in a north side hotel and will repeat the All-Stars' preliminary workout in Soldiers' field tonight. Few observers will have a chance to see the Giants until they come out on the gridiron tomorrow night to meet the All-Stars. Coach Steve Owen has ordered that practice be secret. Throughout their training period the Giants have taken far more precautions than the All-Stars to keep all plans hidden.

Use Notre Dame System.

As far as the All-Stars are concerned, it is no secret that they will use fundamental plays of the Notre Dame system, or that such men as Sid Luckman of Columbia, Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian, Billy Patterson of Baylor, and Johnny Pingel of Michigan State will throw passes at the Giants most of the night.

And if these men aren't passing, then consider that Bob MacLeod, Dartmouth; Vic Bottari of California, Bill Osmanski, Holy Cross, and a half dozen others will be doing their best to crack the Giants' line.

Much has been written about the ability of Ken Strong and Ward Cuff to kick field goals. The New Yorkers may like to know that Horace Bell and George Faust of Minnesota can kick from any angle and up to fifty yards. This method of attack may prove as decisive for the All-Stars as the Giants hope it will be for themselves.

377 Innings in 17 Hours? 'Phooey,' He Says; Proves It

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 28 (AP).—Clyde Harvey isn't exactly a skeptic, but after he read about two softball teams playing a 377 inning marathon game in something over seventeen hours, he got out his pencil. Then he wrote to a sports editor and wanted to know how: The teams could complete an inning every 2.8 minutes, making outs at the rate of one every thirty seconds, and still score plenty of runs.

Tuffy's the Center of Attraction.

Leemans was the center of attraction at the getaway. Neighbors from the east side, who remember him when he was a pug nosed grade student, joined fans from uptown to cheer the young Washington, D. C., merchant who went away to earn his place beside that of Bess Erhardt, Ernie Nevers, Davey Bancroft, and Arnie Arnovich in Superior's Hall of Fame.

Leemans, himself, viewed the departure with rapt anticipation. He was returning to the scene of his major athletic triumph. It was in the All-Star game of 1936 that Tuffy, virtually an unknown from George Washington university, sprang into national prominence as the hero of the 7 to 7 tie with the Detroit Lions. Leemans had been placed on the squad by a campaign organized among George Washington alumni and playground directors in the nation's capital.

In Second Back Field.

Little attention was paid to him in the All-Star camp until he was given a chance in scrimmage and spent the afternoon making a show of more widely publicized players. From the All-Star game he went to the Giants and immediately established himself as the most dangerous runner in the National league. In his first year he led the league in yards gained.

He will not start the game Wednesday night, but before the contest has gone very far he will enter the Giant back field with the second unit which includes Ken Strong, the veteran, who is making a successful comeback; Len Barnum, and Nello Falaschi.

Final preparations at the Superior State Teachers' college camp today included a spirited workout in the morning and a short lecture in the afternoon. A lecture tomorrow afternoon and a drill under the lights of Soldiers' field tomorrow night will conclude the Giants' training for the sixth annual All-Star game.

1938 Lineup Almost Intact.

Owen still was undecided tonight on his starting lineup, but he seemed less concerned about it following the report from Trainer Gus Mauch that only Alton Owen and Littlefield, with sprained ankles, and Roberts, who suffered a slight concussion ten days ago, would be unfit for service. It seemed likely tonight that the lineup which started most games last year would be intact at the kickoff, except for Frank Cope in Ed Widseth's place at left tackle.

MRS. M'CORMICK WILL FILED IN DU PAGE COURT

The will of Mrs. Amy Irwin McCormick, wife of Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was filed yesterday in the Du Page county Probate court at Wheaton.

Mrs. McCormick left most of her estate in trust for her sister, Mrs. Ida Irwin Small, and Mrs. Small's husband, Dr. Arthur Atwell Small of 32 East Division street. They are to have the income.

After the death of both, the estate is to be divided equally among Mrs. McCormick's niece and nephews, Frances Josephine Irwin Wright, John D'Arcy Irwin, and Stafford LeRoy Irwin.

The application for letters testamentary, filed by Mrs. McCormick's attorney, C. Lysle Smith, disclosed a preliminary estimate of the estate as consisting of $800,000 in personal property and $50,000 real estate. The Northern Trust company and Dr. Small were named executors and trustees.

Mrs. McCormick bequeathed a total of $41,000 to 19 employés. She also left $5,000 to the Orphans of the Storm, an animal refuge.

Bequests to Col. McCormick.

Col. McCormick was given Mrs. McCormick's hunters and pack of hounds and her hunting grounds known as Le Bois de Madame, adjoining Cantigny farm, the McCormick home near Wheaton. Mrs. McCormick asked that the property be maintained for the Du Page Hunt, in which she had been active for years.

She also left her husband her herd of Guernsey cows, automobiles, books, paintings and pictures, and household furnishings.

The will said that Mrs. McCormick left the bulk of her estate to the Smalls rather than to her husband because he did not need it.

Mrs. McCormick died on Aug. 14.

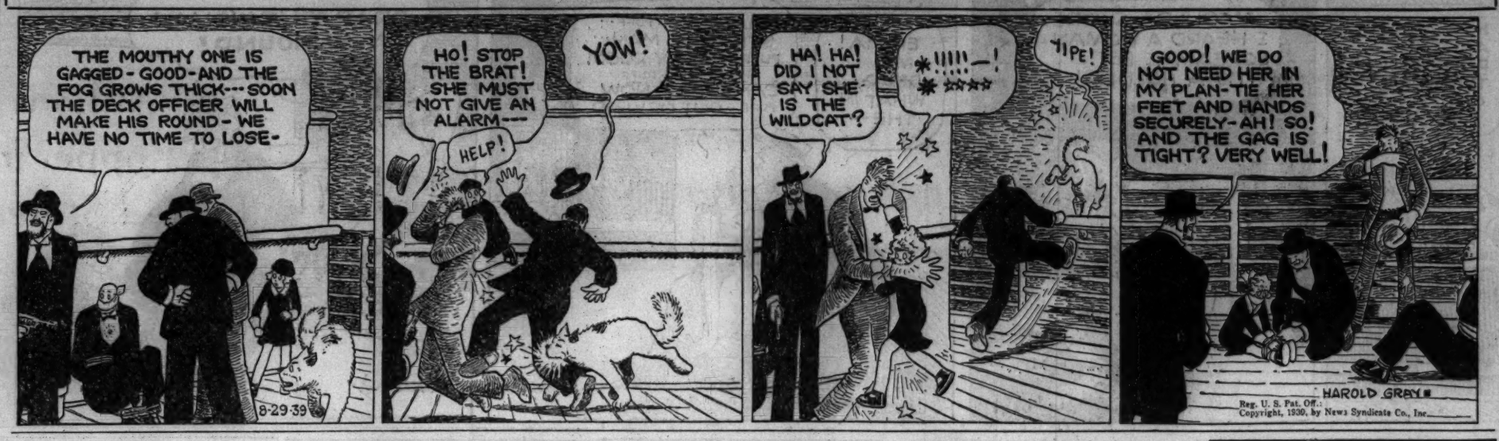
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Fit to Be Tied



RITES TO BE HELD ON THURSDAY FOR COL. STUDEBAKER

Son of Wagon Firm's Founder Dead at 74.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 28 [Special].—Funeral services for Col. George Milburn Studebaker, son of one of the founders of the Studebaker wagon company, will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at St. Paul's Memorial Methodist church here. Burial will be at Riverview cemetery.

Col. Studebaker, the last of the immediate family of Clement Studebaker I., died last night at Epworth hospital, where he recently had undergone an operation for gall bladder trouble. He was 74 years old and had been ill for about six months.

He had not been associated directly with the Studebaker interests since 1921 but had increased his wealth by private investments until the stock market crash in 1929 wiped out his fortune, estimated at $3,500,000.

Bankrupt in 1933.

After various ventures into a watch making company, a mail order house, a radio corporation, and finally public utilities, Col. Studebaker filed a bankruptcy plea in 1933. At that time, mostly due to losses in Insull utilities, he listed his debts at $2,500,000 and his assets at $5,000.

Col. Studebaker's father, Clement I., was one of the five Studebaker brothers whose wagon making house was known throughout the world for many decades before the advent of the automobile. The Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing company, by which the wagon making firm was known, became in 1911 the Studebaker Automobile corporation, maker of motor cars.

Other children born to Clement I., in addition to Col. George, were a daughter, Mrs. Charles Arthur Carlisle, who died in 1931, and another son, Clement Studebaker Jr., who died in 1932. Clement Jr., a wealthy public utilities financier, was the father of Clement Studebaker III. of Chicago.

Colonel in Spanish War.

Another member of the Studebaker family who died in the last few years was Clement W. Studebaker, a son of Henry, who was one of the original five brothers. Clement W., who died in 1934, was a cousin of Col. George and Clement Jr.

Col. George held a vice presidency in the wagon making firm and carried the same title for several years in the new company which was formed in 1911. As was true with other descendants of the original quintet of brothers, he did not spend much of his life actively engaged in the Studebaker company.

He was a colonel of the 157th Indiana infantry in the Spanish-American war and for many years took a keen interest in the affairs of the Indiana National Guard. Surviving him are his widow, Ada, and a son, George M. Studebaker Jr.

SHIP IS DELAYED EIGHT MINUTES AS LOCK FAILS

The sandsucker American had to wait eight minutes to enter the Chicago river yesterday afternoon because of a minor breakdown in the northwest gate of the $3,000,000 navigation locks and control works at the mouth of the river. L. W. Hall, hydraulic engineer for the sanitary district, said the trouble was due to a faulty circuit breaker in the electric wiring system. The locks are designed to control the flow of lake water into the river in accordance with an order of the United States Supreme court setting the maximum diversion at 1,500 cubic feet per second.

The demonstration in a hotel lobby was the principal event of the day for the handful of survivors of those who fought to preserve the union. Convention headquarters said more than 100 were registered.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!
An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.
If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.
Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

WORLD FLYER TELLS OF PERIL HIGH OVER SEA

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 28 (AP).—A harrowing experience in which two crew members lost consciousness and the other five thought they were doomed, was described today by a member of the Japanese around the world flight party.

"Once in our flight over the Pacific from Japan to Nome we had to climb out of thick weather to an altitude of more than 20,000 feet," said Takeo Ohara, chief of the aviation department of the Osaka Mainichi and Tokio Nichi Nichi, newspapers sponsoring the flight.

"Before we could release the special oxygen tanks, two of our crew became unconscious and we thought we were goners. All the windows of the plane became iced and we couldn't see out. For more than an hour we worked over the unconscious men before we revived them."

The flyers, who arrived yesterday, remained here tonight because of bad weather. Tomorrow they expect to fly to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory.

CITY AND TRANSIT LINES TO REPORT ON VALUE TALKS

A detailed report of progress made by the city and the transit lines in their attempts to reach an agreement in the value of transit properties for traction unification purposes will be made Sept. 8. This was reported yesterday by Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, to the city council's local transportation committee.

Engineering groups for the city and the companies have been meeting daily for a month, Harrington said, discussing details of the 99 million dollar difference in their valuation proposals. The companies are asking for a value of 201 million dollars for the combined properties of the surface lines and elevated lines. The city has valued the properties at 102 millions.

Agreement is necessary before the proposed unification of the city's transit facilities can be accomplished. Harrington said differences in valuation methods account for the disparity.

DOCTORS GET $10 A YEAR HOSPITAL INSURANCE PLAN

A plan to provide hospital insurance for members of the Chicago Medical society at a cost of $10 a year was announced yesterday by Dr. Nathan S. Davis III., president of the society. He said the insurance is to be placed through a private insurance company, which has agreed to pay back excess profits in the form of dividends to those who take out the insurance.

The insurance provides for ninety-one days' care in a $6 a day bed at either a hospital or sanitorium, Dr. Davis said. It also allows $30 for extras, such as operating room charges, anesthesia, and so on. Members under 60 years of age can make as many ninety-one day claims a year as necessary; those over 60 years old may claim only one such period.

The insurance covers diagnostic confinement, as well as actual treatment cases, Dr. Davis said.

OWEN—Thomas Owen,

STERLING DIVES TO 6 YEAR LOW, THEN RALLIES

Closes at $4.25½ After Hitting $4.12.

The British pound sterling tumbled yesterday at London to the lowest level in six years in terms of the dollar. Fluctuating widely during the third session since the stabilization fund withdrew its support, the pound dropped to $4.12, then rallied to close at $4.25½. It opened at $4.40, the same as the closing price of last Saturday.

The pound depreciated in terms of gold as well as in terms of the American dollar, which is the only major gold currency remaining. As a result of the depreciation it took 161 shillings to buy an ounce of gold in the London gold market. This was 6 shillings more than on Saturday, and established a record high price for gold in terms of British money. The London gold trading was on a supply and demand basis, and bore no exact relation to the sterling-dollar rate as the latter varied during the day. Gold has a fixed value of $35 an ounce at the American treasury.

Several Governments Act.

While the pound's fluctuations spotlighted foreign exchange trading, several European governments took various steps regarding money and securities following the regulations announced by England over the weekend. The Bank of the Netherlands raised its discount rate to 3 per cent from 2 per cent. A royal Belgium decree raised the limitation on purchases by the National Bank of Belgium of government short, medium, and long term bonds.

A Spanish law decreed the creation of a foreign exchange institute under the ministry of commerce. At Helsingfors, Finland, the Finnish state bank discontinued quoting the Finnish mark on a sterling basis.

Australia banned the export of gold and currency notes. The commonwealth's proclamation instituted direct control of overseas exchange transactions, and limited the sale of exchange by trading banks. It also restricted private remittances.

Refuse to Quote Many Units.

New York banks refused to quote most Scandinavian, central European, and South American currencies. Withdrawal of the "peg" for sterling demoralized dealings in these units last Friday. The Swedish krona, however, sold at 23.90 cents, off 0.24 cent from Thursday's level. Much uncertainty continued to surround the Scandinavian or "sterling bloc" units.

The Argentine peso, which also had been linked to sterling, rose 0.27 cent to 22.77 cents. Late last night the Associated Press reported from Buenos Aires that action had been taken to link the peso to the dollar at an official rate of 3.5295 pesos to the dollar. The change was made by the government to avoid the continued drop of the peso which accompanied the fall of the pound.

Canadian currency held closer to the American dollar than to sterling. It dipped only 1¾ cents to 97.25 cents. The French franc, Belgian belga, Dutch guilder, and Swiss franc also declined at New York. The strictly controled German mark rose 1 cent at 39.50 cents. Italian currency, which is also controled, closed unchanged.

While gold was reaching all time high prices in London, the United States treasury announced that the nation's monetary gold stock also reached record breaking proportions.

Exceeds 16½ Billions.

At the close of business Friday the treasury had $16,592,235,684 of gold. This was an increase of $17,070,326 from the preceding day and represents more than half of the world's recorded supply.

The United States gold holdings of $16,592,235,684 compare with $14,508,000,000 at the start of 1939 and $12,567,000,000 at the end of August, 1937. Since the Munich crisis last September, gold has flowed to this country in unprecedented volume. Most of the incoming gold has been shipped by England.

The S. S. Georgic arrived yesterday at New York from Southampton, England, with 250 boxes of gold bars having an estimated value of $14,000,000. This was consigned to the New York Federal Reserve bank. The bank's daily statement showed the engagement of $12,677,000 of gold in England late Friday and $807,000 in India yesterday.

No American Issues Traded.

No transactions in American securities were made on the London stock exchange following the British government's restrictions on the sale by nationals of foreign securities. Copper, gold and mining shares swung higher at the close of the day's activities. Tobacco, chemical, rubber, and distilling shares also showed gains. British gilt edged securities closed at the fixed minimums.

At Paris, hesitancy developed at the close of the bourse following strengthening prices early in the day. International shares dropped part of the early gains. Rentes finished 70 centimes lower to 240 higher. Banking shares dropped sharply.

War Threat Cuts Vacation of Eccles, Reserve Chief

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, stopped here briefly yesterday en route to Washington, D. C. He said he was cutting short a vacation in Utah and returning to Washington because of the war threat. He arrived at the municipal airport at 10:15 a. m. by United Air Lines plane and left a few minutes later for the capital.

July Profits of United Air Lines Larger

W. A. Patterson.

Continued improvement in earnings of United Air Lines was shown in a statement issued yesterday covering July operations. The company, one of the leading domestic air lines, had net income of $179,608 last month, according to W. A. Patterson, president. This compared with profit of $4,137 in July, 1938, and $134,080 in June, this year.

United Air Lines previously reported earnings of $216,123, or 14 cents a share, in the second quarter of the current year, against net loss of $243,031 in the corresponding period last year. June net income of $134,080 contrasted with net loss of $96,369 in June, 1938.

Passenger Revenue Rises.

Passenger revenue last month totaled $837,862, compared with $771,450 in the preceding month and $552,214 in July, last year. Mail revenue rose to $312,868 from $305,608 in June and $309,029 in the corresponding month of the previous year. Express revenue amounted to $38,581. This contrasted with $44,453 in June, this year, and $29,391 in July, 1938.

During July the air line flew 16,571,412 revenue passenger miles, Patterson said. This was a 9.2 per cent gain over the 15,179,556 miles flown in June and a 50.3 per cent increase over the 11,006,096 miles in the preceding July. Mail pound miles totaled 457,444,072, representing a decrease of 2.5 per cent from June and an advance of 16.1 per cent over the corresponding month of 1938.

Express pound miles amounted to 137,408,438, or 12.9 per cent below the level for June but 18.2 per cent above the total for the similar month last year.

Summer Trafic Sets Record.

"Record trafic loads during the present seasonal peak period of air travel are now compensating for losses incurred during earlier months of the year when the volume of air trafic was at an ebb," Patterson said.

	July, '39.	June, '39.	July, '38.

PRICE OF SILVER FALLS AS LONDON "SQUEEZE" ENDS

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—The price of imported silver in commercial bullion dealings broke 3⅝ cents an ounce today when a "squeeze" in the London market ended.

The New York bullion firm of Handy & Harman posted a price of 36⅜ cents an ounce, where there was still a spread of more than a cent over the United States treasury buying price of 35 cents an ounce for foreign mined silver.

The fall in the spot price, originating in London, was attributed in metal circles to sales from the Indian government's silver stocks, both to meet hoarding demand on war fears and covering of outstanding short positions taken last spring when there was doubt over the continuation of American treasury buying in the world market.

News that the Indian government was offering to sell freely was said to have caused speculators to shift to the selling side also.

Package Bees Can Buzz on Way Without Regulation

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 (AP).—The marketing agreement regulating the interstate handling of package bees and queens will cease tomorrow, the department of agriculture said today. The program has been in effect since last Sept. 6. In a mail referendum which ended Aug. 10 among the 300 producers, 65 out of 72 who returned properly marked ballots voted for termination.

Treasury Men Satisfied with Bond Market

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, Aug. 28.—Treasury officials said today that the government bond market "has behaved very well" during the current crisis and they saw no reason for concern over government financing. Government bonds declined sharply toward latter part of last week, rallied on Saturday and dipped again today.

A meeting of treasury officials with the open market committee of the Federal Reserve Board to discuss September financing plans is still on the docket for next Friday.

A high treasury official said that the treasury's financing course is very flexible—that there are no maturities other than the weekly bill offerings in September and that the treasury could go very well until December without other financing.

Large Financing Problematical.

It had been expected that on Sept. 15, a quarterly financing date, the treasury would refund the 526 million dollars of 1⅜ per cent notes, due on Dec. 15, and raise an additional 500 to 750 million dollars in cash. But bond dealers have expressed doubts over such large scale financing if the market is weak.

The treasury considers itself in a favorable cash position, with a working balance of approximately one billion 645 million dollars on Aug. 25. It had cleared the decks for raising new money in September and December by refunding last June the September maturity of 426½ million dollars of 1⅜ per cent notes.

There is a heavy maturity next March 15—one billion 378 million dollars in 1⅜ per cent notes—and it is understood the fiscal authorities wished to distribute the financing burden as evenly as possible.

Need to Finance Deficit.

According to budget estimates the treasury will need to raise 3 billion 326 million dollars in new money this fiscal year to finance an estimated deficit of that amount. Tentative plans for this financing call for 2 billion 376 million dollars in market issues and 950 millions in special issues. However, these needs will be larger, as during the last session congress appropriated about 283 million dollars more for the current year than was anticipated in the President's budget.

Following are the alternatives faced by the treasury for its complete financing, as outlined by the treasury official:

1. Refunding of notes and raising of additional cash.
2. Refunding of notes and no new money.
3. Raising of new money through new issues and no refunding.
4. No financing.

Market to Determine Course.

The condition of the market will determine the course chosen, inasmuch as the financing needs are not urgent. If war should break out abroad, the treasury also feels that the present working balance will be ample for normal operations without new financing for the present.

The treasury was also pleased with the action of the British government yesterday in banning the sale of foreign securities owned by British nationals. It indicated to officials here an orderly liquidation of American holdings by the British government in the event that such holdings were needed for financing war supplies. This would prevent the dumping of an estimated billion dollars worth of British held stocks on American securities markets.

PAYMENT VOTED ON AM. ROLLING MILL ARREARS

Directors of American Rolling Mill company yesterday declared a dividend of $1.25 to reduce arrears on the 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock. The dividend is payable Oct. 16. Arrears on that date, with the new declaration taken into account, will total $4.37½ a share. The last payment on the stock was a quarterly payment of $1.12½ on July 15, 1938.

FOREIGN BANKS RAISE AMERICAN DEPOSITS 83 PCT. IN LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 [Special].—Foreign bank deposits in insured banks increased 83 per cent in the year ending June 30, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation announced today.

The increasingly large foreign bank balances here, held due in considerable measure to the tension in Europe, totaled $332,429,000 on June 30, 1938, $518,370,000 on Dec. 31, 1938, and $608,853,000 on June 30, 1939, according to the report issued by Leo T. Crowley, FDIC chairman. The figures show that foreign bank balances jumped by $96,483,000 in the six months ended June 30.

As of June 30 there were 13,569 insured commercial banks which reported total assets as of that date of $59,426,000,000, the highest ever reported to the FDIC. It was an increase of $5,957,000,000, or 9 per cent from the same date a year earlier.

Cash funds continued to increase and on June 30, 1939, amounted to $19,354,000,000, the highest figure on record, an increase for the year of $2,984,000,000, or 18 per cent.

RUSSIA BUYING MORE GASOLINE IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28 [Special].—Renewed purchases of California gasoline by soviet Russia were revealed during the last week at Los Angeles harbor with the departure of the tanker W. S. Miller for Vladivostok. The Standard Oil of California's new tanker was scheduled to arrive at the same port this morning with a 90,000 barrel cargo.

It was reported that the petroleum shipments are for distribution among Siberian inland military concentration points in the Amur river-Lake Baikal sector.

Standard oil officials denied rumors that their company had further commitments for Vladivostok cargoes, but from other sources it was learned that continued heavy movement of motor and aviation fuel from California to Siberia is in immediate prospect.

GREATER CHICAGO DRIVE REPORTED GETTING RESULTS

Chicago's drive to get new industries to locate within its borders is beginning to get results, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday.

The association, sponsor of the drive, said that the bus manufacturing division of the Gar Wood Industries, recently acquired by the General American Transportation company, will broaden its activities when it is moved here from Detroit. This latest addition to General American's activities will occupy a plant adjoining that of the Pressed Steel Car company at Hegewisch.

Another industry that will be located here is the Crown Steel Sales company, which is now in Hammond. After Sept. 15 the company will occupy a factory at 1259 East 74th street where it will give employment to fifty persons.

RAISE INSURANCE ON SHIPMENTS IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Aug. 28 [Special].—A new schedule of war risks insurance issued by London underwriters today increased premiums for the Mediterranean in some instances more than 100 per cent. Rates on shipments to the Black Sea and Australia also were changed. No quotations were posted for the Baltic trade or for Murmansk, soviet Russia. The rates excluded German and Italian ships.

For Mediterranean shipping, the rate was raised from 35 shillings a hundred pounds to 60 shillings and for the Black Sea from 40 to 80 shillings. The Munich peak for these was 100 shillings. For Australian shipments the outward rate has been placed at 60 shillings instead of 35 and for homeward bound voyages at 80 shillings instead of 40.

The increase was the second within a week.

Texas Extends Oil Shutdown to Next Friday

Austin, Tex., Aug. 28 (AP).—A two day extension of the Texas oil field shutdown was decided upon tonight after an all day session of the Texas railroad commission, which regulates the industry.

Commission Chairman Lon A. Smith said production would be resumed at 7 a. m. Friday.

Texas took the lead in declaring the original 15 day production holiday as a climax to a series of crude price slashes. The closing extended to five other states and closed nearly two-thirds of the nation's oil wells. The Texas shutdown originally was scheduled to end tomorrow night.

Interstate Group Meets.

Smith's anouncement was made after a meeting of the interstate oil compact commission, which attended the railroad commission hearing and heard testimony that crude oil stocks had been reduced materially since the fields were closed Aug. 15.

Smith said a new proration order to govern production after fields are reopened would be drawn between now and Friday.

Observers earlier had expressed doubt that other states would continue the shutdown longer than Texas, which normally yields about 40 per cent of the nation's petroleum.

BARNSDALL RESTORES PRICE.

With leaders in the petroleum industry in session at Austin, Tex., trying a find a way out of the chaotic oil situation, the crude price structure yesterday appeared to be improving. The Barnsdall Pipe Line company restored its former higher prices for crude oil purchased in the Corpus Christi area of Texas.

The Barnsdall action followed price restorations late last week by the Shell Oil company and the Skelly Oil company. It was the slashing of prices for crude oil that caused Texas and five other states to close their wells.

Barnsdall had cut its price 15 cents a barrel in the Corpus Christi area, where it buys about 15,000 barrels daily. The new price schedule calls for 77 cents a barrel for oil of 20 gravity or below and $1.23 for 40 gravity and above.

Illinois Warns Drillers.

Meanwhile, the Illinois department of mines and minerals warned oil operators in the state that they must obtain permits before starting drilling or deepening operations.

James McSherry, director of the department, said that many operators have been delaying the filing of applications for permits until after drilling operations have been started. He said this is a distinct violation of the law.

"Our department is prepared to cooperate in every way possible with the operators," he said. "Preparation of the permits is begun the day on which the application is received."

The fact that Illinois has no statutes which regulate the flow of oil from wells in this state has been a sore spot with the other large states producing oil. Illinois is the only large producing state which has no oil control law.

WHEAT HIGHER, BUT LOSES PART OF EARLY GAINS

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$0.68⅝	$0.67¼	$0.63⅛
Corn	.44¼	.43¼	.52½
Oats	.30⅝	.29⅝	.24
Rye	.39⅞	.39⅝	.42
Soy beans	.70	.69	.77½

Speculators were heavy buyers of grain futures in the early trading yesterday, but the war scare brought international trading in cash wheat and other commodities almost to a standstill.

Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade advanced as much as 2¾ cents a bushel at one time yesterday, with broad commission house and professional buying in evidence. The Winnipeg market was up more than 4 cents at the top.

Profit taking and evening up on the part of speculators who bought early brought about a decline from the high point. Closing trades on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅞ to 1½ cents higher.

Corn and Oats Advance.

Corn advanced 1 to 1½ cents and oats gained ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel. Winnipeg wheat was 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents higher. Liverpool wheat advanced ½ to 1⅝ cents a bushel in American currency.

International trading in wheat and other commodities was reported to be drastically restricted yesterday because of the violent fluctuations in foreign exchange and a further advance in war risk insurance rates. Exporters reported that it was impossible to sell foreign exchange for deferred delivery.

Liverpool reported that United States, Canadian, Argentine, and Australian exporters were not offering wheat for deferred shipment. Large emergency reserves of wheat and other commodities had been previously accumulated in many European countries as a safeguard against war and disorganization in the overseas trade.

Rumor Large Argentine Sale.

A rumor that the Argentine wheat board had sold all of its holdings of 112,000,000 bushels of wheat to the English and French governments attracted little attention. Speculators regarded the rumor as groundless. It was understood, however, that the Argentine board sold 20,000,000 bushels of cash wheat last week to exporters.

Speculative trading in European grain markets was at a minimum and prices were reported to be fluctuating wildly on small transactions on either side of futures.

Federal loans had been made on 57,500,000 bushels of 1939 crop wheat up to Aug. 23, it was reported yesterday. This is the first intimation that the trade has received as to the amount of grain going into the loan account. Approximately 55,000,000 bushels are held in country and terminal warehouses.

Trading Volume Doubles.

The war scare has more than doubled business on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Analysis of statistics on dealings in grain futures showed that more than 243,000,000 bushels of all types of grains changed hands during last week's rapid and wide price swings. This compared with only 103,808,000 bushels bought and sold the previous week and 152,678,000 the corresponding week a year ago.

Although there has been no change in clearing house margin requirements, some firms have increased their non-member margin rates for trades in grain.

The treasury department announced last night that the $100,000,000 of ninety-one day treasury bills dated Aug. 30 and offered Aug. 25 were sold at an average bid of 99.981. This was equivalent to borrowing at an interest rate of 0.076 per cent.

Other Nations Seek Copper in United States

Foreign nations continued to seek refined copper in American markets yesterday as the supply situation tightened abroad. At the same time it was reported the foreign cartel may remove all production restrictions on the large copper mining interests controled by its members.

The prospective cartel action will be a direct result of the feverish copper demand due to the armament race in Europe. This demand in recent weeks has forced member nations of the cartel to turn to the United States, which is not a member, to obtain their supplies. Present rules limit output to 105 per cent of so-called basic tonnages, a level established Aug. 16.

Poland Seeks 3,000 Tons.

Yesterday Poland was reported still attempting to buy 3,000 tons of copper in the United States, and English interests were also making inquiries. The extent of the business done was not learned. Independent domestic consumers also were buying more copper than recently.

American sellers refused to sell abroad on any basis other than cash dollars on delivery, since wide swings in the dollar-sterling rate made it almost impossible to determine the value of copper on any but a dollar basis. Prices ranged from 10.50 to 10.60 cents a pound, compared with 10.50 to 10.70 cents last Saturday. It was learned that Japan bought a substantial amount of American copper last Saturday in addition to the 1,500 ton purchase on Friday. New York futures dropped 0.04 to 0.09 cent a pound.

Cartel Sales Above Normal.

British rubber supplies declined another 5,097 tons last week, leaving 29,108 tons in warehouses in London and Liverpool. This is less than half the normal British rubber reserve, and is the lowest since September, 1937. New York rubber futures sank 0.06 to 0.19 cent a pound, and spot rubber lost 0.05 cent.

Tin extended its losses of last Friday with an additional slump of 0.65 to 0.75 cent a pound. In the last two trading sessions futures have declined nearly 2¾ cents. Spot tin, after dropping 0.55 cent a pound on Friday, lost another 0.25 cent yesterday.

Sugar Futures Firmer.

World sugar futures closed unchanged to 0.01½ cent a pound higher after being up as much as 0.05½ cent in mid-session. Foreign consumers have been forced to turn to Cuba and other sources for their supplies with the withdrawal of British export offers, and Spain was reported to have purchased 5,000 tons of Cuban sugar. Spot raw sugar at New York advanced 0.15 cent a pound. Domestic futures closed irregular.

In other commodities the trend was downward. Hide futures slumped 0.25 to 0.30 cent a pound to cancel half of last week's advance. Silk and coffee also were lower. Cottonseed oil and cocoa made small gains. Wool tops were irregular.

Pennsylvania Telephone Issues Fail to Draw Bids

New York, Aug. 28 [Special].—Investment banking houses abstained from submitting bids today for the $5,200,000 of first 3¼ per cent bonds and 46,292 shares of $2.25 preferred stock which the Pennsylvania Telephone corporation proposes to issue. It was generally presumed that the European crisis actuated underwriting firms to withhold commitments in a competitive bidding contest. Purposes of the financing is to redeem the outstanding 4s of 1965 at 105 and to refund the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

STOCKS WEAKEN AFTER GYRATING TO 'WAR' NEWS

Decline Early, Rally and Sag Again.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—The stock market recovered briskly this afternoon after early selling attributed to the confused European situation had forced prices 1 to about 4 points lower. However, fresh weakness cropped out in the late trading and the list closed fractions to a point lower.

At the finish fractional losses were the rule. Some leaders that had edged into the plus column by mid-afternoon weakened again and slipped behind minus signs.

Trading was limited, only 669,510 shares changing hands. Observers said this reflected the public's wariness because of the shifting tides in the "war of nerves" between Germany and the democracies.

Early News Causes Selling.

The early selling was ascribed to nervousness here over the temporary suspension of quotations on American securities on London. Contributing factors, it was said, were the reported British rejection of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's latest demands on Poland and Hitler's rejection of the French government's suggestion that Germany and Poland mediate directly on their differences.

Urgent covering on unconfirmed rumors of the likelihood of a "conference settlement" of the Polish question brought about the better tone, it was generally asserted.

Chrysler was one of the strongest issues of the day. After being more than 2 points lower at one time it surged ahead and closed 1 point higher. Bethlehem Steel replaced an early loss with a gain of ⅝ point.

Other Pivotal Stocks Lower.

After edging into the plus column United States Steel gave way again and closed fractionally lower. General Motors, United States Rubber, General Electric, Republic Steel, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, International Nickel and Goodyear also were active on the downside. Losses for these issues ranged from fractions to more than a point.

In the aviation group, Douglas and United Aircraft lost 1 and 1¼ points, respectively. Boeing, Glenn Martin and Sperry corporation dipped fractionally. Oils closed mostly fractionally lower, although Standard Oil company [New Jersey] held its own in active dealings.

Consolidated Edison was a weak spot in the utility section, losing 1⅝ points in fairly heavy supply. North American lost 1¼ points.

Other Utilities Weaker.

Electric Power and Light, Columbia Gas and Electric, Commonwealth Edison and Engineers Public Service dropped substantial fractions.

Railroad shares turned weak in line with the general list. New York Central, Santa Fe, Illinois Central, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific were modestly active and fractionally lower. Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio and Great Northern preferred lost more than a point apiece. Union Pacific slumped 4 points on 400 shares.

Among the "blue chips," American Telephone lost 4 points, du Post 2, and Union Carbide 2⅛ points.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 28 [Special].—German and Italian loans, closing fractionally to about 2 points lower, led another decline in foreign bonds yesterday. Polish bonds held firm and Japanese issues gained. United States treasuries lost about all of Saturday's advance in much lighter trading than prevailed last week.

Canadian and Australian dollar loans closed about 3 points lower. In active Latin American bonds declines averaged 1 point. Japan 6½s of 1954 jumped 3 points. Dealers attributed the gain to expectations that a conservative cabinet would be formed in Tokio. Rumors that England was continuing to support Poland were considered responsible for firmness in that country's obligations.

Corporate bonds displayed resistance to moderate selling. Gains of fractions to three points were recorded by International Hydro Electric, Firestone Tire, Bethlehem Steel, Nickel Plate, and Northern Pacific funds. Among those declining similar amounts were Commonwealth Edison, American and Foreign Power, International Telephone, and Western Union loans.

Chicago Stocks.

Most issues on the Chicago stock exchange turned lower yesterday in light trading. Commonwealth Edison, most active stock, lost ⅝ point at 29¼ on a turnover of 1,300 shares. Middle West, Noblitt-Sparks, and W. B. Jarvis were unchanged from Saturday's levels.

Chrysler was the lone issue showing an advance among the volume leaders. It closed 1 point higher at 78⅝. Marshall Field, Zenith Radio, Heilemann Brewing, Bendix, and Bliss and Laughlin declined fractionally.

The turnover totaled 18,000 shares. Of eighty-two issues traded, forty-four declined, seventeen advanced, and twenty-one closed unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank stock was bid 3 points lower in yesterday's trading. Chicago Title & Trust, City National and Continental Illinois were each bid one point lower.

ELECTRIC LINE WILL MODERNIZE 25 OF ITS CARS

North Shore Is Authorized to Make Outlay.

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad has been authorized by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to modernize twenty-five of its all steel passenger cars, Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer for the receiver, announced yesterday. The improvement is to cost $89,450 and work will be started at once in the company's shops at Highwood, Ill.

Bernard J. Fallon.

Of the twenty-five cars, ten will be used on the Skokie valley route between Chicago and Milwaukee, and fifteen will be used on the shore line division between Chicago and Waukegan. The improvements are expected to be completed before winter.

Plan Several Innovations.

Fallon said there will be a number of innovations in the cars that will add to the convenience of Chicago area commuters.

The present hot water heating systems will be removed and modern thermostatically controled electric heating and ventilating plants installed. The heating system will be divided into two parts. Under this system half the heat will be brought into the cars from along the sides and the other half will come from grilles along the top.

For ventilation, air will be drawn into the cars through screened ducts and forced over heaters and through distribution ducts by motor driven fans.

Will Install New Seats.

The lighting system will be improved and new seats will replace the present bucket type on the Chicago-Milwaukee trains. Seats for cars on the Waukegan run will be rebuilt and attractively recovered.

Each five cars will have a different decorative scheme, Fallon said. The exterior of the cars will be painted the new bluish-green recently adopted by the road.

"In planning the interiors," Fallon said, "we have had the advice not only of a noted interior decorator, but of many women, and it was their verdict that primarily led us in our choice of colors and upholstery."

HARVESTER COMPANY CHARGES EFFORTS TO FRIGHTEN WITNESSES

Attorneys for the International Harvester company, charging that their witnesses had been coerced and intimidated, asked yesterday that the company's case before the national labor relations board be declared a mistrial.

Their motion was based on the alleged distribution at the company's West Pullman works of a pamphlet, signed with the initials of the C. I. O. local, urging employés not to testify for the company. The hearing is being conducted by C. W. Whittemore, NLRB examiner, on charges brought by the C. I. O. that the company fostered independent unions in six of its plants and discriminated against C. I. O. affiliates.

Examiner Whittemore took the company's motion under advisement and indicated that he will return his ruling when the case is resumed today. He will also rule, he indicated, on other motions by company attorneys that testimony given by C. I. O. witnesses at previous hearings be stricken from the record.

RAILS' 7 MONTHS REVENUE TWICE YEAR AGO LEVEL

Equals 1.66 Per Cent Annual Return.

Net railway operating income of American railroads for the first seven months of this year totaled $214,762,841, compared with $109,616,765 in the corresponding 1938 period, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. Net operating income is income before provision for bond interest and other fixed charges.

The 1939 income represented an annual return of 1.66 per cent on the property investment, compared with 0.85 per cent in the 1938 period, the association said.

Gross Revenues Rise.

Gross operating revenues for the first seven months of this year totaled $2,136,562,408, against $1,935,656,766 in the 1938 period. Operating expenses totaled $1,642,706,254, against $1,533,760,919.

July net operating income amounted to $49,011,915, compared with $38,431,251 in July, 1938.

Of the nation's 140 class I railroads twenty-seven in the first seven months failed to earn even their operating expenses and taxes, the association said.

ELECTRIC OUTPUT RISES.

Production of electricity by the Northern States Power company system in the week ended Aug. 26, 1939, was 27,421,664 kilowatt hours, an increase of 8.3 per cent over the comparable week of last year.

JULY PORK, LARD EXPORTS HIGHEST FOR FIVE YEARS

Nearly Double Volume of Year Ago.

Foreign nations were heavy buyers of American pork and lard in July, the regular monthly foreign trade report of the department of commerce disclosed yesterday. Exports of both pork and lard from the United States were the largest for any July in five years, showing increases of 81 per cent and 96 per cent, respectively, over the corresponding month last year.

America shipped out a total of 25,338,962 pounds of lard in July, raising the seven month export total to 166,016,233 pounds. This compared with lard exports of 12,881,137 in July last year and a four year average of 7,932,321 pounds. The seven month lard export volume last year was 118,692,384 pounds.

16 Million Pounds Exported.

July exports of pork, exclusive of lard, totaled 16,883,883 pounds, compared with 9,305,402 pounds in July, 1938, and with a four year average of 8,105,000 pounds. The seven month pork export volume was 78,905,252 pounds, compared with 56,057,145 pounds a year earlier.

The excess of exports over imports for the American pork trade was the largest for any month since November, 1934, as a result of the sharp increase in sales abroad, the department of commerce figures showed. Packers sold 12,019,738 pounds more pork abroad than was imported into the United States during July. During June the margin was 10,610,439 pounds. In July last year sales were 4,561,800 pounds more than the imports, and two years ago they were 2,247,095 pounds less than the imports.

July Pork Imports Rise.

July pork imports were larger than in June and slightly above the July imports last year, but the seven month imports fell below the totals for the 1938 and 1937 seven month periods. During the month the United States received 4,864,145 pounds of pork from other counties, compared with 4,743,602 pounds a year ago. The seven month total at 31,868,515 pounds compared with 33,084,376 in the corresponding 1938 period. The seven month imports were 47,036,737 pounds behind the export volume this year and 22,972,769 pounds below a year ago.

COTTON BREAKS DOLLAR A BALE ON SELLING WAVE

Report Foreigners Are Liquidating.

Heavy selling of cotton futures, attributed to foreign interests and hedging sales by the south, resulted in a decline of more than a dollar a bale in American markets at one time yesterday. Liquidation induced by the war scare was also a factor in the break, which left closing prices down .19 to .25 cent a pound. Wall street interests were reported to have sold following the downward slant in security prices.

Mills Buy Futures.

Mills bought cotton futures on the way down, but outside trading was restricted as the result of the European situation. Egypt is reported to have placed an embargo on the exportation of cotton goods.

High war risk insurance rates are checking export sales of British cotton goods, it was reported. Foreign interest in cotton is said to be much restricted because forward sterling and rupee exchange is unobtainable since British stabilization fund support was withdrawn.

Spot Staple Lower.

Spot cotton closed .16 to .22 cent lower, with New York, 8.82 cents; New Orleans, 8.80 cents; Galveston, 8.56 cents, and Houston at 9.63 cents a pound. Prices follow:

NORTH WESTERN WOULD PAY CASH FOR 19 NEW CARS

Charles M. Thomson, trustee for the North Western railway, yesterday asked Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward for authority to pay cash for the purchase of nineteen streamlined passenger cars to be used on the road's new "400." A diner to be used on this train, which runs between Chicago and the Twin Cities, would be paid for under a 1937 equipment trust certificate which has not been fully utilized.

Thomson said that it was originally planned to finance the new equipment, which will replace the conventional equipment used on the present "400," by the issue of equipment trust certificates which would also provide for the payment of 800 freight cars. Delay in placing the order for the freight cars made this arrangement impractical.

The North Western would take delivery of the new passenger cars about Sept. 15. The cost is about $1,400,000, not including two Diesel electric locomotives which already have been placed in service. Judge Woodward continued the hearing until tomorrow.

HOGS AND PORK CONTINUE RISE IN ALL MARKETS

Many traders continued to regard war reports from Europe as a bullish factor in the market for hogs. In their opinion as long as there are prospects of war breaking out there will be a good demand for pork products from nations building up reserve meat stocks. Buying during recent months by such nations have been the heaviest in five years.

Sharp price gains in fresh pork as well as further advances in the lard market resulted in the liveliest competition in many months for hogs at the Chicago stock yards in closing trades yesterday.

Other classes of live stock also advanced. Most steers and yearlings sold 10 to 15 cents over last week's close, with some 25 cents higher.

Slaughter lambs met good demand at strong to 15 cents higher prices, a few loads selling 25 cents above the week's close. The $8.65 top was highest since Aug. 16. Old sheep held steady.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 63 PCT. RATE THIS WEEK

Operations in the steel industry this week are scheduled at a two-year peak of 63 per cent, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This is a gain of 0.8 points, or 1.3 per cent, over the institute's estimate for last week. The previous high was in the week of Oct. 11, 1937, when operations were at 63.6 per cent of capacity.

A month ago the industry was operating at 59.3 per cent of capacity, and a year ago the rate was 44 per cent.

Buffalo district operations reached a two-year high when Bethlehem Steel added its twentieth open hearth furnace, leaving only one hearth in the firm's No. 2 department idle. The district rate now stands at 63 per cent.

Egg Contracts Advance; Butter Futures Higher

Eggs for delivery in October moved up 0.20 cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Prospects of better demand for storage eggs inspired the rise, traders said. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation bought 115,000 dozens of fresh eggs in Chicago and New York. November butter finished 0.10 cent a pound higher. Private interests were reported showing more inclination to purchase cash butter. The day's buying by the federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association totaled 717,000 pounds in the two major

ORDERLY MONEY MARKET PLANNED IN EVENT OF WAR

New York, Aug. 28 [Special.]—About seventy representative banks, brokers, and dealers actively interested in foreign exchange met today at the federal reserve bank with the foreign exchange committee organized last week, in the interests of an orderly market in the event of war in Europe.

The committee outlined aims in curbing speculations in foreign exchange. In its efforts to preserve an orderly market in the event of hostilities in Europe, the committee will act as a liaison group between the foreign exchange market and the federal reserve authorities.

The representatives were asked to keep close watch on any attempts of speculators to participate in the market whether operating from the United States or abroad. In this connection it is believed that in the event of war, the London and Paris markets would automatically be regulated by their respective governments.

ASSERTS INSURED LOSE BY FAILURE TO READ POLICIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28 (AP).—A federal monopoly subcommittee today heard testimony that many holders of small insurance policies never bother to read them and lose insurance values as a result.

Alexander M. Schwartz, insurance adviser in the District of Columbia public assistance division, was the witness.

The subcommittee also heard general testimony regarding the operation of industrial insurance programs from Michael H. Cardozo IV., Securities and Exchange commission insurance expert, and Henry B. Sutphin, vice president in charge of industrial insurance for the Prudential Life Insurance Company of America.

Sutphin testified his company has 20,700,000 industrial policies in force, totaling $7,600,000,000.

Largest Sales Meeting in Nash's History Opens

Nearly 3,000 dealers, distributors, and salesmen of the Nash Motors division of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation opened their annual sales meeting yesterday at the Stevens hotel. The meeting yesterday was the largest in the history of the company. George W. Mason, president, was among the factory officials who outlined sales plans for the 1940 model year.

N. Y. EXCHANGE TO HELP BRITAIN IN SECURITY BAN

Prepares to Co-operate in Preventing Sales.

New York, Aug. 28 [Special].—New York Stock exchange officials were preparing today to coöperate in the execution of Great Britain's order of yesterday forbidding British nationals to sell their foreign securities without government permission.

The British order instructed nationals to file a report with the Bank of England within thirty days showing their holdings of securities on which dividends, interest or principal are payable in the currencies of nine countries, including the United States.

Step Toward Conscription.

The purpose of England's step was understood to be to "freeze" the holdings in British hands so that the government can conscript them, if necessary, to get funds to buy war supplies in foreign countries. In a similar action during the world war, holders of securities were given treasury notes in their stead. The notes bore 2 per cent interest and entitled the holders to buy British war loan securities at par.

In connection with the New York exchange's preparations to coöperate, it was said an order on procedure probably will be prepared and sent either to the few large brokerage firms that handle most of the foreign security business or to the general membership of the exchange.

Holdings Set at 16 Billion.

At the end of 1937, Sir Robert Kindersley, British authority on England's overseas investments, estimated that British investors held foreign securities with a value of 3,353,000 pounds sterling which, at par of exchange, would be $16,300,000,000.

No breakdown was submitted by Sir Robert to show the scattered locations of this money, but some $2,000,000,000 of it is believed to be in the United States in the form of direct investments, bank balances and earmarked gold.

If war comes, Britain, it is expected, will set up here an agency to liquidate its securities as cash is needed for purchases, and thus the securities market would be saved from any sudden wholesale liquidation that would demoralize prices.

Approve $54,700,000 Issue by Colorado Public Service

A proposed issue of securities totaling approximately $54,700,000 by the Public Service Company of Colorado was approved yesterday by the Securities and Exchange commission. The securities consist of $4,000,000 4 per cent debentures of 1949, and $2,190,000 par value common stock.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by HOMER NEISZ

Aug. 28, 1939.

Pastures Green Again.

PASTURES at the Du Page county farm are greening up rapidly since soaking rains last week softened the ground and supplied plenty of moisture. Some of the pastures were getting short. Much of the pasture land became dry and hard during the first part of this month when rains were light over a period of about three weeks.

Bluegrass that had been dry and brown is green again. The semi-dormant period for bluegrass was shorter than usual this summer because of the good growing season and the relatively short period of dry weather.

Cattle Well Supplied.

It is not uncommon for bluegrass pastures to be short for several weeks when the weather is hot and dry. This is the chief disadvantage of bluegrass in this region as a pasture crop.

The beef cattle and sheep have had plenty of good pasture all summer. They have run in clover and alfalfa meadows much of the time since hay harvest. The meadows have furnished more pasture than the animals could graze.

Much of the alfalfa now is higher than when the second crop of hay was cut. The men have considered taking a third cutting of hay from the fields that made the rankest growth.

Pastures for the dairy cows have been short, but they have started growing out again. None of the legume pastures are convenient to the dairy barn and the cows have been kept on bluegrass pastures all summer. The cows have been fed corn silage to help offset the short pastures.

Good Year for Crops.

This has been a good year for pastures and cultivated crops alike. Pastures have held up better than usual and apparently will furnish an abundance of fall grazing. There was more white clover in pastures at the farm this summer than ever before. White clover makes good pasture for cattle and sheep.

The lambs now are being pastured on soy beans. The beans were planted for hay in a field near the sheep barn, but the abundance of hay cut from the regular meadows made it unnecessary to use the soy beans for hay. The lambs will be put back on clover pasture later and the soy beans plowed under for a green manure crop.

Plan to Sow Rye.

The present plan is to plow the soy beans under in time to sow rye for pasture this fall. Part of the field is sloping and there would be danger of the soil washing during the winter if plowed and left in the rough. Rye that is sown early sometimes furnishes grazing in the fall and again the next spring and then matures a crop of grain.

Part of the silage corn may be cut early enough this year to sow rye in time for fall pasture. Corn is maturing about two weeks earlier than us

BROKERAGE BANK FOR EXCHANGE FIRMS OPPOSED

Board to Ask Mutual Fund to Protect Public.

New York, Aug. 28 [Special].—Imposition of a service charge on all accounts carried by stock exchange firms will be recommended by the public examining board headed by Roswell Magill, it was reported in Wall street today.

The board is expected to publish on Friday or early next week its report advising against the adoption of the brokerage bank, as recommended by Jerome N. Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Propose Five Million Fund.

Instead of the brokerage bank it is now reported that the board will recommend creation of a mutual guaranty fund of from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000, which would be used to pay off, up to that amount, any losses suffered by the public in event of the failure of a member firm.

Losses above the amount of the fund would not be made good by the exchange. No method of raising the fund, it is said, was included in the report, but it was said that it could be set up in the manner of the stock clearing fund.

No Action on Segregation.

The same sources said that the board would not make any recommendations about the segregation of securities held in safe keeping or the segregation of customers' credit balances.

It was thought that the exchange later would consider as a separate question whether firms which take underwriting commitments should segregate the capital used for this phase of their business from that used in their brokerage business.

Ninety per cent of the report, it was said, would be given over to arguments that the brokerage bank proposed by Frank would not be feasible.

KOKOMO HOUSING PROJECT BEGUN DESPITE LAWSUIT

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 28 [Special].—Ground was broken today for the $705,000 federal housing center for low-income families here despite the fact that a suit for an injunction to halt the program is pending in the Howard Circuit court.

The Superior Construction company of Gary began preparations to build foundations for the twenty-three buildings after the United States Housing authority ordered the work to proceed. Property owners living in the vicinity of the project have battled it all summer, charging that the local housing authority promised to build single units and then changed its plans to apartment structures.

WHO INSURES YOU?

I noticed recently that you stated accounts in federal savings and loan associations were insured up to $5,000. Is this a governmental insurance similar to that on money deposited in banks?—L. K.

Answer: Neither bank deposits nor federal savings and loan deposits are insured by the United States government.

Deposits in banks are insured up to $5,000 for each account by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. The stock of this corporation was subscribed for jointly by the federal government and the federal reserve banks.

Deposits in federal savings and loan associations are insured up to $5,000 for each account by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation. The original capital of this corporation was furnished by the government.

The insurance is an obligation of these two corporations, not of the government. The United States government is not committed legally to give aid to these corporations should they be unable to meet their obligations. Such aid might be given, but it is not mandatory.

From the number of letters we have received lately on savings and loan associations it would appear that there is a growing interest in these organizations. We have prepared a report on such associations which we will be glad to send to those who request it.

ALL THROUGH.

I hold five shares of National Electric Power 6 per cent preferred stock purchased about 10 years ago. This company stopped making dividend payments on the stock about 1930. I am anxious to learn the approximate value and future prospects for the stock.—F. L.

Answer: The stock became valueless in 1933.

"SELLER 15."

I frequently notice on the ticker tape the expression "seller 15" after the recording of a transaction in some stock. What does this expression mean?—G. C.

Answer: The expression "seller 15" means that the seller has 15 days in which to deliver the stock. Sellers may make transactions of this type as long as the time does not exceed 60 days. Stock sold in such a manner usually sells at a somewhat lower price than stock sold without a delivery time specification.

Commonwealth's rate is less on all loans than the maximum rate permitted by law. You do not have to be an "executive" or have a "special" credit standing to qualify for OUR reduced rate. Commonwealth's monthly rate of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balance above applies to ALL TYPES AND CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THE SAME RATE. Of course, persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter, or telephone will receive immediate attention.

Hitler Will Reply to Britain—London Note Backs Poland—Nazis Are Given Chance to Bargain

Throngs jammed boats sailing from Dieppe, France, for England yesterday, many of them sitting in lifeboats to make passage. Among passengers were many Americans.
[Acme Telephoto: Sent from London by radio.] (Story on page 3.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto.] (Story on page 1.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent from London by cable.]
School children emerging from building with teacher in London yesterday, each carrying a gas mask in rehearsal of air raid precautions. Similar scenes took place throughout the country at an appointed time. New defense regulations were put in force in England. (Story on page 1.)

In event of war, the British navy is believed capable of closing Skagerak, part of the channel from the North sea to the Baltic, and bottling up the German navy, even to the extent of maintaining a water passage to Poland. The black line from London to Poland marks established steamer lane, over which troopships might pass. (Story on page 7.)
